CARDS OUST BILL M'KECHNIE

BILLY SOUTHWORTH

Former Pirate outfielder, Billy Southworth has been named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals for next season, succeeding Bill McKechnie, of Wilkinsburg, deposed despite the fact that he won the National League pennant with the St. Louis club in his first season at the helm this year. Southworth, 34, will be the youngest manager in the major leagues.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—Billy Southworth, former Pirate outfielder and idol of St. Louis baseball fans when he played here with the Cardinals in 1926 and 1927, today was named to succeed William B. McKechnie, of Pittsburgh, as manager of the Cardinals in 1929.

President Sam Breadon, of the Cardinals, who made the announcement after a conference with Southworth at the Cardinals' office this morning, stated that McKechnie would be retained as manager of the Rochester Red Wings of the International League, taking over the post filled by Southworth during the past season. The Rochester club is owned by the local National League club.

The popularity of Southworth in St. Louis fandom was reflected in a newspaper straw vote for the Cardinal managerial position. Southworth polled 937 votes to McKechnie's 313.

This is the second time that McKechnie has received his release as a reward for winning a pennant. He piloted the Cards to a National League championship last season and was released by the Pittsburgh Pirates after bringing that club home in front in 1925.

Southworth was a Pirate in the seasons of 1918, 1919 and 1920, and he later played with the Braves and Giants before coming here.

RUM WITNESS HELD FOR CHANGING TESTIMONY

Repudiation by Fred Nusskern, 38, of 1962 Lowry street, in testimony given today in the North Side rum conspiracy trial of testimony which he gave the grand jury led to his arrest on a charge of perjury.

When he appeared before the grand jury, Nusskern, a former saloonkeeper, is alleged to have testified he bought whisky from Thomas Johnson, one of the 46 defendants in the case now on trial. Today he told the trial jury he did not know from whom he obtained the liquor.

Joseph A. Frayne, assistant federal prohibition administrator, promptly swore out a warrant for Nusskern's arrest, and he was taken into custody shortly after he had left the witness stand.

Bail was fixed at $3,000. Nusskern was unable to furnish it, but was hopeful of getting a bondsman later.

Revelations of traffic in booze on the North Side continued today as the government drive against the alleged North Side conspiracy ground on. They dealt mainly with conditions in the Twenty-fourth Ward, the last of the five North Side wards declared strongholds of the rum ring.

More attention was paid by Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith to the traffic in beer and he sought to draw a distinction between the kinds of beer dispensed. Particularly he drew attention to "near beer" purchased at $40 or $45 a barrel, and "near beer" bought for $13 or $14 a barrel.

TELL OF MONOPOLIES

The racket in the Twenty-third Ward, gone into at length yesterday, was also described. Witnesses, many unable to make themselves understood because of their unfamiliarity with the English lan-

WOMAN FURNISHES HOT ROTHSTEIN TIP

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Ruth Keyes, blonde "free lance model," from Chicago, today revived police hope for solution of the Rothstein murder mystery.

A spokesman for the police department announced that the police were positive they knew who murdered Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, in Park Central Hotel here on the night of November 4.

The man, it was said, was a notorious gunman with a criminal record, including one arrest for murder. He himself was shot.

IDENTIFIES TWO

The announcement was made after the return to headquarters of detectives who had attended the questioning of Mrs. Keyes in District Attorney Banton's office. It was learned that she had identified the suspect as one of the three men she had seen in the room where the murder occurred.

From Mrs. Keyes it was learned that George McManus, for whom the police have been searching, was one of the men seen by the woman in the room long before the shooting. The other two, it was said, were gunmen.

After questioning Mrs. Keyes for an hour and 15 minutes today,

CRASH LEADS TO WAR ON 1-MAN TROLLEYS

Plans for mass meetings at which protests will be made against the use of one-man cars on the Homestead Park line were under way today while officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company were probing the cause of the street car collision in Homestead yesterday which caused injury to 50 persons, most of them women and girls.

Fourteen of the victims were still confined today to the Homestead Hospital, three of them in a serious condition. The three whose injuries are regarded as more serious are Mrs. John Lewis, 40, of 154 West Fifth avenue; Mrs. Mary Zakrzewski, 30, of 1606 Martha street, Munhall, and Wilmore Hobson, 28, a Negro, of 1211 Glenn street, Homestead. Mrs. Zakrzewski and Hobson both suffered fractured skulls. Mrs. Lewis had both legs broken and is suffering shock.

The major accident committee of the railways company is conducting the company's investigation and is chiefly concerned with determining whether the air pressure

Short Aerial To Be Tried By WCAE

In an effort to meet the reception difficulties experienced since the reassignment of wave lengths, radio station WCAE will broadcast its programs tonight from a new special short aerial.

The new aerial, the management of the station hopes, will so improve reception of WCAE programs that the deluge of complaints which WCAE has been receiving will be stopped.

The short aerial experiment is the station's last effort to handle its problem alone before appealing to the Federal Radio Commission for a change of its wave length.

FIRST MATE TELLS PROBE OFFICERS IGNORED ORDERS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Admission that officers aboard the liner Vestris refused to obey orders in the danger hours preceding the liner's sinking, was made on the witness stand today by Robert Johnson, chief officer and next in command to the captain of the ill-fated ship.

Johnson testified at the government inquiry into the disaster which is running at the federal building concurrently with the steamship inspection service quiz at the customs house.

ORDERS IGNORED

Squirming about in his chair under a severe cross-fire of questions from United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, the witness insisted he did all he could to stop leaks and prevent the inrush of water into the listing and sinking ship.

Q.—(By Tuttle)—Was there an officer detailed to each lifeboat?

A.—Yes.

Q.—We have had testimony that few officers were in the boats? Why?

A.—They wouldn't go.

Indicating his amazement at Officer Johnson's statement, Tuttle said:

"Didn't you control your officers?"

"Well," replied Johnson hesitatingly, "the boats were lowered. I said to them to get in them. They wouldn't get in. What would you do?"

Pressed for an explanation why the officers were not in the boats, Johnson replied he "couldn't go around and look for them." He was "too busy."

Q—Was there any general call to man the lifeboats?

A—No.

Q—Why not?

There was no answer.

Johnson could not explain why the women and children were left sitting in lifeboats dangling over the port side for nearly two hours. He "wasn't on that side." He insisted that in spite of all the trouble aboard the ship the captain never discussed the calling for assistance before 10 a. m., Monday.

TELL OF LEAKS

J. B. Dovalle, associated with the Brazilian consulate in New York and a survivor of the Vestris disaster, testified at the Department of Commerce inquiry today that the port hole of his third-class cabin had leaked continuously after the liner ran into bad weather on Sunday, November 12, the day before she went down with a loss of more than 100 lives.

United States inspectors reported that the British liner was seaworthy

BIG BREAK IN PRICES HALTS 'BULL' MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Wide open breaks in some of the high-priced stocks brought the "bull" movement on the New York Stock Exchange to a dramatic halt just before the close of today's market.

With the ticker more than an hour late, Radio broke from an early high of $379 to $315 and Montgomery Ward from $418 to $400.

Current prices were anybody's guess, especially for such active issues as Radio which climbed on back to 364, after pausing at 352 on the uptrail from the day's low point.

MANY SHOW LOSSES

Other issues showed little or no recuperative powers, and losses generally ranged from $2 to $10 per share. Curtiss Aero sold off $7, Johns-Manville $10, Woolworth $5.75, Packard $3.25, Pan-American "B" $3, Sears-Roebuck $6, Bethlehem Steel $3.75 and General Electric, New York Central, Greene Cananea Copper and other leading issues about $4 each. Wright Aero, after having touched $227, sold down to $217, and then came back to $221.

Total sales of stock in the first four hours of tape time ran above 3,700,000 shares, and the day's total ran above the 6,000,000-share mark.

RELIEVE TICKER

Officials of the Stock Exchange announced today that a consignment of 60 special Western Union telegraph printers had been shipped from Chicago on the Twentieth Century Limited today for installation in the offices of New York newspapers and press associations to carry the sales totals of individual stocks which will be dropped from the ticker. Installation of the machines will begin soon after their arrival tomorrow morning, but until they are ready the stock sales will be printed on the bond ticker hourly, being interspersed with the bond quotations.

TEACHERS' SALARIES INCREASE IS URGED

Salaries of teachers in Pittsburgh's public schools will be increased, and opportunity offered specially able instructors to earn higher pay than their colleagues, by a plan submitted to the Board of Public Education yesterday by the Citizens' Committee on Teachers' Salaries.

The scheme provides for maximum salaries automatically attainable by length of service, and for still higher salaries to be won by merit only.

The committee consisting of 40 well-known leaders in Pittsburgh's commercial, industrial and professional life, headed by A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company, has given a year of study to the problem. It has had the assistance of an advisory board composed of Thomas E. Finegan, formerly state superintendent of public instruction; Herbert S. West, superintendent of schools at Rochester, N. Y., and John W. Withers, dean of the school of education of New York University. Dr. Charles Reitell, of the University of Pittsburgh, has served as the committee's director of research.

To become operative the proposed salary schedules must be accepted by the Board of Public Education and enacted into law by the State Legislature.

"EPOCH IN SCHOOLS"

Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Education, promised sympathetic consideration. He praised the committee's report as "epoch-making in the history of public education and greatest single contribution ever made to the cause by a group of laymen anywhere."

The proposed salary increases will not go fully into effect until after six years. During the first year in which they are in operation they will call for an addition of $400,000 to the total amount paid the teachers, and in the sixth year for an addition of $758,000. This will be an increase of about nine per cent in the amount of the payroll, and will call for an increase of about three-fourths of one mill in the school tax levy.

Four principles were treated by the committee as fundamental in making their recommendations:

(1) Superior service should be rewarded.

(2) Salaries should meet living costs.

(3) Principals' salaries should

The Sky for Limit.
C. E. Mitchell Buys.
Crossing America.
Fair Play for Cuba.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

"THE sky is the limit, and we are not there yet," seems to be the motto of Wall Street.

There are revelations of value, as when General Motors or Du Pont show that earnings have increased by tens of millions, and such things drown the voice of conservation, crying in the wilderness.

Somebody bought nearly seven million shares of stock yesterday.

THIS country has really A GREAT DEAL OF MONEY and that keeps things going up.

New York City yesterday wanted to borrow $55,000,000 at 4½ per cent.

The issue was oversubscribed, more than three times. President Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, bought all of the $55,000,000, paying a premium of $461,959.45. This may indicate cheaper money, and that would mean more boom.

MR. MITCHELL foresees what is going to happen. He made tens of millions for his bank buying Liberty bonds, when other financiers didn't think they were worth par.

AN intelligent young Irishman traveling for information and opportunity asks, "In leaving New York to travel as far as the Pacific, which way would you go?"

There are many good answers to that question.

You could go through the Panama Canal and realize that Uncle Sam can do things worth doing.

You could go down through beautiful New Orleans, taking the Southern Pacific to Los Angeles, get an idea of the Gulf states, one of the country's richest regions.

You could go through Arizona, New Mexico, over the Santa Fe or the Rock Island.

Or go over the Rocky Mountains to San Francisco by the Union Pacific.

THE inquiring young man is advised to take the northern trip from Chicago to Seattle, see that wonderful city and the great state of Washington, turn north and cross the border to Vancouver, in the land of our Canadian cousins. He should then go

BALLOTS GONE, BOX EMPTY

What became of the ballots cast at the recent election in the Second District, Second Ward, McKees Rocks?

Five members of the election board and Night Capt. Charles Ashton, of the McKees Rocks police, were haled before Judges Richard W. Martin and T. D. Carnahan in court today in an effort to clear the mystery of the empty ballot box, found yesterday in the office of Justice of the Peace J. J. Westwood. The box had been ordered brought in by the returning board after irregularities had been discovered in returns.

Ashton and Patrolman Paul Thomas, who was judge of election, testified that Ashton had taken the box to the police station after the votes had been counted election night, and placed it in a cell, which was locked. The contents of two boxes in the polling place had been placed in one box, they said. The next day the box was removed to the office of Justice Westwood, where it remained until yesterday. No one could tell how the box became empty.

No one had access to the ballot box of the Second District while it was in the police station, Ashton said, except Night Sergt. R. J. Daugherty, who is relieved at 7 a. m. by John Sunderland.

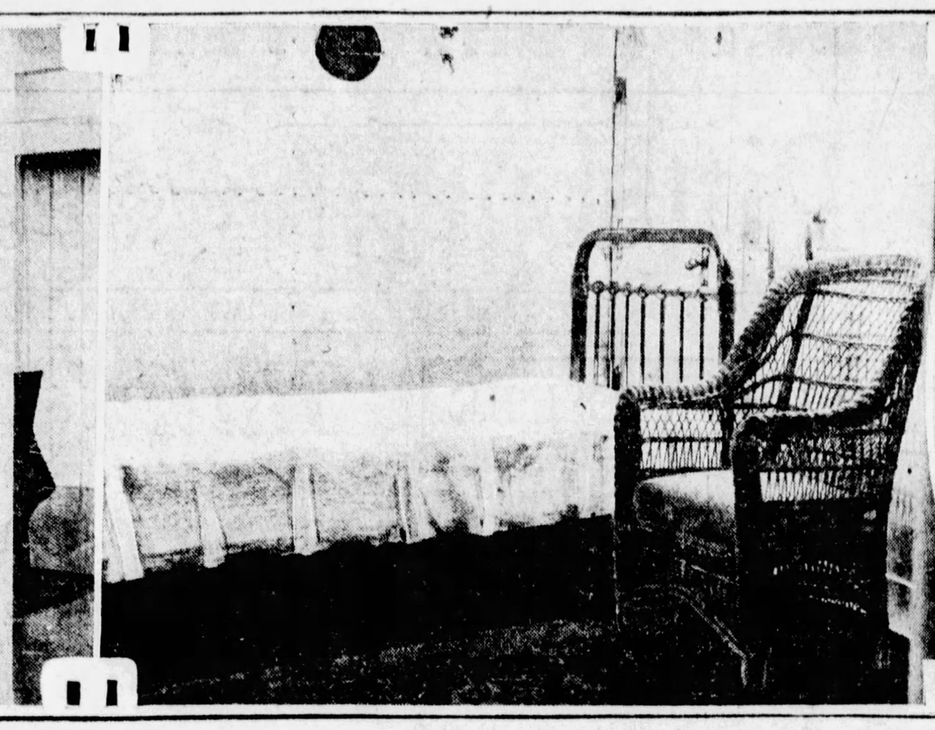
HOOVER LIVES IN SIMPLE QUARTERS ON GOOD WILL SHIP

SAILING SOUTHWARD

Today finds President-elect Herbert Hoover far out at sea in the USS. Maryland, pride of the United States Navy, bound for South America on a long tour.

ROOM IN WHICH HOOVER DINES

In this plain room aboard the Maryland, Mr. Hoover has his meals today with the chief officers of the vessel and the United States diplomats who accompany him in his efforts to carry the good will of this nation to its smaller Latin sister countries.



A PRESIDENT'S BED-CHAMBER

This is the bed-chamber of the quarters set aside aboard the Maryland for the use of Mr. Hoover during his southbound voyage. The USS. Utah has been overhauled at Brooklyn Naval Yard and today is almost ready to sail under orders to bring the President-elect back to the United States at the conclusion of his good will tour. He will have similar accommodations aboard the Utah.

HOOVER'S PILOT

This man, Capt. Russell Train, is commander of the USS. Utah and in his hands will rest the safety of the President-elect on the return voyage, weeks from now.

before she left on her last voyage, yet members of the crew told Federal Commissioner O'Neill yesterday that various ports through which the sinking ship took water had been out of repair.

This testimony was given by Gilbert Ford, chief fireman; Isaac James Scott and Thomas Connor, waiters.

'50 LEAKS UNREPAIRED

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and nautical experts dissecting the inquiry, also had before them testimony of the three members of the crew that the liner had [illegible] four previous voyages had been [illegible] than 50 the statements of three inspectors, made under oath in the customs house before a board representing the United States Department of Commerce, that they had made a thorough, four-day inspection of the Vestris just before her last voyage and found her seaworthy. They also denied charges that they had been drinking during the inspection.

ADMITS LAXITY

It was admitted, however, by Capt. Edward W. Keane, assistant inspector of hulls, that his inspection of six of the 14 coal ports on the Vestris had been superficial. Coal stored in the bunkers had blocked his approach to the ports, he said, and he had merely examined them from a distance with a flashlight.

The Department of Commerce inquiry was resumed shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. The first witness was James Duffy, a newspaper reporter who interviewed Frederick Sorenson, one of the survivors. Duffy refuted the denial made by Sorenson on the stand yesterday to the effect that Duffy and other newspaper men had misquoted him. Duffy insisted that Sorenson had charged the captain of the Vestris and the crew with "criminal negligence." The disputed interview was given by Sorenson aboard the rescue ship American Shipper. John McLain, another reporter, yesterday testified that the interview as printed was true.

BLACKMER QUIZ ON IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(A.P.)—Henry Blackmer, a Teapot Dome witness, who has been in Europe since that inquiry started, appeared before a French court today in connection with the demand of the United States government for his extradition on charges of making false income tax returns.

He was not questioned on the facts of the case, but was subjected only to what, in French procedure, is termed "the interrogatory as to identity." Mr. Blackmer's next appearance is scheduled for next week, when the evidence in the case will be examined by the court. After that the court will decide whether it will recommend the granting or denying of the United States extradition request.

Nun Killed; Student Badly Hurt In Crash

MAISON, Wis., Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Sister M. Imelda, Milwaukee nun registered as a student at the University of Wisconsin, is dead, and Wilbur Koch, a mechanical engineering student, is in a critical condition here today following an automobile accident near the university last night.

Koch, driver of the car, failed to see the nun as she stepped off the curb into the street.

Sister Imelda was registered in the letters and science course and belonged to the Order of The Lady Sorrowful Mother from Condadarburg, Milwaukee.

Nuggets Panned in Probe Of Booze Ring Pay Dirt

The "Royal Club," at 1720 East street, was not adorned extravagantly.

"It was what you would call a club," testified its proprietor, Edward Keller.

"How many members?" Government Counsel Ralph H. Smith wanted to know.

"Well, I was president."

"You were the club, eh?"

"Yes," there were membership cards, but the public could enter by rapping on the door. If I knew them," said Keller. The "club" consisted of a small room, containing a bar, on the street floor, and dispensed only "moon" at 25 cents a "shot," 50 cents a half pint and $1 a pint. He bought the "moon" from a "Whitey" at $4 a gallon until Thomas C. Johnson, Jr., one of the defendants, came, and from then on he paid Johnson $6 a gallon, Keller said. He declared he was closed up after he testified before the grand jury.

The testimony of witnesses is so difficult to hear and understand that a demand has been created for amplifiers in the courtroom. Many witnesses are of foreign birth and speak broken English. Opposing counsel constantly ask for repetition of testimony. Judge R. M. Gibson frequently rebukes the witnesses and once told a witness, "You need a megaphone."

One of the unanswered questions born at the Federal rum trial is this: When is beer good beer—and who shall decide?

John Knight, of the Allegheny City Gymnasium Club, where much of the exercise amounted to crooking the right arm and tilting back a small glass, was asked about it by Government Prosecutor Smith.

"What do you mean," Smith asked, "by 'good beer?'"

Defense Counsellor Prichard objected strenuously. What scientific knowledge had Knight that he would know good beer—its alcoholic content—from bad beer? Prichard wanted to know.

But Judge Gibson ruled that Knight was entitled to explain his statement "good beer."

"Well," explained Mr. Knight," "good beer's supposed to be good beer. The way they do, you go into a place and ask, 'How's the beer?' and they say, 'Good beer!' —I don't know."

And then this dialogue took place between Lawyer Prichard and a witness:

Q—Do you know that the gin you bought was actually gin?

A—It was gin.

Q—You know that of your own knowledge?

A—Well, it might have been poison.

Four booze salesmen missed excellent opportunities to get their names in the paper. Walter Bandy testified he bought the stuff from Joe, Jim, Bill and Harry—as to their last names he knew naught.

President Emile H. Voegele testified that the Dippy Dope Club, of Troy Hill, whose chief executive he was, consisted of six members, three of them officers. When President Voegele told that the club paid $6 per gallon ($2 above the market price) for moonshine, some surprised person in the courtroom unloosed an awed "Gee!"

Pete Greenough supplies the jury with a laugh. Told to inspect all the defendants to identify the "Fred" who sold him stuff, Peter studied closely the faces of the 12 jurors.

Before Mr. Greenough came to the city he worked on his father's farm. First he was a bartender, then he saved enough to go into the business for himself, as the court records will attest.

Julius Dombroski wanted to be agreeable but couldn't find a medium available to the government counsel. Julius smiled silently at one question after another until Prosecutor Smith was forced to ask, "What language do you speak besides English?" Julius smiled and handed over a receipt which showed that he had bought beer from a certain company. Judge Gibson ordered him retired.

In the records of the Malsi Club beer and whisky were never described in such ordinary terms. Secretary Rodkey revealed that whisky was listed as refreshment and beer as beverage.

Justice of the Peace Westwood testified the box, along with about 30 others, had been stored in a vacant room in the rear of his office. He alone had a key to the room, he said. He could not explain the mystery of the missing ballots.

George Gast, borough clerk, testified he had helped take the box from the polling place at Helen and Ellis streets to Ashton's automobile, but he could throw no light on the disappearance of the contents.

Other members of the election board, George Matovich, Joseph Evans, Nick Matovich and Joe Janiz, also were unable to throw light on the mystery.

The returning board found that 30 persons had voted without registering or making affidavits, as required. Irregularities also were found in the tally sheets. Hoover received 119 votes and Smith 204 for President in the district.

WAR ON ONE-MAN CARS

brakes on the runaway car failed. The reported ineffective use of other safety equipment on the runaway car also will be probed.

CAR RUNS WILD ON HILL

The accident occurred at Eighth avenue and Amity street, the heart of Homestead's business district. A one-man car on the Homestead Park line ran wild on Amity street hill and crashed against a Homestead-East Liberty car that was turning from Eighth avenue into Amity street. The force of the collision virtually cut the East Liberty car in half.

A short time after the accident the Homestead Kiwanis Club passed resolutions protesting against the use of the one-man cars in that borough. Copies of the resolutions were sent to borough officials, officers of the railways company and to the County Commissioners.

Residents of Homestead Park are completing plans for a mass meeting to be held Thursday night in the Homestead Park municipal building. Residents will be given the opportunity to voice their complaints against the one-man type of car and it is expected the group will take action similar to that taken yesterday by the Kiwanis Club.

ANOTHER MEETING CALLED

Another meeting is being arranged for Friday night by the Briely Heights Civic Club. D. H. Woozley, president, said that this would be similar to the meeting of the Homestead Park residents.

J. M. Loftis, superintendent of transportation, is chairman of the major accident committee probing the cause of the accident. One of his assistants is Joseph Thomas, business agent of Division No. 85, of the trainmen's union.

FOUR OF NINE ABSOLVED IN FENCE PALING MURDER

Four of nine boys on trial in Criminal Court for beating to death Mike Yarsavage with fence palings in the cemetery of Walters' Chapel, Indiana township, March 5, were absolved by Assistant District Attorney John H. Haggerty today.

On Haggerty's motion, visiting Judge S. J. Morrow directed that at the close of the trial the jury acquit Alex Simon, John Kubic, Louis ("Jumbo") Branzet and Julius Frank. They were required to remain seated during the trial with the other five, however, as each one of the defendants is referred to by number to avoid confusing the jury with names.

Those remaining on trial, charged with murder, are Joseph Bassetti, John Micklow, Sam Koneski, John Koneski and Fred Simonetti.

The testimony of detectives and others had failed to involve the four absolved youths in the murder, Haggerty told the court when the prosecution closed. Defense testimony opened this afternoon.

Yarsavage, the commonwealth contends, was clubbed to death by the youths when he was taken for a nonunion miner.

south along the Pacific Coast to San Diego, see a thousand miles of wonderful roads, scenery, and the future homes of a hundred million more people, the real ocean front of the United States, as the Pacific is the real ocean.

HOWEVER you go across this country or north and south in it, what you see will reward you well.

But DON'T MISS SEATTLE, OR LEAVE THE STATE OF WASHINGTON OUT OF YOUR CALCULATIONS.

IT IS to be hoped that Mr. Hoover on his southern travels will pay especial attention to Cuba and her problems, and not overlook the fact that Cuba is one of our best customers, in addition to being one of our best friends.

EARL D. BABST, head of the American Sugar Refining Company, biggest in the world, reminds you that Cuba is our best tropical customer. And yet, from the Dutch and British East Indies we import nearly twice as much as we import from Cuba, giving the Dutch and British twice as much trade as we give Cuba, while Cuba buys from us more than twice as much as the Dutch and British East Indies combined buy from us.

WE OUGHT to do more business in our own tropics here in the Western Hemisphere, instead of sending all our money to the Far East.

And, incidentally, we should lighten the burden of two cents a pound duty on the sugar that we import from Cuba.

COL. PETER O. KNIGHT, of Tampa, Florida, Democrat from birth, and able lawyer, shows that Florida's break from the Democrats may be a good thing for Florida.

Hitherto, says he, "Democrats have paid no attention to Florida, because they thought it would vote the Democratic ticket anyhow. Republicans paid no attention to Florida because they felt that Florida would vote the Democratic ticket, no matter what the Republican party did. Now, Florida is a definitely debatable state and will continue so in the future."

COL. KNIGHT thinks the recent political doings of Florida may persuade Congress to change the inheritance tax law, extremely unjust and harmful to his state.

WOMAN GIVES MURDER TIP

Banton announced the police had been given "better information" on the Arnold Rothstein case than they had since they consulted the county prosecutor about the murder.

Mr. Banton said Mrs. Keyes had told him the number of men she had seen in the room.

"In a day or two," he added, "I believe I will be able to give the newspapers a lot of information concerning this case."

Mrs. Keyes, who came here from Chicago yesterday under the escort of detectives, had been a guest at the hotel until a few hours before Rothstein was shot. She has told the police that she and a man known to her as "Jack" were drinking in the room in which the gambler's colorful career subsequently was halted by a bullet.

"MYSTERY MAN" APPEARS

During her tete-a-tete with her questioners a poorly dressed individual, about 28, was hurried into the room by detectives, who rushed him out in 15 minutes. It was reported that the "mystery man" had claimed he was an eye-witness of the shooting of Rothstein in the Park Central Hotel.

HOOVER TO ANGLE FOR BIG FISH

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.
International News Service.

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND (Via radio to San Diego, Cal.), Nov. 21.—Eagerly anticipating the deep-sea fishing trip planned for him today, President-elect Herbert Hoover thoroughly inspected his fishing tackle after a leisurely breakfast this morning.

The Maryland, now smoothly continuing southward under beautiful tropical skies, will cast anchor when it reaches the famous San Lucas fishing grounds off the tip of Lower California. Mr. Hoover will then leave the battleship in a launch and have his long hoped for chance to try his skill at catching tarpon and other large game fish which abound in the famous angling waters.

According to the itinerary announced by the President-elect, Honduras will be the first nation he will visit on his Latin-American good-will tour. On November 25, the Maryland will drop anchor at Port Amapala, in the Gulf of Fonseca. Mr. Hoover will meet officials of the Honduran government and exchange official respects with them.

After a few hours' visit, the Maryland will again proceed southward, landing the President-elect at La Union, Salvador, on the same day. Mr. Hoover will next visit Corinto, Nicarugua, on November 26, and Punta Arenas, Costa Rico, on November 27. Panama will not be visited on the southern trip.

As the Maryland probably will be at sea on Thanksgiving Day, plans have been laid for a sumptuous dinner aboard ship, in which all the officers and crew will participate. Preparations are also being made for the usual festive ceremonies attached to passing the equator.

RUBBER FROM COAL ANNOUNCED AT SCIENCE MEET HERE

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1928

BY-PRODUCTS OF MINERAL INCREASE

Rubber from coal!

To turn a hard, brittle mineral into rubber, real rubber that stretches, that is resilient, that can be worked into automobile tires, raincoats, overshoes, tubing. That is the dream science is on the verge of converting into reality.

Fritz Hoffman, scientist for the German dye trust, today told the international coal conference here just how near he has come to that goal in his laboratory at Breslau. And he is very near indeed.

RUBBERIZING PROCESS

For Hoffman has actually made from coal a kind of rubber. First, he told the conference, he converted coal into coke, then united the coke with lime to form calcium carbide. The hydrogen in water and the carbon in the calcium carbide were linked to form acetylene, the acetylene was transformed into acetic acid, the acid to its aldehyde, and the aldehyde to acetone.

That much was not difficult. But Hoffman went on building up a chain of carbon molecules link by link until he had created molecules of isoprene, an oily, volatile liquid which the chemist gets in his retort when he distills raw plant rubber. This synthetic isoprene, upon being heated under the influence of proper catalysts, becomes rubber.

LABORING SINCE 1909

Since 1909 Hoffman and his associates have been working to attain that end. When the dye trust 18 months ago announced that his work had been successful, men of science, for all their familiarity with miracles, gasped a little. For, if the report was true, such gigantic enterprises as the Firestone million-acre plantation in Liberia and the Ford rubber plantation in Brazil would be futile.

But the statement later was modified. Hoffman had found a way to make rubber. He had been able to supply 25 tons of it for use during the war when Germany could not get rubber from without the empire. But he had not succeeded in making the process a commercially profitable one.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

But he is confident that he will do that, too. So he told the conference.

"The work yet to be done is among the most difficult that coal technology has to accomplish, and requires endless patience," he said.

But Hoffman has been learning, and practicing patience since 1909.

Dr. Friedrich Bergius, the dapper German savant who reported in 1926 that he had turned coal into gasoline, yesterday had news to tell of perhaps vast import for the future. He has learned, he said, how to make food from wood.

FODDER FROM WOOD

Bergius has not produced a breakfast cereal or the raw stuff of a Sunday dinner. But he has transformed cellulose from wood waste into fodder for livestock. This fodder is a white, pasty substance, rich in edible hydrocarbons.

By certain refinements this synthetic nutriment could be made fit for human consumption, he said. But it would not be palatable, for it is flavorless. Bergius was unwilling to discuss what place his synthetic food might take on the tables of the future.

"I can only state that it is possible to make an edible food," he said.

How coal can make two stalks of winter wheat sprout in place of one in the Northwest, keep the grass green in the Mississippi valley, and help the cotton beat the boll weevil in the South was explained to the conference by C. H. McDowell, president of the Armour Fertilizer Company, of Chicago.

AID TO AGRICULTURE

All this can be done, he said, through fertilizers developed from ammonia produced through the liquefaction of coal. Since the lignite coals, which abound in the Northwest and never have been mined to any great extent, can be liquefied as readily as higher grade coals, American science and capital have at hand an opportunity to give agriculture a tremendous impetus, McDowell said.

The import of the conference and its discussions was summed up for the layman in a popular address last night by Edwin E. Slosson, director of science service. The supreme importance of coal in the modern scheme of things, he said, rests on the fact that, of all the elements in the earth, carbon is the only one which condenses and stores the energy received by this globe from the sun. And carbon, in its useful forms, is to be found only in coal. Thus the problem of the age-obtaining cheap energy to do man's work — finds its answer in coal.

KILLING LAUNCHES DRIVE AGAINST HIGH SCHOOL LIQUOR PEDDLERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(A.P.)—Multiple arms of law enforcement hovered today over the "rum dens" of Chicago school children.

The federal government had joined police and school authorities in a citywide search for a speakeasy rendezvous catering to youthful patronage. The cleanup campaign, born with the slaying of an 18-year-old boy in a saloon masquerading as an ice cream parlor, had extended to every school district in the city.

Illicit liquor was bought yesterday by investigators who obtained numerous addresses of "booze joints" from high school students. At stores near five large high schools —Harrison, Lane Technical, Lakeview, Carl Schurz and University —liquor was purchased.

DRY SQUADRON BUSY

E. C. Yellowley, Federal prohibition administrator in the Chicago area, sent five squads of agents into school neighborhoods to assist the police search. Several purchases were made, he said, to be used as evidence for arrests and prosecutions.

Two places whose activities were uncovered Monday — the Sheridan Club on Sheridan road and the Barbecue Inn on North Clark street—were found closed yesterday.

BARTENDERS GROW WARY

Several bartenders, approached by investigators posing as youths, were found reluctant to sell liquor since the death of William Adomaytis, slain Sunday during a gambling argument with Anthony Junkus in the latter's ice cream parlor. High school students told police they frequently bought liquor of Junkus.

Police Commissioner Russell ordered police to close all establishments found selling liquor or operating slot machines near schools.

COUNCIL GIVES CITY VOICE IN PGH. MOTOR COACH CO.

An agreement giving the city a voice in the financial affairs and operation of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company has been affirmed by Council and will be considered for final approval next Monday.

The coach company is owned completely by the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the pending agreement places the coach company under the jurisdiction of the Traction Conference Board. The board excercises similar authority over the railways company.

The agreement provides that the city shall have a voice in the amount of money spent by the coach company for operating expenses and for the amount allowed for depreciation. The coach company will submit to the city each year a budget of the following year's estimated expenses and revenues.

In addition, the city shall have access to the company's plant facilities, books, records and maps and have a voice in future financing.

The agreement provides that the company shall charge a 'reasonable' fare, to be determined by deducting expenses and a 6 per cent profit allowance from revenues.

The coach company is obligated to submit to the city as promptly as possible a statement of the actual capital invested in order to determine the value of the enterprise aside from future financing.

Fay Brands Vestris Crew As Cowards

ALBERT FAY HARRY FAY

Home, with his trip to the Argentine to fight Firpo postponed, Harry Fay, Charleroi boxer adrift 13 hours in a lifeboat after the sinking of the Vestris, brands all the members of the Vestris crew as cowards. Here he tells his father, Albert Fay, Charleroi, the story of the sinking.

VESTRIS CREW BRANDED AS COWARDS BY FAY

Members of the crew of the liner Vestris were branded as cowards in a vivid story of the ship's sinking told by Harry Fay, boxer, of Charleroi, one of the survivors, when he returned to his home here yesterday. Adrift in an open boat for 13 hours, with a heavy sea washing men overboard, Fay was picked up by the French tanker Myriam.

"I don't claim to be a hero. I had a tough time saving Harry Fay, but some of the men now telling of their bravery were among those who cut loose and left the women and children to drown," Fay said. The Charleroi boxed declared he was disgusted with the cowardice shown by the crew.

Harry admitted seasickness the first day out from Hoboken and was unable to tell when the danger first became apparent. Lying in his bunk, he did not know of any peril until one hour before the ship sank. He was ordered on deck by a member of the crew, who, covered with bruises and his nose broken, ran to the fighter's stateroom. The man had been injured while at work.

Crawling on his hands and knees, Fay came on deck to discover the ship listing heavily, one side almost under water. Women and children were clinging to the side out of water and members of the crew were hurrying about in utmost confusion.

A sailor tossed a heavy life preserver, which Fay cast aside because of its weight. Clambering over the tilting deck he obtained another.

There were many children crying and screaming and none seemed to have preservers, Fay declared. Some of the passengers had been on deck since 8 o'clock that morning, although there were others like himself who had not been notified until the last possible minute, the fighter declared.

SEAMEN SCARED

One of the officers in charge was standing on the boat deck, the topmost deck, smoking a cigar and crying orders to the frightened seamen. Fay and other male passengers helped the women into boats when the officer ordered the women off deck. It was impossible to put the heavy boats down into the water from the port side of the ship because of the heavy list to starboard.

While this was going on, Fay declared, four members of the crew, all white men and all dressed in white uniforms, ran to the port rail, almost under water, and climbed into a lifeboat which they cut adrift. After the ship had sunk they were seen to return and take aboard their craft several passengers from other boats that were sinking.

When it was apparent that the ship could not stay up more than a few minutes longer the captain cried, "every man for himself," Fay declared. One lifeboat that had been lowered to the water was filled with members of the crew who were hurrying to cut loose before their boat got overloaded. Fay said he leaped for the rope and slid down into the boat.

4TH HATCHET VICTIM DYING

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Not since the rifle of Frank Carter, "the sniper," has Omaha been gripped by the dread inspired today by its "hatchet man."

The new slayer who, like "the sniper," appears to pick his victims at random, has slain three, beaten a fourth so severely he will not live, and seriously injured a fifth. All the attacks have taken place since early Sunday morning.

Omaha's "sniper," whose silencer-equipped rifle slew two and wounded one before he was captured a few years ago, kept the city in a state of uneasiness during the days he remained at large. That same sense of terror prevailed today.

ONLY ONE VICTIM ALIVE

Mrs. Harold Stribling, the only victim of the madman's handax who was not killed or critically wounded, had provided police with a description of the man they hold responsible for all five attacks.

"He is of dark complexion, about 21 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs about 140 pounds," she said. "He was well dressed. His trousers were neatly pressed, and he wore a belted overcoat, a dark gray cap and a bow tie."

Harold Stribling, who was beaten by the hatchet man early yesterday morning, lies dying at a hospital with four distinct skull fractures. Hospital physicians said his death was a matter of hours.

THREE SLAIN SO FAR

The Stribling attack followed the killing of Mrs. Waldo Resso and her sister, Creta Brown, early Monday morning in their home, and the slaying of Joseph Blackman, 75, a drayman, early Sunday.

Eighty policemen, in Paris, armed with shotguns drove over Omaha last night. A score of deputy sheriffs slept in the courthouse to be ready for an emergency.

A squad of 200 American Legion men, narcotic agents, Federal and prohibition agents have volunteered their services. Rewards of $1,000 have been offered for the slayer's arrest or information leading to his capture.

MURDERED BABE FOUND IN GULCH

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The dismembered body of a nine-months-old baby girl, who had been shot and stabbed to death, was found in a gulch in the outskirts of Houston yesterday.

The discovery was made when D. H. Evans, who was exercising his pet dog in a lonely section of Houston, pitched a stick into a pool of water and the animal, diving for the stick was attracted to the legs of the baby protruding from a lard can.

DR. FRITZ HOFMANN

Dr. Fritz Hofmann, of the Silesian Coal Research Institute of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, is Germany's newest wizard of synthesis. As a delegate to the International Conference on Bituminous Coal, he is shown here in the laboratory of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, explaining to Herr F. zur Nedden, secretary of the fuel committee of the German Coal Council, how he makes synthetic rubber from coal. He has already made rubber, but will have to perfect his process if it is to become of technical value. The diagram shows the chemical process by which he transforms coal into rubber.

MAKES LIQUID FUEL FROM COAL

A process to make liquid fuel from coal is the discovery of Dr. Friedrich Bergius, of Heidelberg, Germany. He is known as the father of hydrogenation—the chemical reaction by which liquid fuel is made from coal. His latest discovery is a process of transforming cellulose and lignine into coal.

SMITH TO MEET MISSISSIPPIANS

EDGEWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 21.—(AP)—An old-time lawn reception will be held Friday afternoon by Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the terrace of the hotel for all those wishing to meet him.

Rested by six or seven days relaxation, the Governor again is "the Happy Warrior," and expects to shake hands with all who call on him.

He has expressed appreciation of the consideration of Mississippians in permitting him to sleep, fish, golf and loaf without molestation, and he is described by Senator Pat Harrison, majority leader of the party, as having "the time of his life."

Senator Joe Robinson, Gov. Smith's running mate in his losing race for the presidency, and Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, who is campaigning in Virginia, will be invited to attend the reception Friday. Governors, legislators and other officials from nearby states are expected to be there along with farmers, merchants and fishermen.

The ever-mounting pile of mail is reaching staggering proportions and since a secretary was not included in the party, no attempt will be made to answer the letters and telegrams, it was announced. Gov. Smith made it plain that he was physically unable to accept any invitations and would spend his entire time along the Mississippi coast.

HOMESTEAD MINISTERS WANT VICE PROBE THERE

Ministers of Homestead today demanded that District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner swing the special grand jury's searchlight on vice in their borough, and were told it already was being done.

Led by the Rev. James H. Douds, United Presbyterian pastor and head of the Homestead Ministerial Association, the delegation demanded a sweeping inquiry in the borough, declaring "vice conditions there are terrible."

Gardner, listening to their demand at the noon recess of the grand jury, pointed out that several witnesses from Homestead had testified this morning in the graft investigation. Satisfied with the answer, the ministers, Mr. Douds, Clyde Nevins and H. E. Shade assured Gardner of their co-operation.

RAID "BOOKIE" SHOP

The scope of the probe was further broadened to include gambling on the races. Under District Attorney Gardner's orders, county detectives raided the offices of the Prudential Mutual Association, 401-402 Lyceum Building, but found no one there. They learned that the proprietors had left several weeks ago, evidently fearing they would be caught in the sweep of the grand jury investigation. The detectives seized racing forms, tickets and envelopes.

The detectives also raided 2508 Butler street, arresting John Novak, who was taken before the grand jury. Liquor was seized in the place the detectives reported.

Two city detectives, Edward McEntee and James Reder were called today to elaborate the tale of lottery graft. They worked with P. E. (Happy) Moran, former city sleuth, when he uncovered the lottery ring last spring in the investigation which he said "got too close to home for Walsh." It was that investigation, Moran said, which caused Police Superintendent Peter F. Walsh to drop Moran "for the good of the service."

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance of marked intensity covers the north central portion of the country this morning, lowest barometer, 29.40 inches, at Port Arthur and at White River. This disturbance came eastward from Alberta, and is now moving rather rapidly toward the St. Lawrence valley. It is causing cloudy weather over all the North east, the Ohio valley and the Upper Mississippi Valley states and the Lake region, and light snow flurries are occurring at scattered points.

High pressure over the Gulf states is causing cold weather over that section, with light to killing frosts. Another high is centered over the plateau section west of the Rockies and covers the entire West. The temperatures are rising over the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Plains states.

STANDARD NARCOTIC LAWS ARE SOUGHT BY CRUSADERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Standardization and codification of international, national and local anti-narcotic laws will be considered at the second annual conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Education Association, beginning at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight.

Delegates from almost every civilized nation in the world are expected to attend the sessions, which will continue until Saturday. Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, Spanish-American War hero, will preside.

The first object of the two associations co-operating in today's conference, Capt. Hobson said last night, will be to secure the passage of uniform state laws dealing with the sale and possession of narcotics. They will endeavor to have these offenses classed as felonies rather than misdemeanors, which would bring convicted sellers under the provisions of the Baumes law.

Succeeding steps will be to foster city ordinances in harmony with state laws, then to secure the enactment of Federal statutes with similar provisions.

Another measure which will be considered by the conference relates to the standardization of all references to narcotics in text books studied by children. A nation-wide survey of this field has just been completed, and its results will be announced to the convention.

To further their international program, the joint associations have established headquarters in Geneva, where representatives may co-operate with the narcotics commission of the league of nations.

THANKSGIVING CALL MADE BY GOV. FISHER

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher issued his Thanksgiving proclamation yesterday and called upon all citizens of the commonwealth to rejoice and give thanks for the blessings bestowed upon them by the "beneficence of Divine Providence."

The Governor made special reference to the tenth anniversary of the Armistice and the Kellogg pact for the outlawry of war. The proclamation in part reads:

"The year has been crowned with plenty; nature has yielded bounteously; industry has found employment; labor and investments have been well rewarded and science and invention have contributed as never before to the comforts and conveniences of living. We have been delivered from war and disaster and pestilence. The goodness and mercy of the Lord has been over the land.

"We remember especially at this time the deliverance from war. It is 10 years since the close of the world's most disastrous strife. Its lessons have not been lost and promise to bear fruit in a binding compact for the maintenance of peace throughout Christendom.

"In our contentment and prosperity let us not forget those who are under affliction and distress. It is time to open our hearts in sympathy and to extend a helpful hand to all those in need."

For the first time in the memory of capitol attaches, the proclamation is printed for distribution to friends of the Governor. The document is done up in handsome booklet form with the seal of the state in gold.

LANG'S CLERKS WILL BE CLERKS—NOT LABORERS

Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, has been advised by Council that he has control of the agency for correcting payrolls by giving the proper titles to employes erroneously appearing as "laborers."

Lang recently informed Council 51 men and women employes of his department appeared on the payroll as "laborers" when in reality they worked as clerks, watchmen, typists and in other capacities. He recommended to Council elimination of the practice.

Council replied, in a motion from President James F. Malone, that employes did not appear on payrolls as "laborers" by Council's order and that if Lang wanted to stop the policy he should set up the employes in their proper designation when he submits his annual budget estimates wherein the personnel of the payroll is authorized.

RUM WITNESS HELD FOR PERJURY

sinage, told of the practical monopolies in the two wards.

Thomas C. Johnson, Jr., was the ostensible head of the booze traffic in the Twenty-fourth Ward and Fred Stratman, former prohibition agent, in the Twenty-third Ward, according to witnesses. They solicited orders for moonshine, sometimes inducing persons to start in the business, and collected for deliveries, the witnesses said.

Johnson sold at higher prices, charging $6 each gallon of moonshine and $35 a case for the infrequent delivery of "bottled stuff," while Stratman's price was $4 and $25 respectively, the witnesses said.

The moonshine was peddled in retail at 20 to 25 cents a flask, 50 cents a half pint and $1 a pint, while the "good stuff," bearing various labels of well-known whiskies, sold at 50 cents a drink, with $6 call for half-pints or pints.

TELLS OF RAIDS

The customers of the alleged ring were generally free from police interference, with one outstanding exception. Tom Pinchowski, who conducted a saloon at 1412 Spring Garden avenue, testified that he bought his booze from Johnson, yet was raided seven times in the past year, each time being fined $100 at North Side Police Court. He was in the candy business and engaged in the sale of moon and "bonded" after Johnson came to him, he said.

The defense made several points in cross-examination of witnesses. Attorney Charles B. Pechard sought through a number of witnesses to learn if the name of Stratman had been supplied to the witness about the time of the grand jury probe or in the grand jury room. Joseph Baramack, saloonkeeper, of 104 East Ohio street, accused Stratman as the solicitor and collector, but replied on cross-examination that he had "learned his name from the newspapers later."

Mrs. Mary Yankers, saloon proprietor at 916 Spring Garden avenue, refused a stir when, on cross-examination, she pointed a finger at United States Attorney John D. Meyer and said, "When I was before the grand jury and said 'Fred,' that man asked me, 'You mean Fred Stratman?'"

Nusskern, the witness arrested, said he dispensed Fort Pitt beer, was asked on cross-examination by W. Cooke McKean, counsel for Samuel J. Grenet, reputed owner of the Fort Pitt Brewery:

"Did you not buy Fort Pitt beer because it is recognized as the best near beer anywhere?"

"Yes," replied the witness, who said he had 15 years's experience as a brewmaster before prohibition.

"Oscar," accused of making deliveries, was identified as Oscar Klusterer, one of the defendants, and George Miladin, another defendant, was described as a beer salesman.

The first step toward shortening the trial was the curtailment of the number of witnesses giving cumulative testimony. Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith, conducting the prosecution, dismissed 25 witnesses awaiting a call to the stand, because their testimony would merely add to the volume of similar testimony already presented against certain of the defendants.

As a result, it is expected that the government will complete its case next Friday or Monday, and with estimates by defense counsel that little more than a week will be required for its side, the trial may be completed and the case submitted to the jury within little more than three weeks in all.

Trolley Crash Costs Her $200 Tax Cash

The street car crash in Homestead yesterday cost Mrs. Alexander Mikovas, Twentieth avenue, Munhall, $200 in addition to the suffering resulting from numerous cuts and bruises. En route to pay taxes on her home she carried $200 in a purse and after the crash the money could not be located.

C. G. Benner, motorman, lost $25 cash and his supply of car tokens.

CHILDREN'S DAY COLORS WELFARE FUND CAMPAIGN

Today is Children's Day in the campaign of the Welfare Fund. The presence of the little folk from institutions in the welfare organization gave a touch of sentiment to the meeting at the William Penn Hotel, and exemplified the humanitarian work which the community has been called on to support.

The total of contributions to date was swelled to $634,074.92 when the luncheon check-up revealed $60,000.36 in new subscriptions.

DONATIONS INCREASED

The children guests at the luncheon are from St. Anthony's Orphanage, Oakmont; the Sewickley Fresh Air Home, the Pittsburgh Home for Babies and the Orphanage of the Holy Family, Emsworth. It was shown that a share of the money subscribed goes for the care of the orphans and babies that require nurturing and care. When this fact was brought to the public in the talks and addresses during the campaign it is declared to have resulted in increasing many donations to the fund.

A slight slowing up in the team reports yesterday was followed by an immediate call for volunteers for a "flying squadron" of workers who took up the task of obtaining increased contributions from persons who had already given generous gifts. All team captains were urged to spur on their workers and as a result last night the word came back to the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building that the canvass had resumed its initial gait.

Returns from the industrial teams organized by salaried employes and wage earners in stores, factories and plants was one of the most encouraging features of yesterday's work, according to Chairman Augustus K. Oliver. Several hundred teams have been organized and are making large returns.

Chairman Oliver pointed out also that the house-to-house canvass yesterday returned $6,645.76, bringing the total in the home canvass to $26,530.71. These figures were compiled largely from partial reports. Few of the districts have turned in final reports, and the canvass is going on with unabated enthusiasm.

PLAN BAPTISMS IN GLORY BARN

Baptismal services by immersion will be held tonight in Glory Barn, West Carson street, it was announced by Evangelist John W. Sprout. Many persons have made known their desire to be baptized, and they will be present at the services tonight. Several hundred persons attended the services last night, and about two score answered the altar call and professed acceptance of Christianity.

Preceding his divine healing services last night, the evangelist delivered a sermon on "Divine Healing of Today." Many who went forward to be anointed declared that they had been benefited.

Evangelist Sprout made an appeal for contributions last night, stating that he needed help in maintaining the large tabernacle.

COLLINS, AIR MAIL PILOT, IS IN 'CATERPILLAR CLUB'

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Nov. 21.—Paul F. "Dog" Collins, premier "bad weather" pilot of the air mail service, has qualified for the "Caterpillar Club" of pilots who have cheated death with their parachutes. His 4,000-foot leap last Sunday, near Millstone, his first forced jump, furnished his credentials.

Running into a squall that tossed his ship around like a cork on a wave, the lower wing was ripped and his plane sent into a nose dive. He shut off the motor and leaped with his "chute." The plane buried its nose deep in the earth, but the aluminum mail bag remained intact. Collins rescued it from the wrecked plane.

Collins is the survivor of many a storm and gale over the Allegheny Mountains, which air mail pilots call "Hell Stretch."

Man Hurt in Fight, Rail Worker Held

Patsy Cuccaro, 39, employed at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad camp at Groveton, was committed to jail last night to await the outcome of injuries suffered by Joe Zonski, a fellow worker, whom Cuccaro is alleged to have hit with a pick handle. Cuccaro was ordered held by Justice of the Peace E. W. Dickson of Cornopolis. The two men are said to have fought over a board bill. Zonski is reported to be in a serious condition.

Firestone Repairs Farm Birthplace

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 21.—Harvey S. Firestone, Akron rubber king, is making extensive improvements to his farm home Birthplace, south of Youngstown on the Columbiana Unity road. Firestone spends a great deal of time at this farm, where he grew up as a boy. Here he keeps his blooded horses and finds time for recreation. The homestead is a quaint, dark red brick house, preserved in its original form.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Hunting for icebergs

Mountains of ice break off the Greenland glaciers and haphazardly cruise the North Atlantic, a grave menace to ships and shipping.

Hunting out these icebergs, so that giant liners may be forewarned, is a cold job if ever there was one. On lookout duty in dirty weather, in freezing sleet and great sea winds—no wonder the men take instant precaution at the very first hint of a cold.

The old reliable remedy is GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. How good for a cold it is, you may judge from the fact that 22,000,000 boxes were bought last year. It doesn't merely eliminate symptoms. Its tonic and laxative ingredients help nature to help you. Thus you either side-step the cold entirely or throw it off quickly.... Be sure! Emphasize GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. # BORAH GIVES UP OIL-CLEANSING FUND DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The attempt of Senator Borah, of Idaho, to collect funds by voluntary subscription to pay back the $160,000 contribution of Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, to the Republican campaign deficit of 1920 was definitely abandoned yesterday and the Senator began returning about $8,000 so far received.

Senator Borah, who took a leading role in the recent campaign of Herbert Hoover, said, however, he had not abandoned the idea of "purging" the Sinclair contribution from the party. The suggestion has been made that the prospective campaign surplus of the party for this year be applied to paying off Sinclair's contribution. The Senator seems to be agreeable to this proposal.

The return of the $8,000 is proving quite a task for the Idahoan. He received these contributions during the last year from about 340 persons. Records were kept and the money deposited in a bank. Asked what he was doing with the interest on the money, the Senator smiled and replied: "I can say I am not charging anything for my services."

U. P. MERGER O. K.'D HERE

A resolution favoring a merger of the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church, South, to bring about a larger program for the union of all Presbyterian churches in America, was adopted yesterday at a meeting of the Monongahela Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church. The resolution was introduced by the Rev. William W. Woodfin following discussion of the proposed union.

Until recently the Monongahela Presbytery had been opposed to union with the Southern church alone, but was in favor of union with all Northern churches. The meeting was held in the First United Presbyterian Church, Fifth avenue. J. S. McKibben was elected financial agent of the presbytery, to fill the place of Hugh Nevin, who died recently.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A CHARMING AFTERNOON FROCK

Printed velvet and crepe are combined in this design; the crepe being used for the jabot and for pipings on the free edges of the flounces. Canton crepe, georgette or printed silk are also very attractive for this style. The jabot is arranged on the front to simulate the diagonal closing. The flounces cross the fronts on oblique lines and flare gracefully. Slight blousing is effective at the sides of the dress. The sleeve is close fitting.

The pattern for this desirable model is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make the dress in a 16-year size will require 3¾ yards of 39-inch material. The jabot of contrasting material will require ⅝ yard 35 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge is about 1¼ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ALLEN TRYING TO DISRUPT COUNTY AUDIT, CHARGE

WITHHOLDS HIS RECORDS FROM EXAMINERS

H. E. Allen, head of the Motor Vehicle Department, is charged with attempting to "sabotage" the financial affairs of his department by refusing to permit auditors to examine his records.

His refusal is revealed in the report issued by Controller E. Bennett G. Woodside. Ernst and Ernst, who are making the audit, which is continuing.

It is not the only instance of lack of co-operation disclosed in the report. Woodside terms "sorry and inexcusable lack of accounts" in the personnel of specifications, in poor planning that afforded opportunities for irregularities and inadequate records and reports.

Only a few of the contractors who have done work for the county permitted the auditors to examine their records as they agreed to public work. Letters requesting access to such records were sent to 21 firms, including all who were awarded large contracts, only six permitted the audit to extend into their books, seven definitely refused, while nine did not bother to answer the letters.

NO APPARENT IRREGULARITY

"No apparent irregularities" were unearthed during the examination of such records, according to the report, with the exception of the payment of $300 to an unnamed inspector in connection with the Liberty Bridge construction project. The construction firm in charge of the work, according to the report, declared that the inspector was not one of their employes.

The report cites three construction projects where large amounts were spent without the advertisements for bids required by law. One is the improvement of Eighth avenue, Homestead, for which $138,750 originally was set aside in the proper manner. $252.150 additional being spent without advertising. An additional $89,443 was spent in the same manner on the Narrows Run road project and an additional $90,185 for safety barriers in various sections of the county.

Two contracts were awarded to other than the lowest bidder, the report states. One of these was for the south abutment and approaches to the McKeesport-Duquesne bridge, which went to the Vang Construction Company for $203,447 although the Pittsburgh Foundation Company had bid $190,651. The other was for the Robinson's Run Bridge, which was awarded to Nealon & Casparis on a bid of $48,325. M. G. Mashites had bid $45,974 for the work. In both instances, the Ernst and Ernst report states, the minutes of the meeting of the commissioners show that doubt was expressed as to the ability of the lowest bidders to do the work.

BIG DISCREPANCY NOTED

A large discrepancy between the asphaltic concrete manufactured and the weight of materials purchased is noted in the report. The discrepancy ranged from 5 to 15 per cent on five jobs examined in detail by the auditors, the amount of difference being 1,069 tons on these projects alone. Further examination of the delivery of 18 tons of concrete to the Penn Pitt Construction Company is recommended in the report which says that no record can be found of the county being paid for the material, although the company was paid in full for the work it was doing.

In spite of Allen's refusal to permit examination of his records, the auditors apparently procured sufficient information to state that the method of insuring county automobiles now in use "is expensive and needlessly extravagant." During 1927 a total of $41,991 was spent for insurance, each automobile and truck being insured separately. The use of fleet and limited collision insurance is recommended.

Most of the methods complained about in the report already have been corrected. The obsolete pay system has been replaced by a new one which gives the Controller's department a check on such expenditures. The system of making additional expenditures without advertising also has been stopped, Controller Robert G. Woodside said yesterday.

DOLORES TO MARRY

DOLORES COSTELLO

For the third time, John Barrymore, screen lover, will go to the marriage altar and this time he will take Dolores Costello film actress who rose to fame as his leading woman. She is the daughter of a famous one-time Pittsburgh actor, Maurice Costello, and in filing notice of intention to wed in ols Angeles gave her age as 22.

STATE TO LIFT LICENSES OF DEATH CAR DRIVERS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—Motorists involved in fatal accidents will have their driver's licenses suspended immediately, Secretary of Highways Stuart announced today. The driving privileges will not be restored until after the autoists have been given a hearing and can prove they were not responsible for the fatality.

"The alarming number of fatal accidents make this drastic action necessary," Secretary Stuart said. "This is particularly vital in view of the fact that fatalities resulting from automobile accidents reported to the Department of Highways jumped from 77 in September to 112 in October.

"The records of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways from 1924 to 1928 show that October heretofore has had the lowest relative accident hazard of any month of the year. October too, is the month that signalizes the decline of seasonal vehicular traffic and the enormous increase in fatalities demand that positive action be taken to reduce the fatal accident toll."

CITE UNION PAIR FOR CONTEMPT

On petition of United States Attorney John D. Meyer, Judge Nelson McVicar, of the United States District Court, issued today a writ directing Pat Toohey, secretary of the National Miners' Union, and Dorothy Ross, a clerk employed by the union, to appear in court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court. The procedure is a sequel to the alleged refusal of the two defendants to turn over to the federal grand jury the records of the union, as required by a subpena.

The federal grand jury is investigating the activities of the two insurgent mine workers' organizations, which are charged with having misapplied funds collected ostensibly for the relief of striking miners.

The papers desired by the grand jury are the check books and stubs of the organizations in question, showing disbursements made through the Allegheny Trust Company; receipt books, correspondence and files. The grand jury proposes to ask what disposition was made of the money, merchandise and clothing collected by the relief committee.

Boost County Quota Of Christmas Seals

Twenty-nine million Christmas Seals are ready to carry the message of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh to the people of Allegheny county. This number of seals exceeds by 5,000,000 that tendered the public last year and is the greatest sale ever attempted by the league. The money obtained from the sale of the seals will be used exclusively for tuberculosis relief work in city and county.

BARRYMORE TO WED YOUNG FILM STAR

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Hollywood's arenas of motion picture romance buzzed today with discussions of the impending marriage of John Barrymore, stage and screen star, and Dolores Costello, film actress and daughter of the veteran player, Maurice Costello. Barrymore applied for the license yesterday.

The marriage will be Barrymore's third venture into matrimony and Miss Costello's first. Neither would discuss plans for the wedding, but close friends intimated that they probably would wed during the coming week-end.

SURPRISES FRIENDS

News of the engagement caused a mild sensation in Hollywood, as none but the closest friends of the couple were aware that anything more than friendship existed between the two.

Barrymore, unaccompanied, walked into the Marriage License Bureau yesterday and signified his intention to wed. He gave his name as John Blythe Barrymore, aged 41. He listed Miss Costello's age as 22.

In 1910 Barrymore married Catherine Harris, daughter of a wealthy New York and Santa Barbara family. She obtained a divorce in December, 1917.

His second wife, the former Mrs. Leonard Thomas, better known as "Michael Strange," the author, obtained her divorce recently while abroad.

FATHER BORN HERE

More than ordinary interest in Dolores Costello's marriage is felt here because of her family's former connection with Pittsburgh. Maurice Costello, her father, was born here, and on her trip to the city about a year ago she visited many of the scenes associated with his early career.

Maurice Costello's parents lived for many years on Marion street, and Dolores and her sisters used to come to Pittsburgh with their father to visit their grandparents. The girls were born in New York City.

Maurice Costello started his theatrical career with the old Harry Davis Stock company at the Grand Opera House 30 years ago. He married a Brooklyn girl and went to New York. He was in the movies in the early days and was a featured star of the Vitagraph Company.

Rum Maker Fined $1,500, Sent to Prison

MARTINS FERRY, O., Nov. 21.—Charles Cunningham, Negro, is under Belmont County Court sentence of one to five years in the Ohio Penitentiary for manufacturing booze. Cunningham must also pay a $1,500 fine. He pleaded guilty to an indictment returned after state and county dry raiders had found a 75-gallon still, 1,600 gallons of mash and seven gallons of liquor at his home near here.

HIGHEST PAY FOR BEST TEACHERS, IS PLAN HERE

be high enough to attract educators of superior ability.

(4) The school tax should not be increased unreasonably.

In connection with this last, the committee says:

"Pittsburgh is unfortunate in not being in a state that is more generous in its subsidies to the local schools. Pennsylvania is one of the backward states in this respect. As a result, 93 per cent of the school tax must be met from local real estate."

The proposed schedules call for an increase of $200 in the maximum salaries of teachers in the elementary schools, and larger annual increments for junior high school teachers. The schedules in effect continue the present system of automatic annual increases up to fixed maximums, and provide that advances beyond that shall be based on individual merit of the teacher. Not more than 45 per cent of those who reach the automatic maximum, which may be attained after from seven to eleven years of service, shall be eligible to advancement to higher ratings.

The members of the committee believe the taxpayers will approve the proposed changes, because the higher salaries are deserved and will produce better teaching. The committee felt strongly, it was said, that as far as possible advancement in the school system should be based on the same principles of recognition of merit that prevail in private business.

SCALES, AS PLANNED

The recommended schedules may be summarized as follows:

Elementary teachers start at $1,200 as now and advance by automatic annual increments of $100 to a maximum of $2,200, as compared with $2,000, the present peak. Of those who reach the new maximum, 45 per cent may be advanced for merit to higher salaries, as follows: 15 per cent to $2,400; 12 per cent to $2,600; 9 per cent to $2,800; 6 per cent to $3,000; and 3 pr cent to $3,200. The four higher levels are further restricted to teachers who have achieved advanced educational qualifications.

Junior high school teachers start at $1,800 as now and advance by six annual increments of $175 to a maximum of $2,850. The present maximum is $2,800, reached by eight annual increments of $125. Of those who reach the new maximum, 15 per cent may be advanced for merit to $3,025; 12 per cent to $3,200; 9 per cent to $3,400; 6 per cent to $3,600; and 3 per cent to $3,800. The last two levels are further restricted to teachers who have obtained the degree of master of arts, or its quivalent

Senior high school teachers start at $1,800 as now and advance by eight annual increments of $175 to $3,200, the present maximum. Of those who reach this maximum, 45 per cent may be advanced for merit to higher salaries as follows: 15 per cent to $3,400, 12 per cent to $3,600; 9 per cent to $3,800; 6 per cent to $4,000, and 3 per cent to $4,200. The last two levels are further restricted to those who have obtained a degree of master of arts or its equivalent. These new levels replace existing "super-maximum" levels of $3,400 and $3,600.

Increases are also provided for elementary and high school principals.

To administer the plan the committee recommends appointment of another associate superintendent of schools (making six) by the board of education upon recommendation by the superintendent.

President Aaron, in referring the report to the committee on finance and administration of the Board of Public Education for consideration remarked that teachers here and everywhere have suffered from the deadening influence imposed by a salary schedule under which the most gifted and brilliant teacher was paid exactly the same salary as the least efficient teacher serving the same number of years. He said, in private business such a practice would not be endured for a single day.

PLAN TESTED ELSEWHERE

He expressed his gratification at the fine professional spirit evidenced by representatives of the teachers in recognizing that the merit principle is necessary for the sound financing of any salary schedule which may be adopted, and he congratulated the committee for so carefully weighing the facts as to determine the community's responsibility to the teacher consistent with its ability to pay, for squarely standing for the merit system, and for suggesting a perfectly feasible plan for its administration.

In summarizing the report of the committee, Mr. Robertson, chairman, stated that the first step in in investigation was to send Dr. Reitell, research director, to visit virtually all the large cities in the United States for the purpose of studying their salary schedules for teachers and their methods of payment.

The second step in the study was to make a careful analysis of the living costs of the teachers in Pittsburgh. As an aid to this study a questionnaire was sent to each teacher in Pittsburgh by the research director, calling for detailed information concerning the actual living costs which must be met by each one. The anaylsis of living costs was then compared with living costs in other cities comparable with Pittsburgh. When information concerning salary schedules in other cities and the analysis of living costs had been completed, the committee attempted to formulate basic principles to be followed in the construction of proposed changes in the Pittsburgh salary schedule for teachers.

PUBLIC WARNED OF UNSTABLE MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—With an absolute disregard for the fundamentals in trade and finance, the public is rushing pell-mell into the stock market in a frenzy of excitement, searching every nook and corner for profits, William J. Wollman, head of the brokerage and investment banking house of W. J. Wollman & Co., told International News Service today.

"The public is making money—lots of it," said Wollman, "but the probabilities are that the bulk of public traders will leave the most of it behind them before the movement is over. The public knows nothing, cares nothing, about values. It is following blindly the leadership of the most skillful and powerful group that ever operated in Wall Street, and will follow the will-o-the-wisp of profits wherever it leads them.

"MARKET DANGEROUS"

"Never was the situation in Wall street as dangerous as it is today. With the floor of the stock exchange inadequately manned, the ticker an hour behind and practically useless as a reflection of activities on the floor of the exchange, a violent reaction in prices, with disastrous results, might easily occur, bringing about a mild panic before the outside world was cognizant of what was going on.

"Those who are buying stocks at current levels are disregarding also the important matter of dividend returns and are discounting the future prosperity of the country too far ahead. Either there must be a corrective reaction or a long period of doldrum markets to permit business to catch up with the market."

TRADE BASIS SOUND

"Getting down to the fundamentals," said Wollman, "there can be no doubt of the strong position of American finance, trade and industry. The big business concerns—the steel manufacturers, the motor car builders, the copper and oil companies, are all making money, and plowing back a good portion of their earnings into their business. Against the time when bigger demands are to be made on them for goods for the home and foreign markets, they are strengthening their own position and getting their plants ready for larger production. But that is no reason why stock prices should go on skyrocketing without even a corrective reaction."

Wollman pointed out that the growth of new industries is now making a powerful appeal to people who can afford to speculate over the long range.

Blinding Booze Costs Vendor 15 Months

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The sale of whisky which was alleged to have blinded one man and sent another to an insane asylum yesterday cost Ferdinand D. Bario, South Charleston, 15 months' liberty.

Arraigned in Federal Court, Bario entered a plea of guilty to selling approximately 10 gallons of liquor which he claimed he had found. Questioning by Judge George W. McClintic revealed that the liquor sold by Bario caused one man to become insane and blinded another. Judge McClintic then sentenced Bario to 15 months imprisonment, where he could not "sell poison whisky for a while."

Bowman Host to Students' Parents

Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, will give a reception for all parents of freshmen on Friday evening in the banquet room of Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hall. All heads of departments and all faculty members who have freshmen in their classes will be there at that time to meet the parents. A. H. Armbruster, acting dean of men, is chairman of the committee in charge of the reception.

RADIO CHANGES AID DISTANCE RECEPTION

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Barring scattered jams in the national broadcasting system, the allocation of wave lengths, power and time division, set up November 11, has accomplished a "tremendous improvement in long-distance reception," Radio Commissioner O. H. Caldwell declared today.

Ten thousand letters and telegrams from every state have been received by the commission since the allocations were established, many commending the setup, others registering complaints. These letters range from the comment "wonderful" to "go hang a millstone around your neck and jump in the nearest creek."

"The broad national highways of radio have been cleared and a sound basis stablished upon which can be built a radio system of maximum service to the public," Caldwell said.

Caldwell attributes a considerable portion of the listeners' difficulties to the fact that they are not getting their favorite stations on the customary dial point.

REBUILD ANTENNAE

"The antennae have been erected in many cases to catch signals of certain stations," Caldwell explained. "It may be necessary for the listeners to rebuild their antennae.

"An ideal arrangement might be to use two antennae, at right angles to each other. In tuning for North or South stations the antenna running in that direction could be used, the other for the East and West stations.

"The listener should experiment with antennae of different length, as frequently too much aerial is employed. While this increases volume, it also brings greater interference."

Reports to the commission from the South and far West apparently are favorable.

May and he laughed at the time—Junior was such a perfect little actor:

"I'm Daddy, Mother—Hard day at the office today. Feel all done in and got a pile of work to get through, too!"

Afterward he wondered if he really gave the impression of being such a bad sport—always complaining about his work. He realized, of course, that poisons bottled up in the intestines ruined dispositions and undermined health. Yet he'd had such a hard time getting himself in shape with ordinary laxatives; slow-acting health foods—harsh cathartics . . .

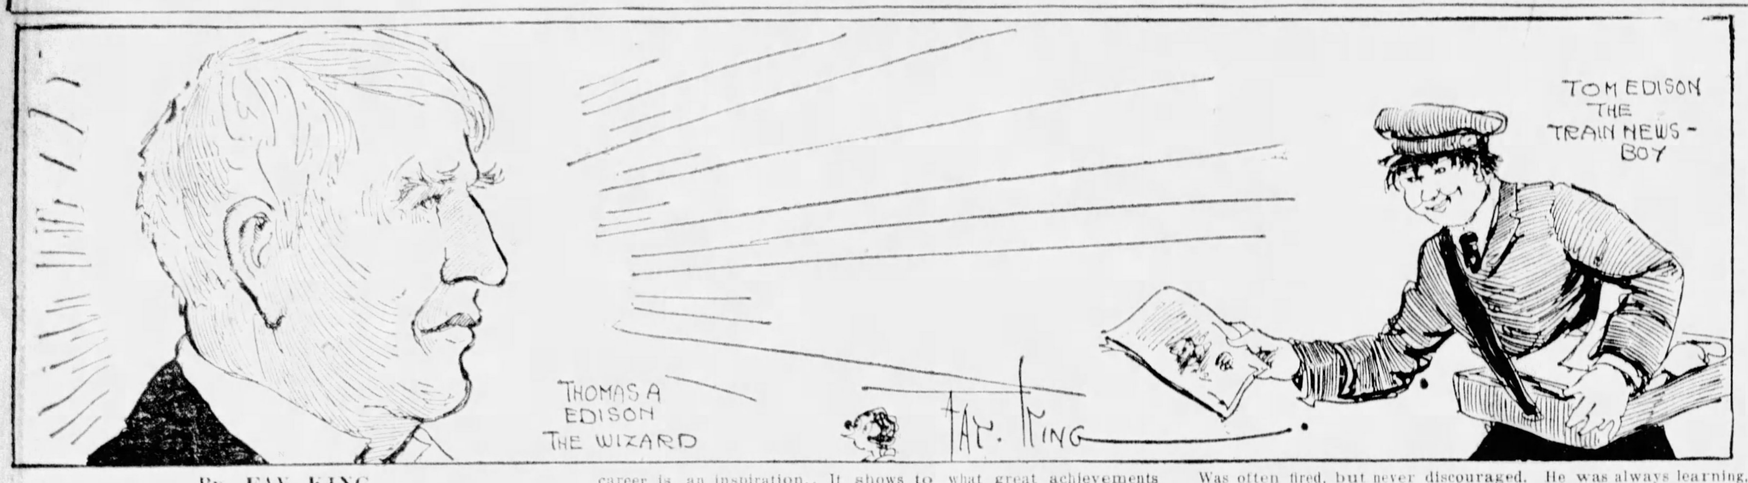
Fay King Sees Lesson to All in Edison's Triumph by Sheer Persistence



By FAY KING

IN CONFERRING upon Thomas A. Edison its medal of highest honor, our government only expressed the esteem, affection and gratitude felt by every one of us for the great inventor. Edison's career is an inspiration. It shows to what great achievements proper thought, patience and hard work can arrive.

Edison was not an infant prodigy. Slowly, step by step, he arrived at his true destination. He tried his hand at many things. Was often fired, but never discouraged. He was always learning, improving and moving onward. Each experience led him nearer to the great things he was to accomplish. Observation, application and determination are the keynotes of his wonderful career.

OHIOAN NAMED COMPTROLLER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(A.P.)—John W. Pole, of Ohio, was appointed by President Coolidge yesterday to be comptroller of the currency.

He succeeds Joseph W. McIntosh, whose resignation from the comptrollership was announced earlier in the day.

Mr. Pole has served as national bank examiner in the Fourth Federal Reserve district, as chief national bank examiner of the Sixth district, and since 1924 has been chief of national bank examiners.

HILL MOONSHINE KILLS ANOTHER

Hill District moonshine has claimed the life of another man, the third in two weeks. Center Avenue Police found the body of a man believed to be John E. McVeigh, 36, of New York, in the doorway of a house at 120 Pasture street, last night. From the Passavant Hospital where the victim was pronounced dead, the body was removed to the morgue. There an autopsy by the coroner's physician revealed acute alcholism as the cause.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE "CIRCUS TEMPERAMENT"

By LILY WANDEL

SIBYL wished as she buttered her toast that Mrs. Carey's thoughts were not so easily read. "It might come," Sibyl thought, "from living with her so long." At any rate knowing what Mrs. Carey was thinking about was often quite embarrassing.

"If you only could fall in love with Harvey," Sibyl was reading, as if Mrs. Carey's brain were an open book, "how calmly happy we all would be." It was not only embarrassing but very upsetting, since Sibyl always intended to develop the calm side of her nature. Not only that, but she really wanted to please Mrs. Carey since that lady had taken the place of a mother to her.

Mrs. Carey asked, "Has Derk Nolan changed his work again?"

Sibyl smiled affectionately across her coffee cup. "Now, how can you? Didn't I tell you he's simply crazy about it? This time he's found the real thing, exactly what he is suited for!"

Mrs. Carey sighed. "Let's see—three months ago he was an automobile salesman, before that in the coal business, last winter he sold a trick step-ladder and before that he kept books and—"

"But it's quite different this time, really!"

"And each time," went on Mrs. Carey in a sober, tired voice, "you were all excited about it, like now."

"You talk as if I enjoyed the excitement of these unfortunate business ventures," Sibyl told her with a little toss of her blond head and a fearful thump of conscience. "It's by circus temperament," she thought guiltily, "and I got it from father and if he hadn't married a calm, peace-loving woman like mother was, goodness knows where he might have ended. Derk does get me all excited about his business propositions. I do wish Mrs. Carey wasn't so right about things."

"I don't think you enjoy these constant changes, Sibyl," Mrs. Carey hastened to explain. "You're simply young and enthusiastic. And Derk Nolan has a way of getting people all stirred up about nothing."

"Well, this time it's different. You'll see. Derk's found his life's work. This is the last chance and from now on he's going to work steadily upward. He told me so himself, honestly. It's a wonderful thing to have found out exactly what he is fitted for."

"Sibyl," said Mrs. Carey a little incredulously, "you don't mean to tell me that you actually believe this is Derk's last chance?"

"Absolutely!" Sibyl declared firmly, "if it wasn't—" she stopped.

"What?" asked Mrs. Carey hopefully, fixing her eyes on Sibyl.

"Why, if it wasn't," the girl's voice was low, almost frightened, "I'd lose faith in him and—girls don't marry men they've lost faith in, do they?" she asked huskily.

"No, not if they want to be happy." There was something very pleased and bright in Mrs. Carey's voice and her thoughts, open for Sibyl to read, were, "At last, Harvey's chance is coming!"

That evening when Sibyl met Derk Nolan he told her gloomily, "Well, I quit my job."

"With Blake & Chase?" she asked stupidly, "not this job with all the big chances you were crazy about, Derk?" her eyes opening wide.

Derk nodded. "Oh, well, maybe it wasn't so great, who knows! No use crying about spilt milk, eh? I've got something in mind—" his eye kindled.

Sibyl interrupted. "You told me you always wanted to be a bank auditor. You said it was mighty difficult to get this chance with Blake & Chase and you only got in on account of a friend."

"Correct!" laughed Derk easily, "queer how things happen. A lame boy wanted my newsstand years ago when I was a youngster and to please him I sold. Must have made a big hit, because he always remembered it. His uncle is old man Chase. Well, to come back to this new proposition, it's a big thing, Sibyl. I don't get excited very easily, but this looks good to me."

Sibyl tried not to listen, but Derk's dark eyes were shining and his thin hard cheeks were flushed.

"I'm not going to get one bit interested," she told herself, "I'm through—it'll be the same thing over and over again." A queer cold feeling gripped her, a terror that stabbed deep and cruelly, the fear of facing life without Derk.

"You know, Sibyl," Derk was saying, "I had planned to stick to that auditor job because some people were saying a rolling stone never gets anywhere and that Sibyl Lane was throwing herself away. Somebody even hinted you'd lose faith in me by and by."

"What!" flared Sibyl, incensed, "Derk, you didn't—"

He took her in his arms. "Think I'd believe such a thing of you? Now, don't cry, sweetheart. Let me tell you about this new proposition. One time long ago I loaned an old man some money for his patent clothes prop. Curious thing, he worked up quite a business. Has a factory making brushes and what not, and wants me to learn the business with a view to partnership. Isn't it great, Sibyl? I liked being bank auditor, but—" he dropped his voice, "I quit when I found a shortage. Just quit before saying a word. Let somebody else find it, I won't. Guess I think too much of Mrs. Carey, Sibyl. Harvey's been gambling in the city and I'm going to have a talk with him, maybe I can straighten it out."

The next morning at the breakfast table Mrs. Carey, her face shining with bright hope said cheerfully, "Well, I heard Derk Nolan quit his job as auditor, Sibyl," and waited almost nervously for the girl to speak.

"Yes, that's true, but he has the most wonderful proposition from an old friend. Why, it's a chance in a lifetime! Derk is so interested and happy. Of course, he'll make good and—"

"I know," interrupted Mrs. Carey, "he'll start with a brass band and a lot of noise. Don't deny it, Sibyl, he has a circus temperament."

Sibyl said gently, "Circus temperaments cover such fine warm hearts."

"You don't mean—" Mrs. Carey rose in dismay and then fell back in her chair. "I might have known," she began in a limp but not unkind voice.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

AFTER saving letters for a little more than a week we now have a sufficient number of those in favor of the reallocation plan to print their opinions. In a few of the letters we are criticized for not printing the favorable comments as well as the complaints. The fact is that there have not been enough favorable comments to make any kind of a representation.

From Fairmont, W. Va., comes a letter signed by I. S. Ramsey, who declares that the radio situation is better now than ever. He has heard the following stations since the shake-up: KDKA, WWVA, WJZ, WEAF, WCX, WGY, WHAS, WLS, WTAM, WBBM, WSB, WSM, WWL, WNAQ, WFUN, KQV, WHK, WCAE, WLW.

An employe in an East End bank believes that those who are not getting WCAE are owners of antiquated sets. He praises the Radio Commission for making the change.

George Klaus of 62 Arlington avenue, is satisfied. "The present system should be maintained as it is the best adapted to the modern radio," he writes.

Franklin V. Bush, Freeport:

"I have no trouble separating WCAE and WJAS. The only trouble is getting WCAE loud enough to hear."

Mrs. M. Wallace, of Carnegie, takes exception to the manner in which we have presented the views of listeners. She marked her letter "Personal: Radio Editor, Sun-Telegraph" and wrote as follows:

"Since you have printed all the knocks now print a boost. Am more than delighted with my reception. Am able to pick up stations I never knew before and am getting all local stations lovely. Can't understand what is the matter or what kind of sets the public have that are making the kicks. Am expecting to see this in print."

W. P. Allderdice of 33 Merritt avenue, Carrick, is pleased with the re-allocation scheme. He uses an 85-foot aerial and has logged WBBM, WENR, KMOX, WHK, WTAM, and all Pittsburgh stations, with ease since November 11.

There are about nine other letters expressing favorable opinions. We shall print these letters along with some of the letters containing complaints.

We would have continued printing these favorable letters only a boy just came to our desk with another bundle of communications, the very first of which has in large letters at the lower left corner, "ATTENTION, RADIO RELIEF DEPARTMENT." It isn't hard to tell what's in that letter. And it isn't hard for us to guess what's in 99 out of every 100.

We shall welcome comments of any nature, however, as the purpose of the Sun-Telegraph open forum is to help obtain for radio fans the very best reception. If conditions are all right as they are the Sun-Telegraph wants to know about it. If conditions must be improved the Sun-Telegraph wants to know about it. Be open, frank, candid in your opinions and mark your letters "Special" in the lower left corner.

Booth, Pioneer In Auto Field, Dies in Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 21.—Dr. C. C. Booth, prominent surgeon who is said to have built the first automobile in Ohio and one of the first in the country, died following a four-days' illness with pneumonia. He built his first automobile in 1894. It was driven between this city and Cleveland and attracted great attention. # Tales About Stage and Screen Told in Pictures and Words

"TALKIES" MAY DRIVE FOREIGN MOVIE STARS BACK TO HOME SHORES

By REGINA CRIWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20.

ALMOST surprising lot of gossip originates on the Metro lot. It is that both Greta Garbo and Nils Asther will return to that dear Sweden, probably never to return. It has been long said that neither of these foreign stars has been altogether happy here. The modes and manners of the country are too different. There is too great difficulty in becoming used to them.

Greta begged to be allowed to take a trip home last year. But this permission was denied her. And now that her former fiance, Director Stiller, has passed on, it is said that she will never forgive herself or the executives who prevented her going. If the great Garbo and the amazingly popular Asther really to remain away from America, it may be the beginning of a general exodus of the foreign stars. Many of them are fearfully handicapped by inability to appear in talking pictures. And some make no bones of expressing the opinion that it is better to triumph in foreign silent films than to sit placidly in Hollywood until they are let out.

It is possible, however, that clever writers of dialogue and stories may be able to knit together vehicles made especially for this type of star. It is understood that the charming accent of Baclanova, the Russian, is being turned into an asset rather than a liability, by a cleverly concoted talking picture which gives her unique opportunities.

Audible Films Increase Work

THE audible pictures are changing the entire method of movie production. Heretofore it has been a case of "report on the set made up," and the player might or might not know what the story was all about. Now, however, movie actors are rehearsed the same as stage players. And frequently by stage directors. William Mack, for instance, is rehearsing the "Hunted" cast exactly as though for a theatrical presentation. And when his picture is finally shot it will be perfected in both dialogue and action. Many questions are arising as to whether or not the actors are to be paid for the time spent in studying lines and rehearsing their roles.

There's at least one thing for which California won't credit "The Climate." It is the prevalence of "flu" which is causing serious difficulties among the movie people. Mrs. Robert Armstrong, wife of the actor, is in the hospital with it. So is Director Howard Higgin from the Pathe lot. Jimmy Gleason and Anita Page are among the sufferers at Metro. And Greta Garbo isn't feeling any too well. Ruth Taylor and Joseph Von Sternberg have been missing from Paramount. Dorothy Swan, Edward Everett Horton, and Hal Wallis, Louise Fazenda's husband, are just snapping out of attacks. Maude Latham, fan magazine writer, is still dangerously ill, and Eva De Putti is being doctored. Even at this time of the year the days are warm as an eastern summer. But at night the winds from mountains and sea help the fur coat trade a lot. Probably these sudden changes are responsible for the many "colds."

Ways to Please Film Directors

IF you want to get into the movies perhaps you'll be interested in knowing what not to do. It is sometimes quite as important to know what the directors dislike as well as what they like. Al Santell beseeches you not to appear in public with the seams of your stockings crooked. Fred Niblo voices objection to the conspicuous application of powder in public. William Howard warns against gaudy jewelry, especially in the daytime. Al Rogell insists that the rear view of a girl's knees is horrible, and begs you to keep 'em covered, and as for the actors, Jimmy Gleason asks that you with shaved necks abstain from hats so small that the shaved part shows. Bob Armstrong declares against any attempts to change the shape of lips with rouge, and Ken Maynard says: "Be yourself, you can't fool Hollywood." So there you are.

Lucille Webster Gleason has a yen for cooking. And it crops out every time opportunity offers. Now Lucille has corralled a half dozen girls and between performances of "The Shannons of Broadway" is teaching them how to make biscuits that can be recognized from bullets. In the class are Lina Basquette, Lois Wilson, Phyllis Haver, Marie Prevost and Jeanette Loff.

The medal awarded annually for the best photoplay of the year has been given to the Fox production, "Seventh Heaven," for the year 1927. The honor is bestowed by the public through the medium of a fan magazine which is its donor. The pictures to receive this approbation in the past include "Humoresque," "Tol'able David," "Robin Hood," "The Covered Wagon," "Abraham Lincoln," "The Big Parade" and "Beau Geste."

The convention opened yesterday and will be in session until tomorrow afternoon. Douglass Malloch will be the principal speaker at the banquet, to be held tonight in the hotel banquet hall.

"Most of the so-called cancer cures reported are the result of erroneous diagnosis of ailments other than cancer," Dr. Lester Hollander, of Pittsburgh, stated yesterday in a paper on "Malignant Lesions of the Mouth," which he read before the 400 delegates present. Similar papers were read at the three sessions held yesterday.

B. and Thomas Cochrane from Wheeling; Neve Smith, of Greenville, and August Dietz, of Canonsburg. Card tables were in charge of Mrs. H. C. Elste, Mrs. A. P. Cole and Mrs. J. R. Lloyd. Gustav Wilde is president of the association, and Joseph Snyder vice president; George Burkhardt, treasurer; Martin Beyer, secretary, and Karl Nickel, financial secretary. These officers, with Nick Mauer, Herman Schelat, Fred Reinhardt, John Mueller, George Meinzinger and A. F. Steinmetz, directors, arranged the affair.

METROPOLITAN AREAS TO BE RATED IN CENSUS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—When the population of the cities of the United States is enumerated in the fifteenth census—preparations for taking which in 1930 are now well advanced—the totals wil ldisclose the number of persons living in each metropolitan district as well as within city limits.

W. M. Steuart, director of the Census Bureau, describing in his annual report the plans for the 1930 enumeration, explained that every city of over 50,000 population would be studied with reference to the adjacent, densely populated territory outside of its boundaries. The census will include the total population of each district, he added, as well as for the inhabitants within the actual city limits.

Every chamber of commerce or principal trade body in the communities, tentatively listed for the census, he said, has been asked to co-operate in making the map of the area which may be considered its metropolitan district. The census experts will study the reports, and reach a ruling as to what should be included. Hitherto, such a task has been attempted only with municipalities having over 200,000 people.

The next census, Director Steuart calculated, will require the enumeration of the population separately in about 90,000 political subdivisions now existing in the country.

Local supervisors will be allowed to announce their findings of totals as soon as the field work is actually done, while the bureau in Washington will re-check and make a final compilation on the basis of the returns forwarded. The amount of information compiled in the 1930 census will be increased over preceding enumerations and the final census returns will contain an immense amount of data on agriculture, manufactures, commodity distribution, drainage and trade.

'Sax" Drives Away Thoughts of Cold!

He thought he couldn't play that night, but the cold he'd caught that morning had departed. Most professional people know what really knocks a cold in a few hours: many go through the winter without any trouble from colds. It's a compound that comes in little white tablets. Take one, and that first snuffle is just about the last; or several tablets if you've let the cold go until it's serious.

Pape's Cold Compound is all you ask for, and the druggist charges 35c for a package, and it never seems to fail for anybody.

MURDERED GIRL IS BURIED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 21.—In a drizzle of rain, funeral services for Emma Alley, murder victim, whose body was found last Saturday on the banks of a small stream near her home, were held with the Rev. Claude Downs, pastor of the Savannah M. E. Church, in charge. Previously announced for 6 o'clock, the services were held at 4:30 to avoid curiosity seekers. Friends and relatives had been notified of the right time.

No arrests have yet been made in the case. Coroner J. P. Caldwell will delay the inquest until next week in the hope that the authorities may secure evidence.

WILKINSBURG TRIO HELD IN CAB HOLDUP

Wilkinsburg police today are holding three youths of that borough, who were arrested last night after they are alleged to have attempted to hold up a taxicab driver.

The prisoners, George Taylor, 30, of 1505 Singer place; R. F. Phifer, 19, of 1318 Wood street, and F. R. Osborne, 20, of 1519 Foliage street, are said to have engaged in a gun battle with Patrolman D. H. Rankin before they were captured.

Engaging a taxicab in Homewood, the youths are alleged to have ordered the driver to drive them to Penn avenue and Swissvale avenues, Wilkinsburg, where they attempted to rob him. When George Bozick, 27, of 731 Everett street, Wilkinsburg, the driver showed fight, he was struck on the head with a blackjack, he told police.

The youths fled into Stoner way where they were followed by Policeman Rankin, who alleges the pair fired on him, and he then returned the fire and captured the young men after a short chase. Police say the young men admitted robbing a store in Center street, Wilkinsburg recently.

Wilkinsburg police say the pair also admitted robbing another cab driver in the Laketon road the night of October 31. In the Laketon road robbery, the cab driver, Harry Strohl, of 717 Mellon street, was knocked unconscious and his cab stolen.

GIVES HOOVER'S PLAN TO KEEP PROSPERITY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, acting upon the request of Herbert Hoover, outlined today before the conference of governors a plan for the creation of a nationwide construction reserve of $2,000,000,000 to be released in times of over-production and unemployment.

Gov. Brewster recommended that public authorities store up a reserve of construction projects equal to two years' normal expenditure on improvements and release this reserve at times of unemployment. Such a fund, he said, would be one of the best forms of insurance against national panics.

Organization for prosperity, he said, is the next lesson America may teach to the nations of the world.

"With an annual expenditure of seven billions upon construction, America is in a position to stabilize prosperity to a most remarkable extent," he added. "Public authority spends more than a billion and a half. With this we are here primarily concerned.

BUSINESS TO COPY

"Private business will soon follow such practical demonstration as the government may make, since the great commercial interests of the country have the most vital stake. This may apply not only to construction, but to the renewal and extension of capital facilities of every sort. It is the considered recommendation of the one who has received the overwhelming mandate of the American people to guide and guard their progress in the next four years that a construction reserve may prudently be accumulated in time of plenty against the lean year that is to come.

"This involves simply the provision of the necessary funds or credit to be released when indexes shall indicate the need and such designation of projects as may commend itself to the authority concerned."

Gov. Brewster told the governors that no infringement of legislative prerogatives was contemplated, because no project could be carried out except as the Legislature might direct, although the rapidity of the construction program within defined limits could be accelerated or retarded to synchronize with national and local needs.

JOAQUIN MILLER STOLE HER POEM "COLUMBUS," PITTSBURGH WOMAN SAYS

IS JOAQUIN MILLER A PLAGIARIST?

Every grade school pupil is told that Joaquin Miller, picturesque Western poet, wrote "Columbus," a poem depicting the momentous voyage of the discoverer of America. A Pittsburgh woman now claims she wrote the poem, thus hinting that he was a plagiarist.

WAS POEM IN THIS VOLUME OF MILLER STOLEN?

Carnegie Library attaches and literary people are eager to learn whether Joaquin Miller wrote "Columbus," one of his best poems appearing in this volume of his complete poetical works.

Miss Ida D'Amico, librarian in the reference department of the Carnegie Library, is shown here holding a copy of the volume published in 1897, containing the disputed poem.

DID THIS EDGEWOOD WOMAN WRITE IT?

Mrs. Henry D. James, 435 Locust street, Edgewood, contends she wrote "Columbus" when a seventh grade pupil at Olean, N. Y., She wants to prove to the world that Joaquin Miller stole her poem and she has enlisted legal talent. She claims Miller slightly altered the poem from her original.

HARMONICA CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO N. BRADDOCK BOY

Paul Shuba, a student at the Hartman, Jr., High School, North Braddock, and is champion harmonica player of the triborough district.

He was given the gold medal signifying first prize among 24 competitors in the individual harmonica contest staged at a Braddock theater last night.

Frances Laughlin, 300 Camp avenue, Braddock, of St. Brendon's School band, won second prize, a silver medal, and a bronze medal as third honors, was won by Jack Spitzer, an 8-year-old member of St. Brendon's school band. Nine girls contested for honors as harmonica players. Dorothy Evans of Braddock, carried off first prize, Frances Kryzniak took second, and third honors went to Dorothy Gulas. The gifts for the girls included merchandise.

The contests, sponsored by the Braddock theater, are the results of six weeks of practice by the various school children of the triboroughs. Bands were formed and after an elimination contest, St. Brendon's band was declared the winner. Thirty-three pupils contested for the individual honors and the "championship" following the band contests.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

A FRIEND was arrested the other night. He had violated, or was accused of violating the law governing motorists. Ordinarily, a motorist gets away by posting bond for a hearing, but the friend in question was considered a pretty bad character and he was thrown into what is technically known as "the can" where he "rested" all of one night and part of a day.

A bit of a philosopher and a dilettante of the arts, he naturally is ruminative and inquiring, and during his incarceration he devoted a part of his time to noting things about a cell. Since it was the first time he ever had been pinched he naturally took in his surroundings with the air of an explorer.

Being a philosopher, what he deemed the infamy of his arrest, was tinctured partly by the amusement he got out of his surroundings. He was prompted, for one thing, to cogitate on the criminal mind and for another thing decided, once he was free, to spend some time on a study of what prompts men to write on walls.

IT IS one of the mysteries, not cleared up by an ever advancing scientific world, why a blank wall promotes literary talent in a large number of generally unliterary persons. His cell wall was covered with poetry and bits of autobiography. The poetry in most cases was almost as obscene as that obscenity affected by more distinguished gentlemen of letters who run, as they say, to realism. The biographical notes will permit of recording. The poetry must spend the rest of its life in the gaol where it now resides.

You will note the vein of boastfulness running through the thumbnail biographical sketches. For instances: "Kid Grawig, the noted tire thief, was put in here on the third of March for stealing a 29x4.40." Then is added a bit of shrewd advice: "Take a ——— fool's advice and don't steal tires in Sharpsburg." It will be observed that stealing a tire is not considered bad form—only in Sharpsburg.

* * *

"S. A. (DAREDEVIL) CARNEY," another inscription ran, "spent a night here 12-29-26." The register also included "Al Lang, the noted thug." Then there was a note out of the West as "The Riding Kid from Texas" had taken occasion to register. "Kid Oboneki," proclaimed to his readers that he was a highway robber of no little distinction.

The fact that the lawless element seem to derive a certain satisfaction out of their notorious callings prompted our friend to feel a little depressed, but being of a philosophical turn of mind he is not one who would entirely decry this system of sketchy biography.

When our friend was thrown into the hoose-gow he was without a book, and since the Sharpsburg jail has so far made no great pretensions to affording temporary guests the latest from the fiction grind nor yet any standard works by old authors the writings on the wall at least helped our friend to pass a night which might have been otherwise entirely dull.

However, for consideration quite aside from art, our friend's advice, smacking a little of the caution expressed by Kid Grawig, to all and sundry is to keep out of all jails, including the one in Sharpsburg.

EDGEWOOD WOMAN CALLS POET MILLER PLAGIARIST

Was Joaquin Miller, picturesque Western poet, a plagiarist? Especially, was he guilty of claiming authorship for "Columbus," the poem depicting the momentous voyage of the discoverer of America?

These are the questions Carnegie Library attaches and various literary people are asking themselves as the result of the contention of Mrs. Elizabeth B. James, of 435 Locust street, Edgewood, that she wrote the poem in 1891, when a seventh-grade pupil in the public schools at Olean, N. Y.

Mrs. James candidly admits she is not a poet. She has never had a volume of poetical works published, but only as a child devoted some of her time to versifying. Yet, she is determined to prove to the world that she wrote the poem which every grade school pupil learns to memorize and by which Joaquin Miller is perhaps best known. So eager is she to prove her authorship of "Columbus" and thereby brand the Western poet a plagiarist, that she has enlisted the aid of several lawyers for the purpose.

Mrs. James is positive she wrote the poem. She says she still has the original manuscript. Her version, she contends, was only slightly altered by Miller, chiefly in punctuation and in a few words.

"It makes my blood boil when I see my poem published every year as coming from the pen of Joaquin Miller," Mrs. James told the Sun-Telegraph. "I know I wrote it, and here is the evidence in substantiation of my claim.

"My first idea of writing a poem about Columbus came when the World's Fair in Chicago was beginning to be discussed."

Mrs. Miller then described how she was puzzled over the meaning of certain words, geographical locations referred to in the poem, and the meter she was to use. She continued:

"The expression 'Gray Azores' in the first line I used because somewhere I had seen a statement to the effect that, although the word 'Azores' means 'azure,' the Azores as seen from the distance look gray instead of blue. The 'Gates of Hercules,' of the second line, come from a footnote that I had previously seen somewhere to the effect that the 'Straits of Gibraltar' are sometimes called the 'Gates of Hercules.'"

Mrs. James then told of how, years after she had written the poem, she found her manuscript, how she tried to sell it, and how she found it published under the name of Joaquin Miller.

"I sent it to Harper and Brothers in 1907. The very next month, however, I found a big additional reason. One night, in looking through the Buffalo Evening News, I was stunned to see my poem printed to be memorized by seventh-grade students of the New York state public schools, Joaquin Miller's name was affixed to it. I felt sure his name had become associated with it without his knowledge until, on my return to Pittsburgh, I visited Carnegie Library, where I found in an 1897 copyrighted edition of his works my 'Columbus' among his later poems."

"My brother, proud of my work, had sent it to a Chicago newspaper. As Joaquin Miller did considerable journalistic work, he must have somehow happened on the poem and simply appropriated it."

While so far Mrs. James has been unsuccessful in her efforts to be credited with the authorship of "Columbus," due to incomplete proof, she has had at least the satisfaction of being recognized by Edgewood teachers as its author.

"My youngest girl will have it assigned as part of her public school work this year, and her teacher will give me all the credit," she said.

The poem, as Mrs. James claims to have written it, reads:

COLUMBUS.

Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind the Gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said: "Now let us pray,
For lo the very stars are gone.
Speak, Admiral, what shall I say?"
"Why say: Sail on! sail on! and on!"

"My men grow mutinous day by day;
My men grow ghastly, wan and weak."
The stout mate thought of home. A spray
Of salt wave washed his swarthy cheek.
"What shall I say, brave Admiral, say,
If we sight naught but seas at dawn?"
"Why, you shall say at the break of day:
'Sail on! sail on! sail on! and on.'"

They sailed and sailed as winds might blow,
Until at last the blanched mate said:
"Why now not even God would know
Should I and all my men fall dead.
These very winds forget their way,
For God from these dread seas is gone.
Now speak, brave Admiral, speak and say—"
He said: "Sail on! sail on! and on!"

They sailed and sailed; then spoke the mate:
"This mad sea shows its teeth tonight.
He curls his lips, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth, as if to bite!
Brave Admiral, say but one good word.
What shall we do when hope is gone?"
The words leapt as a leaping sword:
"Sail on! sail on! sail on! and on!"

Alighting from a Carrick street car at South Eighteenth street extention and Monastery avenue, Mrs. Nora Flinn, 59, 2928 Brentwood avenue, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by Albert Scarano, 22, 186 Shetland street.

Mrs. Flinn, taken to the St. Joseph's Hospital by Scarano, is suffering a fractured hip and body bruises.

According to the South Side police, Scarano drove around the left of the street car, which was northbound on the extension. He will receive a hearing in Traffic Court on the charge of violating the automobile laws, when Mrs. Flinn is able to leave the hospital to testify.

HUSBAND BLACKENED EYE, WIFE SAYS, ASKS DIVORCE

Pretty Pearl M. Brush, 23, of Beyrleye avenue, West Etna, who lived with her husband's mother for eight months after he began running around with another woman, has asked Judge Thomas J. Ford to divorce her from George C. Brush.

The little brunette who was married to Brush in February of last year and was a telephone operator in the office of the National Stockman and Farmer, said she could not stand her husband's abuse and had to leave him. The husband had blackened her eye, struck her in the abdomen necessitating an operation for appendicitis and stayed out all hours of the night. During her stay with her mother-in-law her husband never visited her. Mrs. Brush is at present making her home with her sister, Mrs. N. Beyrleye. At the time of the marriage, Mrs. Brush said her husband was a district sales manager for the Gulf Refining Company. Mrs. Brush was represented in her court proceedings by Ben L. Steinberg.

WOMAN FAINTS IN COURT

Mrs. Rachel T. Chambers, Perrysville avenue, swooned in Judge James R. Macfarlane's Common Pleas Court room yesterday during a recess of her case and had to be rushed to the emergency hospital in the City-County Building.

Mrs. Chambers brought suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for damages for injuries received in November, 1926, when she was struck by a street car of the denfendant company in front of the North Side Carnegie Library.

Says Wife Fought Tots, Asks Divorce

Ford in Common Pleas Court. The couple were married in 1907. A brother of the dentist endeavored to bring about a reconciliation but failed. Dr. Sellors does not know where his wife is now, but says the last he heard from her she was living in Park avenue, Baltimore.

Injured in Trolley Crash, Asks $20,000

Another echo of the street car collision at the Warrington avenue trestle of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, August 10, last, was heard yesterday when Mrs. Viola R. Sachter, 2501 Home avenue, Overbrook, brought suit against the company for $20,000 through her counsel Ben Paul Brasley. She says that as a result of the collision she was injured about the head and body and that her nervous system has been shocked.

She is the daughter of the late Charles Laird, former superintendent of the plate mills of Homestead Steel Company, mysteriously murdered about five years ago. She recovers today from shock and bruises.

CATHERINE CONLIN

Because she hurried through her daily morning radio setting up exercises, Miss Catherine Conlin, 1217 Margaret street, Munhall, was injured in the Homestead car crash and today is in the same Homestead Hospital room in which she convalesced last spring from an operation. It was an earlier car than usual.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 21.

Al Smith has gone South to play golf. That shows that there must be prosperity, when even the Democrats can afford golf courses.

I attribute Hoover's success to the fact that we have never seen his picture on a golf course. Nothing outside of a Senatorial investigation can ruin a man so completely with the general public as golf pictures can.

Curtis Tells His Mother He's Taking a Business Trip, But Leaves With Joan

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Joan becomes engaged to Curtis. She later tells him about her old love affair with Bill and wants to break their engagement. Curtis leaves town to try to forget her, but returns when he finds he still loves her. Bill returns and Joan sees him. Bill meets Ruth and he tells her that Rollo is deeply in love with her, but she isn't interested as she is in love with Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"PRETTY soft!" Ruth chuckled when Joan came into the shop at a quarter of 10, followed by the taxi driver with her suitcase.

Joan took her hat off, laughing. "Yes, isn't it? I know I'm a bad influence. I'll bet Francine will be glad when I quit. I really would have quit this week, only she wanted me to work on the Youngberg girl's things. I'm only going to stay an hour today, though. Mrs. Barstow is having a house party—isn't that fun?"

"Where?" Ruth was all agog with interest. "Who's going—what clothes are you taking? Oh, you make me sick—you lucky thing—"

"Oh, it isn't a big party. I'm just taking hiking shoes and sweaters. I can't wait to get into the country. Don't you remember the place I told you about last Thanksgiving, near Santa Cruz? Didn't I tell you about it then? Anyway, it's a love of a place, and I don't know why they don't use it more."

"Any debutantes or any good-looking men going?"

"Well—none as nice as Curtis," Joan said smiling. "Tim Laird is the only other one, and he isn't very exciting. But I like Eugenia a lot—she's going, too—and Mrs. Barstow is bringing some friend of hers—Mrs. Cunningham, I think Curtis said. Now don't talk to me for a few minutes, there's a dear, Ruth—I want to finish that dress for Francine—"

"Some people have all the luck," Ruth called over her shoulder. "Well—have a good time, honey, and goodby if you're gone before I get back. I'm off to match linings! That's the kind of job I have around this place. Bet I have to walk all over town, and my feet hurting like the devil already—"

She was going to give Will'um a chafing dish crab Neuberg in her room. No more inquisitive waiters, breaking up the tete-a-tete! No siree . . .

She slipped up to the hotel to make sure that lazy, good-for-nothing maid had fixed her room presentably. Well—it wasn't swell—but it was at least comfortable. Good joke on her if he insisted on eating downtown . . . not likely though—she knew how to handle men.

He was going to meet her outside of the shop at 1 o'clock. He didn't know it yet, but she wasn't going back after lunch. They'd sit around the room for a while, and then she'd get him to drive her out to the park or somewhere. She snickered as she pictured Francine's face when she phoned she had been detained at the dentist's! Well—another hour to get through, and then she'd know the worst . . .

"Pardon me, Miss Gillespie . . . I'm looking for Miss Hastings." Ruth looked up quickly. Mrs. Barstow, all decked out in pale gray, like a young bride, or a middle-aged funeral . . .

"Why, Miss Hastings left about 20 minutes ago." Ruth almost added, "With your son—" But she stopped. Mrs. Barstow certainly wasn't dressed for a long ride to the country . . .

"Did she say where she was going?"

Ruth's round eyes narrowed, ever so little. "No, she didn't. Is there any message for her?"

Mrs. Barstow hesitated, plainly annoyed. "I felt sure I'd catch her before she went out to lunch! Well—will you be good enough to tell her that my son has been called out of town on business, and I shall expect her at my home for dinner at seven? Ask her to call after five—will you do that, Miss Gillespie?"

"Yes, madam," Ruth said graciously.

When she was alone again she whistled, a long, understanding whistle. "Well—you can learn something new every day! . . . Little fool . . . taking a chance like that!"

"Curtis! I'm hungry!" Joan had to shout, because of the wind and the speed of the car.

They were far out in the country now, climbing the beautiful steep road into the Santa Cruz Mountains, winding through redwoods and sunny meadowlands.

"There are things in the back of the car," he said presently, "but it would be rather a job to get them out. We could stop somewhere for a sandwich if you really mean that's all you want—"

"A hot dog—with pickles and everything. There's a place!"

They pulled up at the side of the road, and went into the small, tumbledown shack with its big yellow sign, "Hot Dogs and Soft Drinks."

She ate, hopping around on one foot, and making friends with the old man's black, wooly dog at the same time. "Aren't you hungry, Curtis?" she asked, a little ashamed of herself.

"I had a late breakfast. Ready to go on?"

"Yes—although I could eat another hot dog—"

In the car again, scrubbing at her sticky hands with an ineffectual handkerchief she said, "I am sorry Curtis—I shouldn't have taken so long—"

"It's all right," he said, and increased the speed over a level stretch between two hills.

He was lost in his thoughts again, his secret, troubled thoughts. "She smiled at that old man who sold hot dogs, just the way she does at me," he thought bitterly. "A dirty old man with gray whiskers. And I used to think it was just for me—that light in her eyes and the flashing smile like sunshine . . . the fool I was . . . She has it for everybody—even a hot dog vender and a mangy dog.

Her hand closed over his arm. "Curtis, you look so stern. It—it frightens me—"

He came back with a start, tried to answer naturally. "I'm not stern—just thinking that's all—"

"About what?"

"Oh—business."

"Don't Crutis. Please don't. This is our first day together for so long. We're always rushing, always letting people and business come between us. Can't we go slower, while we're in the lovely country, with the sunshine and the hills to see? It doesn't matter if they have to wait for us, does it?"

"Not so far as I'm concerned."

"Then let's forget them, and just go as slowly as we want to, shall we?" She laughed, and drew a little nearer. "I'm so sick of people—even nice people like the Lairds, and your mother. Let's be terribly selfish, and poke along and— Oh, Curtis—look—poppies—millions of them, under the fence . . . could we . . . would it be perfectly contemptible of us to stop, and get some—please—"

He looked at the orange field of poppies, and the laughing girl beside him, her flawless skin tinged with gold in the sun.

"Perfectly contemptible of us," he said, and his heart skipped a beat. She was lovely . . . so lovely . . .

She rolled under the barbed wire of the fence, and raced ahead into the poppies. "Aren't they beautiful—did you ever see such large ones?"

"No he said smiling faintly, "I never did."

"Neither did I," she started to say, and stopped. The little patch of them she and Bill had found on the high road last summer . . . Bill . . .Must everything remind her of Bill? Must he be always in her thoughts, always coming between her and Curtis whom she wanted to love . . .

With a little half strangled sob she flung herself into his arms, crushing the blossoms against his coat. "Oh Curtis—love me—love me a lot!"

His arms closed about her, almost automatically. "Love and poppies and dogs—it's all one to her," he thought. "The same degree of intensity—just a passing mood. Well, I know now . . . I know how much these sudden bursts of affection are worth . . . nothing at all . . . nothing . . ."

"Come," he said at last, "we must be going on to the cabin. The roads are dangerous up there after dark—"

"Oh, yes," she cried, conscience-stricken. "And your mother may be worried. What time did she leave, Curtis? Awfully early?"

"Oh, some time before we did—come on!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

"NOW you sit right there, and don't move until lunch is ready!" Ruth pushed Bill into the one comfortable chair, and kissed the top of his head.

"See we're going to have a crab Newburg—and you don't even have to crack the crab for me! That's the kind of a hostess I am—all kinds of service. Will'um, dearie, in the top drawer of my chiffonier—in the back, under the nighties you'll find a bottle—atta boy! It's good stuff, too, a friend of mine got it from a druggist, real prescription whisky. There are two glasses there somewhere. Now aren't you glad you came!"

"Say, I didn't know you could cook!" he said, passing his plate back for a second helping of crab.

"There's lots of things you don't know about me," she said. "I don't know—but people usually get the wrong idea about me, Will'um. They think if a girl is good looking she's—well—not domestic. I am. I just love to cook, and make things comfy, or I would if I had the right fellow to do it for. I get so darn lonesome all alone. Don't you ever get lonesome, Will'um?"

"Oh yes—sometimes."

"Well, now that you're back in town—"

"But I'm not going to be here long," he said quickly. "I'll have to be going back soon—"

"Bill—you aren't!"

"I have to, Ruthie."

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl
By John Held, Jr.

Story by Lloyd Mayer

FOR TRIPE SAKE, I DONT SEE WHAT GEOMETRY HAS GOT TO DO WITH FOOTBALL. I DONT SEE AT ALL!
IF YOUR HEAD WASN'T SO SQUARE MAYBE YOU WOULD. WHY, THE GRIDIRON ITSELF IS GEOMETRICAL, AND KICKING A GOAL LIKE THIS MAKES A PERFECT RIGHT-ANGLED TRIANGLE, THE BALL DESCRIBING THE HYPOTENUSE. SEE IT'S SIMPLE!
IF THE BALL CAN DESCRIBE A HYPOTENUSE, THATS MORE THAN BULL CAN DO AND HE'S SIMPLE TOO!

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DITHer at this point—I mean I'm simply SUNK about the situation because I HONestly don't believe 'BULL' is EVer going to be able to COPE with the geOMetry racket because I mean even the most eleMENt'ry demonSTRAtions completely BAFfle and nonPLUS the odd soul, do you know what I mean? F'r instance toDAY, my dear, Arab was BLITHEly trying to show him how kicking a DROP kick effect is actually making one of these PythaGORean THEorem things because, you see, the BALL deSCRIBES the hypotenuse or the hyPOTHesis or whatever it is, but I mean BULL just STOOD there all AGAPE without having the vaguest iDEA what Arab was TALKing about, my dear, and I was TOO anNOYED because I mean I ACtually don't think the great oaf half TRIES to learn what it's all aBOUT, so when Arab said the BALL described the hyPOTenuse or something and to look how SIMple it was, my dear, I HONestly couldn't help reMARKing that if the BALL could describe a hypotenuse that was certainly more than BULL could ever hope to do, and HE was simple enough, certainly, which I s'pose made him FRIGHTfully WRATHy with me, my dear, but I ACtually can't HELP it because I'm THORoughly inCENSED with him for being such a dumb BUNny that he can't even understand PLAIN geOMetry, my dear—I mean I ACtually AM!"

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

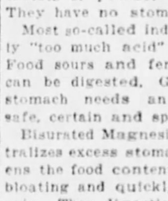
By SHIRLEY BLAKE



That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Magnesia Best for Acid Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants.

Most people who used to suffer from gas, sourness, bloating and indigestion have now given up disagreeable diets and the use of harmful artificial digestants. Instead they eat their favorite and formerly forbidden foods and after meals take a little Bisurated Magnesia—either tablets or powder—in some water. They have no stomach trouble.

Most so-called indigestion is merely "too much acid" in the stomach. Food sours and ferments before it can be digested. Gas forms. The stomach needs an alkali to give safe, certain and speedy relief.

Bisurated Magnesia instantly neutralizes excess stomach acids, sweetens the food contents, ends gas and bloating and quickly stops stomach pain. Then digestion becomes easy. It is a safe, pleasant and convenient method to use, and May Drug Co. and druggists everywhere sell it on a positive guarantee of satisfactory relief or money back. Try a test package on this plan, and enjoy your meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

When Woman Proposes

EVERYTHING is being lifted off man's fragile shoulders, these days—even the burden of courting and proposing.

* * *

Men are growing so shy and elusive—and girls so brave and strong AND resourceful! Of course, a girl COULD wait until a man asked her outright to marry him, but she would probably have to go to the altar in a wheelchair, and murmur the responses between her second set of false teeth.

HELEN ROWLAND

Still, there is the delicate question—HOW shall a girl propose?

Shall she say, "Bobby, sweet thing, will you make me the happiest woman in the world?

"Will you let these capable, little hands scatter your pathway with roses, and lift all the cares from your fair, young shoulders?

"Will you let me cherish you and provide you with that luxurious background, which your charming and exotic personality demands?

"Will you give me the right to protect you from wild women, unscrupulous flappers and designing man-hunters, and to provide you with imported cigarets and fancy hose, a racing car and pocket-money?

* * *

"Say yes, Big Boy, and I promise you shall never have to lift your languid hand—not even to powder my back or put the studs in your own shirt!"

* * *

Well—why not? When you invite a man to dine with you, you furnish the dinner, don't you?

* * *

Then, if you are going to invite him to marry you, you should expect to furnish the home, and pay the electric bills and the income tax. It's only GOOD FORM!

* * *

Or perhaps you'd prefer to go to him with a "reference" and a purely business proposition, and say—

* * *

"I am giving you a real opportunity, Mr. Gayboy—one that you will never regret—Matrimonial insurance. What you need, in your wild, lonely life is a HOME—and a housekeeper. Somebody to take care of you and guard your digestion. Let me be your cook-valet-and-femme de chambre. I will take the job in exchange for my board, clothes and pin-money. No Thursdays or Sundays off!"

* * *

How WOULD you "plead your cause?" Because when you make an "offer" you really must have something to OFFER! And a kiss has not yet been recognized as a medium of exchange.

* * *

This present-day fashion of getting a man where he can't say "No" and suddenly springing the "Let's-get-married!" line on him—and then letting him pay for the taxi and the license is positively cheeky. Be chivalrous—and merciful! Or else, be wise—and let a man do his own courting!

Horoscope

Thursday, November 22

ACCORDING to the planetary operations for this day there will be given much opportunity for calling into requisition the opposing force to delays, obstacles and seemingly insurmountable barriers. But the grim sturdiness and patience of Saturn, squared by Luna, will assist to the desired perseverance and dogged diligence necessary to overcome these stubborn obstructions.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of tenacious obstructions, with postponements and possible financial setbacks, but they should hold to the course by determination, perseverance and hopeful diligence.

A child born on this day should be given the instruction and training to enable it to meet obstacles and vicissitudes with patience, resolution and perseverance.

Pipe Dreams -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

© 1928, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

THE bachelor's friend in need—the old trusty black bier! What dreams he dreams over a bowlful of fragrant tobacco; what visions float through the air on the smoke which lazily drifts about his head! Sometimes, as now, they're peopled with all the fair, teasing faces he has ever known. He's reached the stage where he thinks he must decide on one, but—which one? There are so many and they're all so lovely, that it's hard to decide just which one is to be THE one.

But the soothing effect of the lonely pipe will soon straighten matters out, for under its influence he'll know before very long which one is the REAL one. Oh, if he could only be a sultan and have a harem! Then it wouldn't be so hard. Each has her particular appeal, but the one he wants will have all characteristics in her own lovely self. And finally, when the pipe dies down, just ONE face will float before him and then he KNOWS that she's his Dream Girl.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Childhood Health Determines Future

A SHORT time ago my duties took me to Elmira, N. Y. The Mayor and an ex-Mayor of the city invited me to visit the State Reformatory for Boys. I am glad I went. Dr. Christian is the able director of that ancient establishment. Answering our questions, he gave us much valuable information concerning the causes of delinquency and the human efforts to combat it.

DR. COPELAND

Here are some interesting facts:

In the penal institutions of New York State are six thousand males and only ninety women! On the face of it, that speaks pretty well for our sisters. Of course, there are other considerations involved than incarceration in prisons.

There have been 37,000 boys in the Elmira establishment since its founding. Of these only two were ever Boy Scouts. Another New York State institution for wayward boys has cared for 28,000. Not one of these was ever a Boy Scout. In short, out of a population of 75,000, only two lads who have had the privileges of membership in the Boy Scout movement have fallen from grace sufficiently to go to prison. That is wonderful!

With the large Jewish population of my state, it speaks mighty well for that race that of the 1,200 boys in Elmira, only 62 are of that faith. This speaks well for the Jews and for their sheltering societies.

Most of the boys who go to the State Reformatory are undersized and poorly nourished. Their warped and abnormal minds are the natural results of poorly fed brains, badly nourished by impoverished blood.

Dr. Christian and his able staff devote themselves to the responsibility of these frail little bodies. Wholesome, nourishing food is supplied. Out-of-work work and setting-up exercises in good weather develop the muscles. Trades are taught to hold the interest. Gradually the minds of the lads respond to the improved health and stronger bodies.

I saw a thousand of the inmates in a military dress parade, which we helped to review. Their manneuvers were "snappy" and their conduct superb.

Of course, I asked, "What is the result of all this effort?"

The answer was gratifying: "Two out of three boys paroled stayed good." In short, there are at least 66 per cent of successes on the first trial. Most of those who are returned make good eventually.

Dr. Christian emphasized the importance of parental control. The child humored in his eating and his habits, permitted to run down in health because of wrong living, and never held to account for his manner of life—such a child faces disaster.

The physical foundation laid in early childhood determines the future. There can be no doubt, I am sure, of the correctness of this view. It is Dr. Christian's conclusion, based on years of experience with delinquents. It is the teaching of science. Certainly, it harmonizes with the ideas of the medical profession.

No gift a parent can possibly give his child can be more precious than the gift of good health. That is a matter which, in most instances, is within the control of the poorest.

Answers to Health Queries

I. H. Q.—Is there a cure for St. Vitus' dance or chorea?

A.—Since the trouble is due to a nervous disturbance, this must be cleared up first of all. Avoid undue strain or tax upon the nerves and build up the health in general.

M. M. Q.—What causes my legs and fingers to feel cold and numb at times?

A.—You are probably troubled with poor circulation due in most instances to a run-down state of health. Try to build up your entire system by proper exercise and diet.

P. D. Q. Q.—What will benefit high blood pressure?

2.—What is the cause of granulated eyelids?

A.—A proper diet and general care.

2.—This condition is generally due to infection. Bathe the eyes with a mild warm solution of boracic acid several times a day and apply 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the lids at night. However, have the eyes tested to see if glasses are needed.

LOVE'S AWAKENING -:- A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion's Secret Provides Material for Queer Conjectures

I IMAGINE that my emotions while slipping down the hall from Marion's room to my own were much like those of a novice in burglary upon his first job. Under one arm I carried the pasteboard carton which Marion had tied so securely and in which she had packed her dead grandmother's old sandalwood box with its hidden compartment, the secret of which was known only to the young girl. I had promised that I would keep it for her while she was absent at school, but though I had realized that if I rejected Marion's plea, she in all probability would find some less loyal confident, yet I would have been woefully embarrassed if I had encountered Lillian while transferring the box from her daughter's room to mine.

I gained my own room safely, however, and lost no time in putting the box away in the bottom of the small chest in which I keep my own treasures, and the key of which I carry with me. Then with the odd feeling that I just had finished a grueling race, I sat down and let my fancy play around the envelopes, which I had seen in the secret compartment, and which Marion's grandmother had said contained the girl's "fortune" when she should be 18.

The envelopes had been in my hands but a moment, but I had noticed that two of them were much heavier than the third and evidently contained flat packages protected by the stiff corrugated paper used to pack photographs. A fantastic theory concerning the possible contents of those heavy envelopes circled tantalizingly around my mind, but I routed its absurdity with involuntary laughter.

Not so easily, however, could I banish the alluring possibility that there might be some basis for the aged woman's solemn belief. How much it would mean to Lillian if she could know that the child she so idolized would be assured of even a modest competence! I knew my friend would never use a penny of Tom Morton's money for herself, but Marion was entitled to anything that could be salvaged from the financial wreck her father had made of his affairs.

I knew Harry Underwood's reckless generosity. He had told me that he could lift the burden of worry over Marion's college education from Lillian's shoulders, but after the outburst I just had heard from the girl, I knew that Marion would strongly resent any financial aid from her stepfather, and Lillian would not subject her to the humiliation of receiving it. What a solution of the whole problem it would be should this old box with its secret compartment really prove a treasure trove for the girl!

I shook myself back to sanity with an effort, and went down to Katherine's room, wishing to catch her before the brisk walk which she manages to take every day, no matter how urgent her case. In the first two days of Junior's illness, she had gone only as far as the long veranda and divided her walks into five minute periods of tramping up and down the porch, so that if she were needed at Junior's bedside, she could be called at once. But today she had announced her intention of leaving my boy with me and had permitted his grandparents to entertain him for a few minutes before I insisted upon his scheduled nap. Knowing her conscientiousness, her decision had lifted a great weight of worry from my mind, but I wished further assurance upon one particular phase of my problem.

"May I come with you as far as the garden gate?" I asked, smiling, as she met me at the door all ready for her walk.

"Sure you don't want to talk to me here?" she returned. "I can wait just as well as not."

"You can, but you're not going to," I retorted. "I only want to ask you one question, and it doesn't need long consideration. I'm sure you'll have ample time to answer it between here and the gate."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Always Raise Your Hat!

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A claims that a man does not tip his hat to the women of his family. Therefore, when he meets his wife, he merely greets her without tipping his hat. B claims that tipping one's hat is an act of courtesy accorded all women and that he should tip his hat, whether the woman happens to be his wife, mother, sister or merely an acquaintance. Which is correct?

READER.

What a boor A must be. I'm glad I don't belong to his family, for I should be overwhelmingly embarrassed if he did not raise his hat when he met me on the street. He should be persuaded that "Courtesy begins at home." (And by the way, the word "tips" is not the correct one to use in the case of a hat. Say, instead, "raise his hat" or "take off his hat," or "lift his hat"). A man, a gentleman, raises his hat as he greets a woman that he knows.

The Tuxedo Vest

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Could you inform me as to the proper vest to be worn with a tuxedo? I notice some wear the black vest, while others adopt the white. Which is correct?

A SUBSCRIBER.

THE most conservative dressers maintain that only the black waistcoat is correct with a dinner jacket, that the dinner jacket, being informal, does not permit of a formal waistcoat. However, in this country, one now often sees the white waistcoat, and it has practically been accepted as a bit "dressier" than the black waistcoat. Except, as I say, the Englishman or those Americans who adopt the Englishman's word as "the last word" in men's clothes. And it really is!

The Bride's Privilege

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for the bride's sister or the groom's sister to be maid of honor? M. S.

USUALLY the bride's sister is the maid of honor. And quite naturally this is true, for the chief attendant of the bride should be her sister. And the bride has the privilege of choosing whom she will have for this honor.

The Hat Problem

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been invited to have dinner at one of the large downtown hotels and I would like to know whether or not it is proper to wear a hat.

READER.

IF you are wearing a street dress, you would wear a hat. If you are dressing formally, in evening clothes, you do not wear a hat.

Women are Learning the Right Way

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from within. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause — through the blood — and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

IF you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema, you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

Thousands have been enabled to free themselves of unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

Red blood cells are Nature's way for building and sustaining the body. Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did." Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mary Marshall to Be Only Bud to Make Bow This Week

HERE it is the end of November, or nearly the end, and everyone who likes to chat about society events is still discussing the debutante events. And on into December and even January the chief topic of "social" conversation will be the same.

This week there'll be but one debut party, although a number of debutante luncheons will interest the younger set and those who like to entertain the buds.

MARY MARSHALL is the "bud of the week." Of course you know she is the daughter of the Charles D. Marshalls of Fifth avenue. Her mother will present her at a tea in the family home on Friday afternoon.

Receiving with the debutante and her mother will be two of the Marshall girls who are now married, Mrs. William W. Parsley, of Baltimore, the former Elizabeth Marshall, and Mrs. Lawrence E. Wilson, of New York, the former Dorothy Marshall, and also Mrs. John Marshall, the hostess' daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Marshall's aides will be Mrs. Herman G. Veeder, Mrs. John H. Nicholson, Mrs. Harry S. Nicholson, Mrs. James H. Beal, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. Norwood Johnston, Mrs. John Lloyd, Miss Carrie Cavitt, Mrs. H. P. Davis, Mrs. William T. McCullough, Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright, Mrs. Michael L. Benedum, Mrs. Grant Dilbert, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. Marshall L. Jenkins and Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins.

Sister buds will be Mary's aides.

PLANS are being made everywhere for the Christmas holidays, and in the social set the Yuletide has always been a favorite with hostesses. Mrs. Baird Young will give a dinner party, I hear, in the Duquesne Club during the holidays for Rhoda Gamble, debutante daughter of the W. K. Gambles, of Oakmont. A theater party will follow.

Nan Bunton, who came out last year, will give a luncheon during that festive season for Rhoda in the Pittsburgh Country Club, I've been told.

TEA dances have been popular as usual this year, have you noticed? By the way, do you know that the Thomas Wallace Smiths will give a tea dance for their debutante granddaughter, Peggy Lynn Stevenson, daughter of the Alan C. Stevensons? The event will be given on December 31 in the Hotel Schenley.

Woman's Club Has Humorous Session

IT was a particularly happy meeting which the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh held yesterday in the Congress of Clubs, and one that was marked with much laughter. Singularly, too, most of this laughter was caused by the club's three octogenarian members, Mrs. Sara Archer, Mrs. James McKelvey and Mrs. Eliza J. Moore, whose aggregate age is 261. These, with Mrs. Minnie Ourey Roberts, the only living founder of the 53-year-old club, were honor guests at the Thanksgiving luncheon, and each spoke. Mrs. Archer's reminiscences were especially humorous, a quality for which this 88-year-old has always been known in the club. The Rev. Ralph W. Lloyd, having "A Thanksgiving Evaluation of Progress" as his subject, contrasted the Roman arena of the early Christian days and the Pitt Stadium as one evidence of progress. He warned against cynicism and materialism and observed that Lindbergh's achievement was not born of something new, but of the age-old quality of courage. "Unless there is a spiritual meaning to life, there is no permanence to progress," Mr. Lloyd stated.

Mrs. J. Charles Wilson gave three readings, beautifully done, and Mrs. Bertha Gross King and Mrs. Vida McCullough McClure furnished the music, piano and vocal solos.

THE public is invited to the annual guest night to be held tomorrow by the Dormont New Century Club in the Hillsdale school auditorium. The various departments of the club will furnish the program, the drama group presenting a play "The Third Angle," with Mrs. Howard Dudley, Mrs. L. G. Pearce and Mrs. Edgar Schultz in the cast. Mrs. Joseph N. Orbin is directing. The music department's portion of the entertainment will include choral numbers under Mrs. Harold G. Ewen's direction and piano trios by Mrs. H. A. Heineman, Mrs. H. B. Randle and Mrs. C. G. Louis.

BETA Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, will entertain pledges at dinner in the Faculty Club on Saturday evening. Dr. J. W. Oliver, Dr. A. P. James and Dr. N. A. N. Cleven, of the history department, will address the group. A musical program will be followed by a social hour.

MRS. WILLIAM A. HUDSON will be leader of the study class of the Congress drama department tomorrow morning. "The Strange Interlude," by Eugene O'Neill, will be discussed. The meeting will precede the monthly luncheon at which a professional program will be given by Miss Helen Irwin, who will appear in dramatic interpretations, and by the Russian singers playing in "Golden Dawn" at the Alvin. Miss Katherine Cornell, playing at the Pitt, will be a guest of honor.

THE special committee of the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference which is working to obtain a women's division of the Pittsburgh Police Department, is arranging for a benefit bridge party to be given at the Congress of Clubs Friday afternoon. ## 2 COVETED SCIENTIFIC PRIZES ARE AWARDED

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Two of the most coveted honors of science, one in the field of zoology and the other in physics, were awarded last night by the National Academy of Sciences to Drs. Edmund Beecher Wilson, of Columbia University, and Clinton Joseph Davisson, of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York.

Dr. Wilson was awarded the Daniel Giraud Elliot gold medal for 1925, in recognition of his publication of a third edition of his standard work on "The Cell in Development of Heredity."

This volume, first published in 1896, established Dr. Wilson as the discoverer of the cellular basis of heredity. The second edition appeared in 1900, just prior to the rediscovery of the Mendelian law of heredity, and he is credited with outstanding accomplishments in the subsequent development of that branch of research.

Dr. Davisson received the quinquennial Comstock prize for "The most important discovery or invention in electricity or magnetism or radiant energy," amounting this year to $2,300.

His achievement was the discovery that electrons, the primary chunks of matter which in their various combinations as atoms make up all matter, behave under certain conditions like light waves. This discovery, announced only a little more than a year ago, already has had a profound effect on the study of physical phenomena throughout the world. In accepting the prize, Dr. Davisson insisted that a fair share of the credit was due his collaborator, Dr. L. H. Germer.

Miss Berry founded the institution for under-privileged mountain children of the South 27 years ago.

The award is given each year to the American woman who makes the most distinctive achievement through individual effort in letters, art, science or social welfare.

Wife of Embezzler Denies Extravagance

Allegations of extravagance by his wife, which Lewis H. Meckel made to obtain leniency after pleading guilty to embezzlement of $20,000 from the Citizens Savings Bank, have been vigorously denied by his wife.

Meckel, 67, for 45 years a trusted employe of the bank, was married four years ago. Mrs. Meckel, in denying the allegations of her husband, said she never received more than $100 a month from her husband. He was sentenced to serve one to three years.

Asks Divorce From Wife Who Left Him

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A divorce has been recommended for Robert J. Worthington, 17 Buena Vista street, who testified that his wife, Dorothy E. Worthington, now living at Taylorstown, near here, left home while he was on a fishing trip Labor Day, 1925. They were married in May of that year, and he alleged she has since refused to return to his home.

THE LARGEST JEWELRY ESTABLISHMENT IN PITTSBURGH

Remounting of Old Family Jewels

A SPECIALIZED SERVICE of The HARDY and HAYES CO.

1887-1928

MODERNIZING of jewelry requires a mind gifted in imagination and in vision. It is the work of an artist, who, taking jewels that have outlived their fashion, re-creates them into a piece of modern mode and beauty.

What gift more precious for wife, or daughter, than a piece of jewelry built from precious gems that have been in the family for years.

Orders for this service should be placed now if the work is to be completed for Christmas, to allow ample time for submitting ideas and sketches.

IT'S EASY NOW TO DUST AND CLEAN ALL THE CORNERS

Improved triangular shape of famous O-Cedar Polish Mop cleans even the most inaccessible places

Ordinary mops and brushes are round pegs in square holes when it comes to cleaning corners of rooms and closets. But cleaning these pesky places is no job for the housewife equipped with the improved triangular O-Cedar Polish Mop. Into them she goes without a moment's hesitation. No back-breaking prying and probing. Just once over, and corners are as dustless, gleaming and clean as the broader surfaces of the floor.

O-Cedar Polish is best when polish mop is to be renewed. It is as famous for floors as it is for fine furniture and pianos. Use it straight for mops. For furniture and varnished surfaces apply it on damp cloth. Buy O-Cedar Polish Mops and Polish at hardware, grocery, drug, department and other stores. Mops, 75c, $1, $1.25. Polish, 4 oz., 30c; 12 oz., 60c.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

MR. HOOVER lamms for South America this week proving that you ain't nothing if you ain't a good-will ambassador.

That's a new racket among the totally elite.

The business of a good-will ambassador is to shake hands until the other fellow's cuff links drop out.

The fixtures always go along with the good-will.

Mr. Hoover's fixtures are big guns on a battleship and 16 American newspapermen.

The good-will diplomat is outnumbered by the old free silver ratio of 16 to one. It looks as if the trip will be all right if Mr. Hoover keeps the newspaper boys away from the guns.

The vice president will not be on the trip with Herbert.

Mr. Hoover's last words to him were:

"You might as well stay home and get used to being alone."

The President will occupy the admiral's bungalow on the Maryland.

Al Smith is summering down on the Gulf. Al had nothing to say about Herbert's trip on the Maryland.

His only remark was:

"I wish I had that battleship before election."

Mr. Hoover will not stop long in any country. Recent records indicate that a good-will ambassador is popular provided he keeps on traveling.

Another bit of good-willishness for Mr. Hoover. Don't try to put those 16 newspapermen in sailor's uniform.

Newspapermen's skulls are so peculiarly constructed that a flat hat would not stay put on their heads.

Here's a load of good-will for the ambassador. And if he needs any help we will rush more newspapermen down to him.

FRONT OFFICE SAID TO RUN CARDS

THOSE baseball followers who lean to the opinion that the old dollar sign lurked somewhere behind the transfer of Bill McKechnie to Rochester and the signing of Bill Southworth today to manage the St. Louis Nationals for 1929, and that in peevishly dropping a pennant-winning manager Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey were actuated either by resentment due to the monetary loss suffered through the failure of the Cardinals to bag a single game in the 1928 world series, or by some other financial item not yet disclosed, are amused at reports from St. Louis that the change was decided upon because the Redbird owners wanted a fighting pilot instead of the easy-going type that the Wilkinsburg man represents.

Branch Rickey

It is held by many that just the opposite is true, that a real fighting skipper would not fit into the Breadon-Rickey scheme of things at all, and that the kind of manager actually desired is one who will take orders from the front office about the running of the team and shoulder the blame for anything that may happen on the playing field.

In a way Southworth may be admitted to be slightly more aggressive than McKechnie, but he is by no means of the rough-and-ready scrapping kind that the Mound City moguls let it be understood was wanted.

AS contradicting the rumors of a determination to get a club leader of the aggressive, two-fisted variety, it is pointed out that Rogers Hornsby was a general on that order, one who ran the team to suit himself regardless of any proffered advice, yet he was fired after he had won a pennant and the world championship in 1926.

Further conflicting evidence is found in the fact that when the dismissal of McKechnie was reported, Roger Bresnahan was named among others as a candidate for the job. Bresnahan also belongs to the fighting school, and is aggressive in every sense, but as soon as the St. Louis newspapers began to mention him favorably the scribes were told to cease the ballyhoo and that there was no chance of his being appointed.

ONE man in close touch with Cardinal conditions says: "Rickey is not in favor of aggressive leaders who would carry the fight right to the front office, if necessary, in order to win his point, and Breadon would not have taken Southworth unless Rickey had O. K.'d the choice. Rickey is a power in the St. Louis club, and Breadon would not cross him because he depends upon the vice president more than he does upon the manager.

"What the Cardinal owners wanted was merely a pitcher picker, a leader who could select and work the hurlers properly, keep the team running smoothly and be a diplomat at handling the office and accepting suggestions graciously."

AT LEAST one high athletic official at Harvard is standing by Arnold Horween in the face of reports that Horween is to be deposed as head football coach, and that Eddie Casey, present freshman coach, will be appointed to succeed him next year. William J. Bingham, director of athletics at the Cambridge university made the following statement in reply to the rumors: "I am responsible for Horween's coming to Harvard, and my confidence in him is now greater than when I asked him to coch in March, 1926. If any changes in the Harvard coaching staff are made they will be announced through the Harvard Athletic Association. Neither Horween nor I will have anything more to say on the matter."

Arnold Horween

IT IS believed in some quarters, and particularly among Harvard men in the Pittsburgh district who are friends of Horween, that the fate of the coach may hinge on the outcome of next Saturday's game between the Crimson and Yale in New Haven. The teams look to be so evenly matched that that contest is apt to be a battle of wits between Horween and Head Coach Marvin Stevens, of Yale, and it is thought that if Arnold succeeds in outmaneuvering Stevens and winning Saturday's engagement any movement at Harvard to oust him will be broken up.

Horween has not coached a Harvard team to victory over Yale since he succeeded Bob Fisher in the season of 1926, but, for that matter, Harvard has not defeated the Elis since 1922, getting only a scoreless tie against four defeats in the five-year interim. In Horween's three seasons of coaching at Cambridge the team has won 11 games, lost 11 and tied one.

WHILE on the subject of football records, the continued great showing of the University of Detroit team calls for more than passing attention. This eleven, coached by Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, former Notre Dame star, who, with Knute Rockne in the playing days of the two, had much to do with the development of the forward pass, is one of the college outfits not defeated nor tied this year.

Marvin Stevens

And that isn't all of it, for the Detroit gridders also won their last six games in 1927, beating Carnegie Tech among others. This year they have cleaned up eight games in a row, so that they now have 14 straight victories to their credit. Their last defeat was suffered at the hands of Notre Dame, 20 to 0, on October 8, 1927. In their 14 straight wins they have been scored against only four times. No opponent except Tulsa has scored against them this fall.

ONE of the main factors in Detroit's success is Lloyd Brazil, brilliant halfback, remembered by local fans for his fine work in the game in which the Westerners defeated Carnegie Tech, 12 to 7, at Forbes Field last November. Detroit critics pronounce him an idel back and are booming him for All-American honors. Even Coach Dorais himself waxes enthusiastic about the clever halfback, though he rarely praises any one of his players above another. "Brazil would be inavluable to any football team even if he never touched the ball," Dorais declares, ranking him not only as a great ball carrier, passer and kicker, but a guiding genius of his eleven's offense and defense.

THE splendid impression given in the opening game here last Thursday night by Joe Miller, new goalkeeper for the Pittsburgh hockey team, was repeated in the Pirates' contest at Detroit Sunday, even though his team was beaten, 3 to 1. Lloyd Northard writes of him in the Detroit News as follows:

"Joe Miller, who was loaned to Pittsburgh by the league when Worters refused to sign his contract, made many sensational stops. Several times he hurled himself across the goal mouth to block the puck when it seemed certain that a goal would be scored. The three

Downey Appointed Cage Team Manager

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 21.—R. Fallon Downey, of Point Marion, Pa., has been appointed student basketball manager of the St. Vincent College team. Downey is also student manager of the football team. He is a senior.

Basketball will start immediately after the close of the football season, which will end next Saturday with a game with Slippery Rock in Latrobe.

Hurts Not to Keep Eby Out of Game

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Injuries sustained by Eby, star halfback on the Ohio State football team in an automobile wreck, will not keep him out of the Illinois game Saturday, it was stated today. Besides minor cuts and bruises, Eby suffered a twisted ankle. The Buckeyes are in good shape for the important closing game at Champaign.

SKIBO SETBACK WOULD JUMBLE GRID RACE

By JESS CARVER.

IF Carnegie Tech's football team should happen to go to pieces against New York University here Saturday (and Heaven forbid such a catastrophe), wouldn't the Eastern football situation be a fine mess?

At present writing, with a string of seven unbroken victories over powerful opponents to their credit, the Tartans are right at the top of the eastern and middle western ratings. There are three or four undefeated teams aside from the Skibos along or within hailing distance of the Atlantic seaboard, but you must rate Tech ahead of teams like Boston College, St. Canisius, Princeton and even Georgia Tech.

I would say that the Skibos are a touchdown or so better than Nebraska, which happens to be the class of the Middle West. The Huskers are a big team, but they are as dumb as they are big, and unless I miss my guess, the Army will give them a fine booting around in New York on Saturday.

There is nothing especially indicative at this time that would lead one to predict that the Skibos will lose to New York. Bob Waddell and Judge Steffen figure to outthink Chick Meehan on the bench and you can bet your shirt on the fact that Howard Harpster will be a jump ahead of the New York quarterback, O'Herin. The Violet attack is built around Ken Strong, and if Strong is stopped, Tech coaches figure the battle will be half won.

Harry Keck, Sun-Telegraph sports editor, came up for air at the daily sports department huddle yesterday with a brilliant idea whereby Strong may be stopped. "All Tech has to do, according to Mr. Keck, is to fix it so that Strong will bump into John Karcis a couple of times. Once you have bumped into Brother Karcis, you aren't so anxious to bump into anyone else for a few moments. He explains his idea at length in his column today. Read it.

This New York-Tech game threatens to be Pittsburgh's only sell-out of the year. The tickets are going like dough in a poker game with the deuces wild. There are still seats to be purchased, but you'd better hop to it and buy 'em quick, else you may have to get the game over the radio. And that won't help the Tartan bankroll two-bits worth.

DUKE-BISON GAME

Those reports that have been winning more or less circulation the past couple days relative to the shifting of the Duquesne-Bethany game from Saturday to Friday are the baloney. John C. Holohan spiked 'em last night, stating that he had tried to shift the date so as not to conflict with the Tech-Violet contest. The Bethany authorities refused to permit their boys to lose more than one day from classes, so the game is on as originally scheduled.

Bethany will bring a hefty team to Pittsburgh, the heaviest that has been here since they were at the stadium for the game (?) with Pitt. Since that time, Coach Nuss' men have been well-kicked around, have lost three ball games in a row and need a victory like most of us need money.

FIVE CLUBS JOIN NEW CAGE LOOP

Five teams secured franchises in the new Allegheny County Basketball League which organized at a meeting held last night, and a sixth will be added to complete the circuit in the near future. The clubs within the fold are the Goldensons, of the South side, Duquesne Light, Enoch Rauhs, the Miele-Franchina Club, and Duquesne Lafayettes.

Goldensons and Duquesne Light will play in the South Side Market House, the Rauhs and Miele-Franchina fives will play at Columbus Temple, and Duquesne Lafayettes will be at home on the Duquesne High court.

A meeting will be held next week to complete the roster, approve league rules and prepare for the season's openers early in December.

Bellefonte to Play For Title in Philly

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Bellefonte Academy and Perkiomen Seminary will meet in a post-season football game at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, December 8, to determine the preparatory school football championship of Pennsylvania, it was announced here today following a meeting of officials of the two schools.

Those attending the conference were James R. Hughes, headmaster of Bellefonte Academy; Dr. M. A. Rothermel, vice principal of Perkiomen seminary, and coach Peiffer, of Perkiomen Seminary.

It was also announced that the University of Pennsylvania, on whose field the game will be played, will cooperate with the two contesting schools.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 21.—(INS.)—The University of Minnesota football team will play Vanderbilt University here on October 12 next year, according to announcement made by Coach Dee Spears today.

NEW CARDINAL PILOT ONCE A PIRATE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

WILLIAM H. (BILLY) SOUTHWORTH, a Pirate favorite in three seasons starting in 1918, under Manager Hugo Bezdek, will not be 35 until next March, his age indicating that he may get into action part time in his managerial role in St. Louis.

The new Cardinal pilot is a left-hand batter and right-hand thrower. He is a sturdy fellow of medium height and his pleasing personality has made him friends wherever the fortunes of the game have carried him, and in his case the sport caused a lot of travel.

A Columbus (O.) boy, Southworth married a New Castle girl, Mrs. Southworth being the daughter of a minister. The couple have a boy who is now in his 'teens. Little Billy was just a toddler when his dad starred for the Pirates 10 years ago.

FIGURED IN DEAL

Southworth was one of the principal figures in the big deal between the Pirates and Boston Braves which gave the Buccos Rabbit Maranville. That deal, engineered in the winter of 1920, included four players and cash paid by the Pittsburgh club to Boston.

The Pittsburgh management sent Southworth, Shortstop Walter Barbare and Outfielder Fred Nicholson to Boston for Maranville and a cash consideration. The spectacular swap was called a good trade for each team and the contention was justified in the next season, both clubs being in the pennant fight for some time.

Southworth gave the Braves such a punch that he was made captain of the club, while Maranville pepped up the Pirats who were in first place most of the season, but were

LEONARD M. GRANT

New York University's other tackle, who is rated by many critics as even a better player than Lassman. He is not as tall or rangy as Lassman, but is almost as heavy and is a more determined player. Substituting for Lassman in the intercollegiate boxing tournament last year, he won the heavyweight championship. Tech has plenty to worry about in contemplating ways and means of handling Lassman and Grant Saturday.

"BEAT N. Y. U.!" BATTLE CRY OF CITY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

NOW is the time for all of the good burghers of Pittsburgh to rally 'round as a matter of civic duty and pull together for a victory for Carnegie Tech over New York University in the Plaid's grand finale to its greatest season, at Forbes Field, Saturday.

Let's make this a college town for a week and show some college spirit, as they do in other cities, and consider it a life and death matter that Tech should win over the scheming invaders from the big city, who are coming here for no other reason than to try to blackjack our classy Tartans out of their hard-won National championship honors. Let's quit being mere innocent bystanders for the nonce and set up a cry of "They shall not pass!"

Tech will need all of its rare talent to beat the primed Violets, following the tough battles of the last two weeks against Georgetown and Notre Dame. The Violets are a great aggregaton and no mistake. There can be no letdown now without serious results. The Plaid must be properly attuned mentally, and we can help them keep on edge by starting our worrying now and getting them to follow our lead and realize their sacred sporting duty to battle the invaders as if the peace and sanctity of our homes depended upon the rout of Coach Chick Meehan's men, even as the hosts of Knute Rockne were sent reeling back to decisive and humbling defeat at South Bend a few days ago.

Everywhere our teams go to play the battle cry is raised:

"Beat Pitt!" or "Beat Tech!" as the case happens to be.

Let our rallying, warning signal be:

"Beat N. Y. U.! Crush N. Y. U.! They shall not pass—those N. Y. U. guys!"

WRITE it on your cuffs that N. Y. U. is tough. The Tech coaches, who have thoroughly scouted the Violets, know it and they are doing their utmost to impress on their players that what happened in the Notre Dame game will not cause the New York team to lie down and play dead. What transpires at Forbes Field Saturday will tell the tale. Only another such brilliant exhibition as was given at South Bend will win, and even that may not prove sufficient.

The Violets have a constellation of stars. True, they lost to Georgetown, which later bowed to Tech, but how! They outrushed and outfirst downed Georgetown to death, only to go hurtling to a 7-2 defeat through the medium of a fumble that was converted into a touchdown on a long run by Ken Prophet, one of Georgetown's ends, who recovered the ball. Since then Alfred has been beaten, 71-0, and Missouri has been trampled, 27-6. In eight games, N. Y. U., has scored

TONIGHT'S GAMES.

Carter vs. Eichenmiller, at Kalmer's; Greenwood vs. McClure, at Crookston Recreation.

Defeating his playing partner, Dale Campbell, 53 to 43, last night on the Ellis table, William Greenwood, of Ellis', took undisputed possession of first place in the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League. The block took 63 innings, Greenwood's slowest block of the season. Each had a high run of five.

In last night's other game Robert Carter, of Kalmer's, last season's champion, defeated Joseph Mackin, 48 to 36. Each had a high run of four.

276 points, an average of 34½ per game, against a total of 33 for its opponents. Colgate, which last Saturday defeated Syracuse, 30-6, fell before the Violets by a score of 47 to 6.

---

The outstanding star of the Violets is a halfback, one Ken Strong, the leading scorer of the East, who has 19 touchdowns and 139 points to his credit thus far. Tech has had considerable experience with him in the past. Two years ago, when the rivals first met, he booted two field goals to win for his team, 6-0, and last season he scored one of the touchdowns in accomplishing a 20-6 victory. Tech putting over its touchdown in the closing minutes of play against a string of reserve players. Ken is a great runner around the ends and in the open field. He is ably aided and abetted by O'Herin, the quarterback; Dutch Hill, the other halfback, who, by the way, is a Burgettstown boy, and Riordan, the fullback, not to mention a couple of great tackles in Lassman and Grant.

COACH BOB WADDELL, of Tech, does not underrate the threat of Strong. "If we can stop him, the battle will be half won," he said yesterday, in discussing the Tartans' prospects.

My suggestion of the best way to stop Strong would be to let him run wild until he bumps into our John Karcis backing up the line. John has put somebody out of commission in every game this season. In the Pitt battle it was Moorhead, his own teammate, with whom he collided in trying to break up a forward pass. In the Penn State game it was Fred Hetrick, Nittany fullback, who was carried off the field on a stretcher after he had been hit by Karcis.

Karcis is a great defensive player, but he is also a great offensive player, and Coach Waddell will have to be careful that he doesn't get him hurt.

Roy Worters Must Play With Bucs Or Remain Idle

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Roy Worters, holdout goalie of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club, was given the ultimatum of playing for Benny Leonard's team or remaining idle all season by President Frank Calder, of the National Hockey League, who came here yesterday to watch the Boston Bruins open their home season with Les Canadiens.

"Worters will play for Pittsburgh or not at all," Calder said, "and under no circumstances will we permit outside influence to be brought to bear. Worters must settle with Pittsburgh and any other club interfering or tampering with a player while salary differences are being discussed will be severely dealt with.

"As Worters' case now stands," Calder said, "he is under my personal jurisdiction. He was suspended by me and will be reinstated by no other person but me, when I think the proper time comes. Pittsburgh can not play Worters, even if he should sign, until I release him from suspension.

"I have heard the stories that the New York Americans were quite sure that Worters eventually would land there. Well, they are taking too much for granted. Leonard does not want to dispose of Worters and I think you will find that Worters will play very little hockey unless he is in a Pittsburgh uniform."

PIRATE HOCKEY TEAM TOPS HAWKS, 2-0

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh Pirates inaugurated the Chicago hockey season last night by defeating the reorganized Blackhawks, 2 to 0, before a crowd of 6,000.

Presenting a stubborn defense that turned back repeated efforts of the Hawks, the Pirates took advantage of the breaks and of clever handling of the puck by Hib Milks.

GAMES TOMORROW NIGHT.

Canadiens vs. Pirates at Duquesne Garden.
Toronto at New York Americans.
New York Rangers at Chicago.
Ottawa at Montreal.

The Pirates' center scored the first goal after taking a pass of Darragh's stick from the side line. Again in the last period it was to Drury in front of the goal. Goalie Gardner was drawn out on the play and Drury had a wide open shot.

While Milks and Drury were leading the offense, Holway was turning back the repeated thrusts of the Blackhawk recruits. Three times the giant Pirate defense man stopped what appeared to be sure shots by Bobby Burns, former Duluth star.

On the Chicago team it was Vic Ripley, recruit center from the Canadian pro league, and goalie Chuck Gardner that stood out. Single handed, Ripley threatened the Pirate goal time after time and, when not busy taxing the puck down the ice, he was passing the rubber or stopping the much larger Pittsburgh boys.

DRIVE BUC GOAL

The Hawks drove repeatedly toward the Pirates' goal in the opening minutes with Arbour, Keats and Capt. Irvin passing with deadly accuracy. Miller's great defensive work, however, held the Chicago sextet at bay. After five minutes of play both teams sent in new forward lines.

Ripley's great exhibition of handling the puck kept the Pittsburgh defense on its toes as the Hawks continued their drive toward the well-guarded goal. Drury went to the penalty box after 10 minutes of play as Manager Cleghorn shifted again to his original lineup.

With their full strength back on the ice the Pirates swept down the ice and on a pretty pass from Darragh, Milks shot the puck into the net for the first goal in 12:35.

With the minutes of the first period waning the Hawks again launched a drive, but could not penetrate the Pirate defense. Miller's great defensive work turned back Irvin's individual exhibition of taking the puck down the ice as the period ended.

N. Y. U. Never Victor Away From Home

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—New York University will attempt to end its road jinx this week-end in the game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. Oddly enough, the Violet forces have been unable to win a contest away from New York since Meehan took hold at University Heights in 1925.

Rutgers won from the Violet, 7 to 6, at New Brunswick in 1925; Nebraska defeated them in 1926, 15 to 7, and last season, 27 to 18, while Penn State and N. Y. U. fought to a 13 to 13 tie battle last year at State College.

M'KECHNIE TO PILOT WINGS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Billy Southworth, outfielder on the St. Louis Cardinals' world championship team of 1926 and manager last year of Rochester, N. Y., a Cardinal farm, today was named manager of the Cardinals, succeeding William McKechnie, President Sam Breadon withheld details of the one-year contract.

The popularity of Southworth in St. Louis fandom was reflected in a newspaper straw vote for the Cardinal managerial position. Southworth polled 937 votes to McKechnie's 313.

"It is a great pleasure to return to St. Louis as leader of the great Cardinal team," Southworth said. "I am highly pleased at the decision of the fans in their straw vote and I can't tell you how proud I am to be offered the managerial reins."

YEARLY CHANGE MADE

"I feel that I have a grave responsibility. The Cardinals have won two pennants and a world series in three years, and—well it's pretty hard to beat that. But the Cardinals are a great team and I believe the fans of St. Louis have good reason to expect the team to remain at or near the top."

A new manager every year, apparently has been the policy of the Cardinals lately. Southworth succeeds such notables as Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the Cardinals; Rogers Hornsby, recently traded to the Chicago Cubs; Bob O'Farrell, of the New York Giants, and McKechnie.

BILL TO PILOT ROCHESTER

McKechnie who led the 1923 team to a league championship will pilot the Rochester Club next season, Breadon announced. Southworth will be the fifth Cardinal manager in five years. He was obtained by the Cardinals from the Giants during the pennant race in 1926, in exchange for Heinie Mueller. He had been on the bench much of the season but Rogers Hornsby, the manager of the Cardinals, immediately made Southworth a regular.

Breadon made the choice after a trip Eastward where he was told that Rochester was the gamest club in the International League and that Southworth was responsible for much of its spirit. Breadon was said to feel that the Cardinals needed more fight and perhaps stricter discipline.

McKECHNIE PRAISED

President Breadon paid high tribute to McKechnie, who led the team to a league pennant this year, only to see his team lose four straight to the Yankees in the world series.

"It was not easy to take the reins from McKechnie's hands," he said. "He served loyally and cooperated in every possible way with other men in the organization. And I am highly pleased that he has consented to remain in the organization as leader of the Rochester club."

McKechnie is the only manager who has won a pennant for two clubs and then lost his post at the end of the season.

Southworth told newspapermen he intends to be a playing manager, the only one in the major leagues.

SOUTHWORTH TO PLAY

"Who ever plays right field will have to beat me out of my job," he said. "Last year I hit better than ever before in my life. I was dragging bunts down the third base line pounding out a left field and was batting above .350. If I can hit like that, and I believe I will be able to do it in the big league, I will be able to help my playing.

"Moreover, I think a manager can do more with a team if he is in the game, with part of the responsibility of winning or losing on his shoulders. Of course if there is a better man for the job, I'll sit on the bench. The big idea will be winning ball games and winning the pennant."

BILL ON HUNTING TRIP

Bill McKechnie could not be found at noon today, therefore a statement from him was not forthcoming. It was reported at his Wilkinsburg home that Bill left early in the day on an extended hunting trip. Information at his home disclosed that he would not return from the hunting jaunt until Saturday. McKechnie has been spending the last three days of the week in the woods since the hunting season came in.

Jack Onslow, of Tarentum, who was McKechnie's first assistant at St. Louis, was not mentioned in the press dispatches concerning the change in the management of the Redbirds, but it would not be surprising if Onslow should make a change, as a new pilot often brings in new assistants.

CANADIENS HERE TOMORROW

Manager Odie Cleghorn and his Pirate skaters returned to Pittsburgh today from Chicago, where they scored a 2-0 triumph over the Black Hawks, to make ready for their battle with Les Canadiens at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

Pilot Odie expressed himself as well satisfied with the showing of his men in the Chicago battle, in which the Buc forwards displayed greatly improved power and the play of the defense combinations was faultless.

The Pirates probably will find the maintaining of their victory stride a difficult task here tomorrow, for the Canadiens have lost only one game this season, to Toronto, and last night they turned the tough trick of emerging with a victory at Boston.

The Flying Frenchmen from the North long have been hockey's greatest attraction, and this season they appear to be at their best. Last night's triumph elevated the Bucs to within one-half game of the American group leadership, and a capacity crowd is expected at the Garden tomorrow to witness their effort to achieve the crest.

ANDY MARTIN SECOND SUB FOR DATTO

IT SEEMS that it is just impossible to make up a boxing card these days and have it remain made up. The Motor Square Club has just had to make the second change in its selection of an opponent for Johnny Datto, the Filipino featherweight of Cleveland, in its 10-round main bout next Monday night.

Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., originally was signed to box Datto, but the State Athletic Association made him cancel because he has an engagement at Mahanoy City, Pa., two nights later. Then Lou Bloom, of Columbus, was engaged, mainly because he already holds one decision over Datto, but yesterday his manager, Benny Ray, wired that Lou had a badly cut eye and could not go through with the match. So now, after much scurrying about, a third opponent has been dug up for Datto. He is Andy Martin, of Boston, a veteran who has fought many of the best, including Rosy Stoy, Benny Bass, Babe Ruth, Chick Suggs, Carl Tremaine and Vic Burrone. He is managed by Billy Henderson, who brought Eddie Shevlin to Pittsburgh several times in years gone by.

Two changes also have been necessitated in the preliminary card. Jack Barry, local welterweight, refusing to fight Tony La Rose, of Cincinnati, and giving way to Johnny Carey, of Erie, and Terry Lingo, of the North Side, who now makes his headquarters in Louisville, being forced to cancel his bout with Young Rudy because of an injured hand. Jackie Murray, of the Hill, Negro welter, has been booked to take his place.

The two four-rounders stand up as originally announced. Tiger Joe Randall meets Tom Malco and Jess Hoak battles Dave McConnell in the short events.

DEMARCO VS. DEMARCO

DeMarco will face DeMarco in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport tomorrow night, Johnny DeMarco, of Philadelphia, has been signed to take the place of Johnny Hayes, who is ill, against Cuddy DeMarco. They are not related. Johnny, a club fighter, has boxed Al Winkler, Emory Cabana, Bucky Boyle, Joey Hadfield and a flock of other good ones. Bob Collera meets Jackie Murray in the six-round semi-final.

Harry (Slambang) Taylor, of the North Side, meets Eddie Barr, of Detroit, and formerly of the local South Side, in the eight-round main bout of a show at East Liverpool, O., tomorrow night. Billy Palm, of Johnstown, and Chick Walker, of Akron, will box the six-round semi-final.

Dominick Profio, Cecil welterweight, who knocked out Walter Dickerson in the first round at Oil City Monday night, meets Lawrence Madge, of Cleveland, in a six-round bout at Youngstown next Tuesday night.

Eddie Guida, protege of Benny Leonard, boxes Harry Scott, of Atlantic City, in New York tonight.

Joey Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., and Jimmy Reed, of Erie, will box the 10-round windup at New Castle next Monday night.

SALTZER CLUB OPENS LEAGUE SEASON

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Duquesne Saltzers, led by the incomparable Joey Drotar, will make their season's debut in the West Penn League tonight when they entertain the Ray Schneider club of the North Side on the Duquesne Library floor. The Schneiders were defeated in their opening league encounter with the McKeesport Hirshbergs Monday night and will be out to register their first victory at the expense of Jack Selznick's passers.

The North Siders invade the lair of the Duquesne passers with a lineup composed of the best independent basketball talent in that section of the city. In Joey Rodgers, guard and coach; Allebaugh and Ritzel, one-time Goose Goslin stars; Bobby Pflaum, former Bellefonte Academy flash, and Joey Singer, the North Siders boast a roster that compares favorably with the best in the league.

Interest in the Duquesne inaugural has been high for several weeks and a large crowd is expected to see the game. The two teams of the Duquesne Library Church League will clash in the preliminary event.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Philadelphia Company League at Fifth Avenue High School when Equitable Gas meets Pittsburg Railways and Philadelphia Company opposes Duquesne Light. Virtually all teams entered in the league have strengthened their lineups and a closer race is expected. Duquesne Light won the title last winter.

The Tempest Club will pry off the lid of its season tonight when it meets the Lees Pres Club, of McKeesport, on the Schenley High School floor. The Tubers include in their lineup several former members of the McKeesport Junker Club and they should extend the Tempest passers to the limit in the opener tonight. Light first-class teams interested in arranging games with the Tempest Club, call Irwin Volkin at Cedar 1104 between 6:30 and 7 o'clock.

The Pittsburgh Silents are back on the floor this winter ready to meet the best first-class and light first-class teams in this section. Write Thomas F. Ross, Jr., 104 Federal street, North Side.

Louis F. Having scored victories over Velox Club and the Jinx Club the Oakland Vagabonds are ready to hear from all teams in the boys' class. Call Schenley 1617 between 5:30 and 7 o'clock and ask for Cy.

The Sewickley Y. M. C. A. is sponsoring four junior teams this winter and is ready to arrange games at home and abroad. Write Harry Day, Physical Director, Sewickley, Pa.

eventually displaced by the Giants who won the flag, after defeating the Buccos five times in succession in the memorable series on the Polo Grounds in August of that year.

Southworth spent three of his best major-league seasons with the Braves, he batting better than .300 each year. His work was so effective that Manager McGraw of the Giants, acquired him in 1924. Under the positive leadership of McGraw, Billy was not a huge success and in the middle of the 1926 season, after two and one-half years in the service of the Giants, Billy was traded to the Cardinals for Heinie Mueller.

HELPED CARDS WIN FLAG

The high-grade play of Southworth during the remainder of the 1926 race was a big factor in the flag drive of the Cards, they also winning the world series title in a thrilling set of battles with the Yanks.

Doubtless the deeds of Southworth in that big drive are reflected in his advance to the leadership of the Redbirds. He was a big hit with the fans of St. Louis and it is small wonder that he received a big popular vote from the followers of the club in the contest conducted by a St. Louis paper.

Southworth was sent to the International League in 1927, and this year was appointed manager of the Rochester Club. The former Pirate showed exceptional leadership qualities in leading the club to a flag. His team was defeated by Indianapolis, American Association flag-winners, in the interleague series.

PLAYED WITH MANY CLUBS

Billy has played with a dozen different teams since he began his professional career in Portsmouth, O., 16 years ago. His calling carried him to the Ohio State League, American League, American Association, National League and International League.

Birmingham graduated Southworth to the Pirates in the middle of the 1918 race. Billy played in 84 games and led the senior circuit in hitting with a mark of .341, but the honor was bestowed upon Zack Wheat who was second in the figures, but who played in practically every game.

Throughout his Pirate career, Southworth was a ranking favorite with the fans.

SOCCER TEAMS TIE

Meeting for the Section II title, Langley and South Hills soccer teams battled to a 3-3 tie in an extra period game yesterday, the score being 2-2 at the end of regular time.

IRISH TO PLAY 10 GAMES

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 21.—Notre Dame will meet 10 opponents on the gridiron in 1929, Coach Knute Rockne announced today, three of whom will be Western Conference teams.

Eight of the 10 games have been definitely contracted, although dates have not been arranged. Two other games, one of which is expected to be with Southern California, will be added.

The scheduled games include Army at New York, Navy at Baltimore, Wisconsin at South Bend, Northwestern at Evanston, Indiana at Bloomington, Georgia Tech at Atlanta, Pittsburgh at South Bend and Drake at Chicago.

Carnegie Tech will not be played in 1929. Rockne said, but a contract has been made for a game in 1930.

acquaintance with Ox Maddox, former Geneva tackle during the McMillan regime, at the Pitt-Nebraska tussle at Lincoln last week. Ox is assisting Colonel Bo at Kansas Aggies and was scouting the Cornhuskers.

"We've been having tough sledding out here," Maddox told me in discussing his team. "The boys are big, but never in my life have I seen dumber ones. There isn't a man on our squad who knows the first principles of blocking and tackling, and little of the fundamentals of the game. They do not seem to teach it out here."

Maddox predicted a defeat for Nebraska against Pitt. He called the turn on the game last week, stating prior to the kickoff that unless Pitt was very weak, that the Panthers would outsmart the Huskers two to one.

There was a funny come off during the contest that had to do with Blue Howell, the Husker fullback. He tried a smash at the line and was nailed without goin by Fox and Montgomery. Someone on the sidelines, and on the Husker bench, at that, made a megaphone of his hands and called out—

Nurmi Not to Turn Pro for Awhile

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Paavo Nurmi, according to Helsingfors advices, has received official permission from the Finnish athletic authorities to represent the Finnish-American Athletic Club of New York, thereby indicating that the famous runner intends to remain an amateur in any competition he undertakes while visiting the United States.

This confirms the statement made to the Associated Press by Hugo Quist, Nurmi's erstwhile adviser, who believes the Olympic star has no intention of turning professional. It is Quist's opinion, instead, that Nurmi will run a few times indoors in this country this winter and then concentrate on a record-breaking outdoor campaign, possibly as a farewell gesture to the track.

Etna Boosters Hold Affair on Friday

The Etna Citizens' Committee will hold a stag social and boosters' meeting in the Etna Elks auditorium Friday night for the benefit of the high school football team. Among those expected to attend the affair are Havey J Boyle, writer of "Sidewalks of Pittsburgh" in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and Deacon Phillipi, former pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The committee includes Kenneth C. Wickline, Jalin Ahlborn, O. J. Feden, Harry Depp, Alex Andres, Michael Halleron and L. A. Donaldson.

Luque in Havana After Disturbance

HAVANA, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Back from Cienfuegos, where he was fined $200 for "disorderly conduct and public scandal," Adolfo Luque, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, says that if he "never sees the town again it will be too soon."

The charges were made as an outgrowth of a disturbance at a Cienfuegos ball field from which Luque was forcibly removed. He maintains that his actions at the park

SCHOOL ELEVENS TO CLASH IN STADIUM

WESTINGHOUSE and South Hills, winners of the respective sectional championships of the City League, will meet Friday afternoon for the league title, battling on the gridiron of the Pitt Stadium.

The contest was definitely carded yesterday when the athletic council at Pitt put its stamp of approval on the contest as a stadium proposition. C. Lawerence Walsh, director of athletics in the city schools, then made the announcement that the game was "on."

Both elevens have been putting in some strenuous practice sessions this week in preparation for the game. Westinghouse, bound to be a heavy favorite, is grooming its crackerjack backfield quartet of Ken Ormiston, Joe Ware, Dye and Klotz for an afternoon of powerful assault on the husky South Hills line. The victory over Schenley last week was hard earned, and the Silver Lakers will have to play better football than they exhibited in toppling Schenley if they are to successfully defend the title they won a year ago.

South Hills has a well-balanced eleven, and is one of the few Western Pennsylvania teams able to make a good showing against the crack New Castle High team. John Riske, a fine forward passer and clever ball carrier and Pietsch, the Hills' fullback, are touted as being capable of giving Westinghouse plenty of trouble.

On the line, two sterling ends and a beefy and smart tackle will be hardy obstacles in the path of the Westinghouse running attack.

Sports Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Cougar goals cannot be charged to any lack of a capable goaler on the Pittsburgh side."

WILL MYLES LANE, former Dartmouth College football and hockey luminary, be able to hold down a job in the National Hockey League, or will he prove just another college star who could not make the grade in professional hockey?

New York ice fans are still waiting for an answer to that question, or for a chance to get a line on Lane's possibilities as a member of the world champion Rangers. They had hoped to see him in action in the opening game at Madison Square Garden this week, but Lane was the only Ranger spare whom Manager Les Patrick failed to send into the contest.

Myles Lane

MANAGER PATRICK explains that he means to go slowly with Lane. "The opening game would have been a poor spot for the starting of a youngster," he said. Lane is not accustomed to such soft ice, in the first place, and besides he would have been playing his first pro game. That would have been too much of a handicap. Some persons believe that no American college player is good enough to hold his own in professional hockey. Lane is either to strengthen that belief or smash it, along with some other old theories concerning collegiate and pro hockey. He will not start until the time is right. Meanwhile, he can sit on the bench and learn some of these finer points that every young player must absorb when he enters the big hockey leagues."*

PENN BOOKS VA. POLY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Although Pennsylvania has not been very successful with southern football teams in the last decade, Virginia Polytechnic Institute of Blacksburg, Va., is to appear on the Red and Blue's 1929 schedule, according to reliable information.

Georgia Tech, Alabama, Virginia Military Institute and Maryland all humbled Penn in single intersectional battles since 1917, but Centre College, when the "Praying Colonels" were still ranked high, lost at Franklin Field.

Virginia Poly, coached by Andy Gustafson and Lee Frank of Pitt, is to appear here next October 12 and will precede the intersectional game with University of California. The "Golden Bears" coming to Franklin Field October 19 to repay Penn's two trips to the coast in 1925 and last year.

Penn State, Columbia and Cornell are retained, although the State game will be much later than usual, the Nittany Lions appearing here November 9.

The schedule follows:

September 28—F. & M.
October 5—Swarthmore.
October 12—Virginia Poly.
October 19—California.
October 26—Lehigh.
November 2—Navy.
November 9—Penn State.
November 16—Columbia at New York.
November 28—Cornell.

All home games, with exception of Columbia, will be played at Franklin Field.

Johnny Hoben Back In Yale Backfield

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21—(INS.)—The veteran Johnny Hoben has regained his quarterback job on the Yale eleven, replacing Bob Wilson. Hubbard is back at right half, but the other crippled regulars apparently are in no condition to break into the Harvard game.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21—(INS.)—On the eve of the Yale game, Harvard's football team is enveloped in the cloak of mystery and secrecy demanded by tradition. Secret practice has been inaugurated at Soldiers' Field.

REFEREE HALTS BOUT

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 21—(INS.)—Wildcat Carter, Negro featherweight, scored a technical knockout in three rounds over Frankie Stetson, of San Francisco, here last night. Stetson visited the floor seven times before the referee stepped in to stop the bout.

W. VA. PRACTICE IS LIGHT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Despite the snow and mud, Coach Rodgers yesterday afternoon sent the West Virginia football squad through a light, short workout, which was concluded shortly after 5 o'clock.

The punters kicked the ball for 10 minutes and then every Mountaineer took part in a signal drill, which accustomed the men to handling a slippery ball. Every member of the squad save Bus Larue was bothered some with a stomach disorder, but only Eddie Bartrug and Lawrence Plaster were confined to their rooms.

Red Gordon was also excused from practice on account of a strain received in the Georgetown game, but Trainer Art Smith promises to have this stellar sophomore guard in shape for the W. & J. clash on Thanksgiving Day.

"BEAT N. Y. U."

ward pass play. In the Georgetown game, Carroll, the captain of the Catholic team, suffered a broken leg in trying to stop him crashing through the line, and against Notre Dame he spilled Niemic and Leppig in opposite directions as they tried to halt one of his plunges and both had to leave the field, the former being removed to a hospital and the latter being carried to the bench. When our John hits 'em they stay hit, and when they hit him they bounce back so hard that the result is the same.

As for those two swell tackles of the Violets, Waddell is of the personal and private opinion that Grant is a greater player than the highly-touted Lassman. "Lassman is good," he said, after seeing the giant N. Y. U. in action, "but Grant is that much better."

THIS Tech-N. Y. U. game is going to be the season's first and only sellout in dear old Pittsburg. There is no doubt of that. The demand for pasteboards has been so terrific, especially since the Notre Dame conquest, that it would not be surprising to see the supply exhausted a couple of days before the boys go to the post, as they say in racing circles. Everybody wants to be in on the death of Tech's greatest season to see what looks like a titanic struggle and to witness the final appearance on a college gridiron in these parts of the really marvelous Harpster, directing, as only he can direct, that team including seven sophomores that has been socking 'em all on the chin and making 'em like it. So far it has been a case with Tech of the bigger they come the harder they fall. It's up to us to make N. Y. U. loom a little larger on the horizon, if possible.

Don't forget to talk up that "Beat N. Y. U." stuff. We've got to keep those Tech boys tuned up. Do your part and then tell the world how you helped to win the National championship for Pittsburgh.

80 Butler High Lads Out for Cage Team

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 21.—Eighty candidates reported to Coach Bernlohr, of Butler High for the initial workout of the season for the 1928-29 basketball campaign. Five lettermen from the squad of last year are back, four of them regulars.

John Harper, Albert Kranjcits, Fred Wersh, Frank Hollock and Capt. Bill Cross will be the nucleus from which the local mentor will build his squad. Harper will be lost to the locals in the middle of the season due to eight-semester ruling. The locals will open the season December 7.

ADGIE STOPS WALKER

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Matt Adgie, Philadelphia heavyweight, knocked out Willie Walker, New York, in the third round of the 10-round feature bout at the South Jersey Athletic Club last night. Adgie weighed 170 and Walker 174½.

Georgetown Team First Aid To Cupid

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Georgetown's football team did more than win a game from West Virginia last Saturday. The team also won a bride for F. Stanley Nishwitz.

Marjorie L. Morris, 20, agreed to marry the young man if Georgetown won. Georgetown did. She did.

SOCCER CLASSIC IS SLATED FOR TURKEY DAY

By TOM BIRKS.

WHILE a number of interesting soccer battles are carded over the week-end, the cup ties especially, it is the Pittsburgh-Heidelberg battle, scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, at Homewood playgrounds, that is drawing the attention of the crowd.

From the present set-up it would appear that this is going to be the outstanding soccer battle of the year, with two real cup-fighting contenders all set to go. The West Penn cup committee did not make a mistake when they carded the cup ties Thanksgiving Day, especially when Heidelberg and Pittsburgh came out of the hat together.

With the one-sided victory of Heidelberg over the National Tube aggregation, fans have come to the conclusion that at least Heidelberg has found some of the form that carried them to a national crown. Manager Balsarini has been satisfied with the work of the defense, and with Gerald Fagan in form, Courtley will hardly be missed.

Fagan and Villani will get its first test as a combination with Moremen opposing them. On the other hand, Pittsburgh is more concerned about their defense than the forward line. It is high time that Pittsburgh got some kind of a break, and fans watching with interest the doings of the Pittsburgh club are hoping that good weather abounds on Turkey Day.

With a big expense, Jack Lowther, Tom Dolan and Carl Ekequist have not had a break from the weather man this fall. Every home game scheduled at the Homewood playgrounds has been played in a downpour of rain, and that hurt the attendance. But there is a silver lining to every cloud and the lining might come one week from tomorrow, and should the weather man act a little decent, the greatest crowd that ever watched such a sporting event in the East End will be in the stands.

Only two games will be played in the District League Saturday, Pittsburgh and Douglas will tangle at Homewood playgrounds, while Swissvale meets the Celtics at Leslie Park. The Rovers and Twin Boros will be idle.

The West Penn Valley Referees' Association will hold its meeting at the usual headquarters next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and President O'Conner requests that all members be on hand for that session. After the meeting, Secretary Frank Hulet will make his usual pilgrimage up into Elk county, hunting elk and other game, so it appears that the writer will get another bear for Thanksgiving Day's dinner.

Frank is some hunter and once every year he provides his friends with all kinds of game. So the writer will take a bear, as usual.

National Tube will meet Carl Meisenberg's German Sport Club at Turner Park Sunday. Meisenberg is trying nard to get that outfit together. East Pittsburgh will meet Westinghouse on Sunday at Chambers field. That is a local get-together, so the fur should fly.

Two Tiger Stars May Not Face Navy

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Old Man Gloom is stalking the Princeton campus today. Capt. Chuck Hewes, who starred in the Tigers' triumph over Yale, and Quarterback Norman, are indisposed and may not get into the Navy game.

FIFTH WINS TWICE

Fifth Avenue won both ends of a dual gym meet from Allderdice yesterday, the seniors copping by the score of 142⅔ to 131½, and the juniors by the margin of 104 to 98.

DAVIES SIGNS FIVE-YEAR CONTRACT

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Tom Davies, former All-America star at the University of Pittsburgh and head football coach at the University of Rochester for the last three years, has been signed to continue as head coach here for the next five years, according to an announcement by University of Rochester athletic officials today.

Davies, whose Rochester teams have been amazingly successful, is understood to have received a substantial salary increase. Tom's new five-year document sets a new local record for long-term contracts.

The following excerpts from an editorial in a recent issue of "The Campus" student publication, testifies to the high regard in which Davies is held here. The Campus editorial says:

"At the time of his assumption of duties here, Davies found football a fit subject for the colored comics. His work in the past three years has been to rectify that situation and put football at Rochester on its proper plane. That he has shown constant improvement is a fact beyond contention.

"Aside from his ability to turn in a creditable showing in the way of a football record, Davies has proved to be a source of inspiration to his squad. .....And, then, last season was the best financially for the University in many a moon. It was the first season that made profits for the Board of Control for many years. The present season has proved even more lucrative.

"What the University wants is a long-time contract for the man who is establishing a football tradition at Rochester, who is putting personality into his work who is providing for a means of liquidating debts."

Ice Pirates Winners Over Hawks

hawks strove desperately to drive the puck into the net. Time after time McCaffrey and Holway broke up the Chicago attack, while Miller turned back the Hawks the few times they managed to carry the puck to the goal.

Ripley and McCaffrey were sent to the penalty box after eight minutes of play.

Ripley's return to the ice was the signal for another thrust by the former American League star, but his individual effort was stopped by Miller on a long drive to the net. Burns had a nice chance to score, but big Hollway got in his way and foiled the shot.

The Blackhawks continued their aggressive tactics during the closing minutes of the second period, but were stopped by a stubborn defense. Repeated long shots bounded up the leg guards of Goalie Miller. Seldom did the Pirates go on the offensive, seeming to be contented to hold the Hawks at bay and wait for the breaks.

WILD SHOTS HURT

Wild shots at the goal and Pittsburgh's continued stubborn defense featured the opening of the last period. Efforts of the Blackhawks to score were, for the most part, individual, the great defensive work of Holway and Drury breaking up the Hawks' teamwork before it got within striking distance of the goal.

Church Gardiner's slide for the puck stopped what appeared to be another Pittsburgh goal after seven minutes of the period had elapsed.

Drury and Milks teamed together to take the puck down the ice and on a pass from Milks to the center of the ice Drury shoved the puck past Goalie Gardiner for the second Pittsburgh goal.

With the Pirates holding a two-goal advantage both teams opened with a terrific offensive that kept Gardiner and Miller busy stopping the puck. Alex McKinnon carried the puck down the ice, as did Arbour, but each time the puck bounced off Miller's shin guards.

Every effort of the Hawks to score was met by a bunched Pirate defense that refused to leave any holes in front of their goal. The end of the game found the Pirates attacking with a three-man offensive, and the Hawks counter attacking with four. The lineup:

| CHICAGO—0. | PITTSBURGH—2 |
|---|---|
| C. Gardiner | G. Miller |
| Wentworth | L.D. Smith |
| Loughlin | R.D. J. McKinnon |
| Keats | C. |
| Arbour | L.W. Cotton |
| Irvin | R.W. Darragh |

Chicago scores—Burns, A. McKinnon.
Referee—Cottage Taylor.
Pittsburgh scores—Drury, White.
Penalties—Ripley, McCaffrey, Holway, McCurry, Mackay.
Summary — First period: Penalties, Drury, McCaffrey.
Second period—No scoring. Penalties, Ripley, McCaffrey, Cotton. A. McKinnon.
Third period—Penalties: None.
Scoring—Drury (Milks), 8:25.
Officials—Ritchie and O'Hara.

MAROONS WIN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP.)—The Montreal Maroons got some revenge for their defeat at the hands of the New York Rangers in the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring by taking the first game of the new season between the clubs, by 1 to 0, at Madison Square Garden last night. Through three periods of fast and furious hockey the Maroons consistently outplayed the New Yorkers to get a well-earned decision.

OTTAWA TAKES FIRST

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—After battling to ties in their first two appearances, the Ottawa Senators crashed through with their first National Hockey League victory of the season, defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4 to 1, last night.

The Senators, flashing a brilliant brand of combination hockey, clearly outplayed the Leafs.

Frank Clancy, who played a great game throughout, accounted for the first two Senator tallies. Touhey and Finnigan scored the others. Horne scored for the Leafs in the first period.

BRUINS ARE BEATEN

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins celebrated their housewarming party in the new Boston Garden rink here by dropping their first home hockey game to Les Canadiens, 1 to 0.

Archie Compston To Stay in Britain

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Archie Compston, British golfer who has just returned from a tour of the United States, was today appointed professional at the Coombe Hill golf club. He succeeds Arthur Havers, former British open champion, who is playing exhibition matches in South America.

Coombe Hills is a fashionable club in the suburbs of London. The club's position for many years was the envy of Sandy Herd and Compston's decision to remain at home instead of emigrating to the United States pleases the British golfing world, for he will be available for the British Ryder Cup team next year.

Win Employe Goodwill at Christmas; Sharing Pays.

—By B. C. FORBES—

EMPLOYE loyalty is becoming recognized as a priceless asset. Those composing an organization usually can make or break it. The most successful enterprises of today nearly all are those that have succeeded in winning either a goodly measure or an extraordinary measure of employe good will.

The best opportunity of the whole year for cultivating such good will is near.

EVERY employer in America would do well, in his own interest, to ask whether he cannot take advantage of the coming Christmas season to increase the value of this priceless asset, employe loyalty.

Is it not significant that the most progressive corporations today in nearly every instance are those that have adopted some system of profit-sharing? Some of them, it is true, still confine their profit-sharing to management, to those holding highly responsible positions. To share with executives is becoming recognized more and more as a prudent and profitable policy.

But not so many corporations have yet extended the same principle all down the line.

NOW, it may be that many concerns are not in a position to formulate any profit-sharing plan. But something less would do at least something to inspire a more helpful attitude on the part of employes.

I recall one humble worker showing me with great pride and satisfaction a Christmas card from the president.

Far be it from me to suggest that the sending of a Christmas card is all that should be done at Christmas. Between that and the adoption of profit-sharing there is a long range of possibilities for utilizing the Christmas season to do something to make workers happy.

The granting of life insurance policies is becoming more popular. So is the awarding of Christmas gifts, in money, for long term service; for example, under one plan each employe of five years' service and over receives at Christmas $10 for each year of service, the five-year employe getting $50, the 10-year employe $100, and so on. This arrangement seems to fit in very well where it is not feasible for employers to discriminate in the rates of pay fixed for certain classes of work.

Other concerns each year distribute cash representing a certain percentage of the years' profits. The method of distribution varies.

A TELEGRAM just received by this column from Howard Fitzgerald, Seattle, says: "Many merchants in the West are giving shopping orders as Christmas gifts to their employes."

Why need such action be confined to merchants? As a matter of fact, during recent years the practice has sprung up among well-to-do friends of sending shopping orders for a specified amount in a specified store in cases where it would not be fitting to send money.

WHERE organizations are not altogether too large, the giving of a Christmas treat of some kind often proves effective in developing the family spirit among employes. The cost of such an affair need not be prohibitive. The main thing is that it must be inspired by genuine motives of friendliness. Employes have a wonderful knack of penetrating through sham gestures. Therefore, the motive must be right, or the result will be wrong.

SHARING, in one form or another, is becoming a very significant feature of modern industry and business. The day of one-man-control or one-family-control of an enterprise is passing. Where such control is still adhered to, and where all the profits are retained by one pocket, progress and expansion are today rarely the rule.

I had the privilege last week of addressing the annual conference of the New England Council when I cited one-man or one-family control often by old folks as one main reason why the New England of today is not characterized by the dynamic vitality which characterized the New England of one generation or two generations ago. I mentioned that John D. Rockefeller laid the foundations for his fortune by granting partnerships to young men after young man, that Andrew Carnegie followed exactly the same course that Schwab did ditto, and that the greatest money making corporation the world has ever known is the one that has been the most liberal of all in sharing its profits, General Motors. Ford's admirers claim he took the lead in sharing his prosperity with ordinary workmen when he established his famous $5-a-day minimum wage.

IT may not be amiss to retell here what Rockefeller shot back at me when I asked him to what he mainly attributed his success: "To others."

Christmas is the season when it is easiest to bring others into our life, into our activities, into our good-will building in an acceptable way.

VIOLENT DIPS UNSETTLE STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Speculation in stocks continued at a frantic pace in today's market, but the price movement displayed increasing irregularity. With trading demoralized by the long delays on the ticker, which was an hour late early this afternoon, there was a more general disposition to cut down long commitments on the part of large and small operators.

Call money continued in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 6½ per cent, indicating that other stocks were being purchased outright or that large loans were being arranged through private and corporate sources. Most bankers are of the opinion that the character of the recent speculation suggests marginal trading although it is freely admitted that the scarcity in the floating supply of many high priced issues facilitates the staging of violent advances such as have taken place in the last few days.

Sale of a stock exchange seat was arranged today at the record-breaking price of $525,000, an increase of $30,000 above the previous record.

Radio was again a spectacular performer in today's market, soaring 21 points to a new high record at 379, or nearly 300 points above the year's low. Union Carbide, Pittsburgh Coal, National Biscuit, Keith-Albee-Orpheum preferred, Wright Aeronautical, and Midland Steel Products Preferred sold 2 to 3½ points higher.

OILS ADVANCE

Oils were in brisk demand at rising prices on reports that storage stocks were being heavily drawn upon. The heavy turnover in Sinclair was attributed to pool operations by the Cutten interests. Mexican Seaboard turned weak.

Dupont and International Harvester, which recorded sensational advances yesterday, broke 7½ and 5 points respectively, in the midday selling movement. Adams Express and International Nickel each fell about 5 points and May Department Stores, General Railway Signal, American Radiator, and Republic Steel dropped 3 points or more.

The day's trade news continued largely favorable. Several favorable October railroad statements were published during the day. The Weekly Steel Trade Reviews reported a further seasonal recession in output, but called attention to good buying for delivery in the first quarter of next year. Extra dividends were declared by the American Bank Note and Morgan-thaler Linotype companies.

Violent recessions in several of the high-priced specialties and industrials unsettled the market in the late trading. Radio broke from an early high of 379 to 345 and then rebounded above 350, and Montgomery Ward dropped from 418 to 400. General Motors, Packard, American Can, New York Central and other recent favorites sold down 3 to 6 points. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 6,750,000.

SHEET, PLATE PRICE BOOST ACCEPTED

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

MAKERS of steel sheets and of tin plate have had no difficulty in placing their price advances into effect. Sheets have been in a sellers' market for some time with deliveries lagging behind demand. The increase of $2 a ton was generally expected by consumers in view of the fact that profits of sheet mills have been notoriously small for several years.

Users of tin plate brought the advance of 10 cents a base box on themselves through their unwillingness to accept the change in the discount from 2 per cent to one-half per cent. On account of long term contracts, based on the quoted price of tin plate, the can makers were unable to pass the discount on to the users of their products, although they could pass on a flat increase in the price. The sheet industry put the changed discount into effect on October 1.

THE agricultural implement makers have had the biggest year in their history and this has been reflected in their requirements for sheets. The outlook for increased distribution of sheets to implement makers is good next year since the new combines, which have been favorably received by farmers, require about a ton of galvanized sheets each. These combines harvest and thresh wheat in one operation. A total production of 42,000 of them is predicted in 1929.

The automobile industry is still buying large quantities of sheets and other steel products in this district although November normally shows a decline. The actual production of automobiles is uneven since some makers such as Ford, Chevrolet and Dodge, are increasing operations, while others are reducing their output. The parts makers are generally busy with materials for new models to be marketed next year.

The sheet industry after a long period of grief, has climbed up to a moderately profitable basis and has hopes of a good year in 1929.

THE can makers are coming to the end of a profitable year, although the partial failure of the tomato crop has kept expectations from being fully realized. This year's salmon and pineapple packs have been successfully sold and there has been a shortage of tomatoes. Based on these results the can makers are preparing for another big year, although the weather is so great a factor in the business that such early predictions have little value.

NEGOTIATIONS are under way which may lead to the merger of several of the leading lumber dealers in the vicinity of Pittsburgh. No definite terms have been arranged and the companies to be included in the combination have not been fully determined.

Appraisals of the properties are being made and two large financial interests are known to have considered offers for the sale of control of the company to be formed by the consolidation.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

"Loan" Selling Absorbed.

The market continued at its increased gait today with the first half hour's dealing at the rate of 10 odd lot shares for a full session. Many sections of the list were called upon to absorb another heavy volume of selling induced by the opinion that loans will show a big increase when the Federal Reserve Bank makes its report tomorrow afternoon. However there was the same expectation last week and the loans increase fell below $2,000,000. The street has calculated a cash fall of from $75,000,000 to $150,000,000. In view of the upset of calculations last week traders are not making predictions for tomorrow's statement. There was considerable irregularity throughout the market but no weakness worthy of serious consideration. New stocks were brought forward on the list, among them National Biscuit and Pittsburgh Coal scored a further the following its surprising spurt yesterday. The former's position remained comfortable at 8½ per cent for call loans. Tickets were limited about an hour behind the market in the early afternoon. Sales for the full session were close to 2,000,000 a larger total than was reported at 12 o'clock yesterday.

Averages Reach New High

Tuesday's market carried both the rails and industrials used in the Dow-Jones averages to new record levels. Industrials closed at 295.62, a gain of 3.62 points in the last two days, probably the most sweeping advance in a similar period of time in the history of the compilation. In the case of the rails the gain for the week end of October was extended to 8.09 points, and this factor caused many observers to recommend a switch from last-month issues with favorable earning situations.

Unprecedented Markets.

There is no precedent for what the present market has undertaken, it was admitted by some of the best observers in the Street. Never before has the market absorbed profit taking and bear selling on a scale approaching what is now going on. It has also been a week in which bankers frankly state that they are puzzled as to what predictions to make for the immediate future, but many are confident that it is only a question of time when the Federal Reserve Bank makes its report tomorrow afternoon. However there was the same expectation last week and the loans increase fell below $2,000,000. The street has calculated a cash fall of from $75,000,000 to $150,000,000. Pittsburgh Coal

The renewed strength in Pittsburgh Coal common today with a further gain following its advance on the previous session brought out many rumors of dealer operations. The Pittsburgh Coal Company is a conservative basis according to reports has a book value of $241 per share. For the first time in 20 years can meet the next union competition from the Kansas fields. In other words not far behind them. The company is mining 1,000,000 tons coal per month. The Montour Railroad (steel) the Pittsburgh Coal Company earned slightly over $5,000,000. It is estimated this road has a conservative value of $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. The Pittsburgh Coal and Pittsburgh and Weste Railroad giving it a most favorable outlook. The vast tonnage of coal that the company compiled showed a gain of 1,000,000 tons. There will be about 15 million tons of coal, and the Pittsburgh Coal Company will more than share in this increase of business needed. The company is also selling now for some time and is seeing men in Pittsburgh and other places for it would not be unfavorable to those who should buy.

Armstrong Wins Patent Suit.

Armstrong Cork Company suit for patents in the manufacture of linoleum were sustained by the Supreme Court yesterday when it refused to hear a petition for review of a lower court decision in favor of the company. The litigation has been carried on for about a year having been carried through the various courts from the time the Supreme Court refused to hear the case. The victory for the company will mean marked increase in profits through royalties which will be paid to the Armstrong process.

National Biscuit

National Biscuit is expected to declare for the first time in the history of the market. Compared with the high priced stocks National Biscuit is relatively within a comparatively low range. Current investigation is said to have been made by interests who control the stock. It is also assumed that the directors at this time would declare a dividend as the company is in a very strong cash position and a number of observers are of the opinion that either an increase in the present rate or the declaration of an extra dividend is among the probabilities for the coming year.

Seats at $525,000.

Arrangements have been made for the purchase of a New York Stock Exchange membership for $525,000 a seat, the same price, and an increase of $30,000 from the last previously arranged transaction.

Bygrade Gets Allied Packers.

Announcement has been made of a plan for the sale of Allied Packers, Inc. to the Bygrade Food Products Corporation, which Bygrade Food Products Corporation will give Allied Packers bond holders cash and a marketable stock and permit stock holders, upon supplying part of the new cash required, to retain a considerable stock interest. The plan has been approved by directors of both companies. Bygrade and Allied Products stockholders will be asked to increase capital to 500,000 par shares and create an issue of $6,000,000 first and refunding mortgage bonds of which $5,000,000 will be issued to consummate this plan. The remaining $1,000,000 will be reserved for refunding existing mortgage bonds. Allied Packers stockholders will be permitted to buy at par $2,500,000 and the balance will be offered publicly.

Kennecott Copper.

Kennecott Copper is now on a basis and if there is no setback in the steel industry it may be considered for the annual dividend before the end of the year. Street has had it for some time. Management was selling Kennecott for the purpose of buying control of Bunker Hill understood that Newmont has a strong position in T. C. Salmon is well known some time ago that Kennecott is ready for the consolidation but Newmont is not sold to acquire T. C. & I.

Calumet and Arizona

New Cornelia is controlled by Calumet and Arizona, and a large block of former, according to recent reports, owned by Newmont. It is valued and Arizona rather conservatively at $8 a share annually. New Cornelia has been distributing $4 to the Arizona shareholders. Calumet and Arizona

Liquid Carbonic.

The annual report of the Liquid Carbonic Corporation for the year ended September 30 shows net profit of $1,230,367, an increase of $491,705 over 1927. This is equal to $7.05 a share on the 175,000 shares. Sales for the year were $9,987,029, a decrease of about 1 per cent compared with 1927. Outstanding bonds were reduced from $5,942,900 to $878,000 during the year.

Pathe Exchange.

Pathe Exchange Inc. under its new management shows a net profit for the period from April 1 to Sept. 14 of $65,358 compared with a loss of $415,389 for the previous 16 weeks.

Yellow Truck—Coach.

Yellow Truck has done little material since its sharp advance last September, in fact the stock has eased quite steadily during the intervening period. Offerings of shares were being advanced sharply by interests who were successful operators in Seats-Roebuck Sinclair Motor Products and other stocks. Those connected with having been accumulating the issue during the time in a manner which has not attracted any great attention. The effect of this buying should eventually make itself felt in the market.

International Paper.

International Paper Company did not make what the average trader would call a good report for the nine months ended September 30, but paper is not a stock that one acquainted with the situation would care to sell short for a long pull. It has been spending many millions in development of power and the expectation is to develop big earnings over the next few years. International Paper is now a company with assets of $370,000,000 compared with assets of $302,100,000 in 1924. When these assets begin to produce revenue double after charges and dividends should be turned into surpluses over night.

U. S. Steel at 79-80.

United States Steel Corporation's plants are operating at 79 to 80 per cent of capacity, off 1 per cent from a week ago and comparing with 85 per cent 2 weeks ago. Independents are operating at about 82 per cent against 84 per cent last week and 87 per cent 2 weeks ago. Average time last year for the steel was operating at 70 to 71 per cent and independents at 64 per cent of capacity.

Building Holds Gain.

New construction started in the 37 states east of the Rockies from January 1 through November 16, amounting to $5,939,000,000, shows an increase of almost $114,000,000 over the amount started in the first 11 months of last year, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. Contracts let on heavy building and engineering work in the seven months of last year, however, November 16, amounted to $81,967,800, a decline of 33 000,000 from the preceding week.

Nickel Plate Net Expands.

The Nickel Plate Railroad reported today net earnings increased to $5,142,940 in the past 10 months from $5,047,880 in the first 10 months of 1927, despite a falling off in gross revenue. The net operating income, or gross for the 10 months was $44,226,877 against $45,297,877 in the 1927 period, and net operating income was $7,725,491 compared to $8,031,643 a year ago.

North Central Texas Oil.

Net income of the North Central Texas Oil Company, Incorporated, in the third quarter was $61,113 against $50,621 in the preceding quarter and $45,979 in the first quarter.

Brown Shoe.

Brown Shoe Company and subsidiaries for the year ended October 31 reports net income of $1,451,757 equal to $4.50 a common share, compared with $1,880,821 in the previous year.

American Safety Razor.

American Safety Razor Company reports for nine months to September 29 profit of $924,593 after charges, but before federal taxes against $767,801 in the same period of 1927.

American Woolen.

An influx in orders in the few weeks prior to election has furnished American Woolen Company with the largest business in many months this year. As a result of these bookings operations of the mills are increasing rather rapidly and will shortly be at 75 per cent capacity against less than 40 per cent at the low level earlier in the year. Due to the low level of prices and the lateness of repeat orders American Woolen will probably be unable to avoid reporting a deficit for the calendar year 1928 but it should enter 1929 with a fair indent of orders and a manufacturing position that should produce a return of earning power. A great deal will depend on January operations.

Cotton Ginnings Larger.

Census Bureau reports running bales of cotton, counting round bales as halves and counting linters, ginned from the crop of 1928 prior to November 14 were 11,569,000 against ginnings to November 14, 1927 of 10,881,912. The weekly government weather and crop report says: "Picking the remaining cotton crop made good advance over the greater portion of the belt east of the Mississippi River especially in the northeast portion but over the northwestern part conditions were unfavorable and frequent and heavy rains delayed the harvest.

The year's crop was estimated by the Department of Agriculture on November 1 at 14,113,000 bales, and the indicated total to the end of October was estimated at 8,090,000 bales, and this factor caused many observers to recommend a switch from last-month issues with favorable earning situations.

Otis Steel Dividend Prospects.

J. Kulas, president of Otis Steel Company and Midland Steel Products Company, just returned from a brief trip abroad and reported that business in Europe is picking up at the rate of about 83.50 a common share, the common stock probably will be placed on a $2.50 or $3 dividend basis.

Increased Pay Is Urged For Our School Teachers

Committee Recommends Salary Based on Merit.

The Board of Public Education has referred to its committee on finance and administration, for consideration and report to the board, a solution to the vexing and long-standing problem of teachers' salaries. Prepared by the Citizens' Committee on Teachers' Salaries, it makes recommendations for a minimum salary and graded increases to a stipulated maximum for teachers in service under several schedules.

The committee which formulated the plan made merit, educational status, training, experience in educational work, years of service and conspicuous ability the bases of salary increases. This body, made up of prominent citizens of Pittsburgh, including Chancellor J. G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, and President Thomas S. Baker, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, made a long and exhaustive study of the matter. It presented its findings in such a compact but thoroughly detailed plan of administration of the salary phase of educational work, that President of the Board of Public Education Marcus Aaron described it as the greatest single contribution to the cause of education ever made by a group of laymen anywhere.

The committee recommends that there be an increase of $200, to a total of $2,200 a year for teachers in the elementary grade, the minimum salary in that classification to be $1,200 a year. Annually the lower salary teachers shall be eligible to increases of $100 a year until the automatic maximum of $2,200 a year is reached. Further increases, to the extent of $3,200 a year, are provided for not more than 45 per cent of the elementary teachers having reached the automatic maximum, this increase to be merited. This percentage is further divided so that 15 per cent will receive an increase to $2,400; 12 per cent, $2,600; 9 per cent, $2,800; 6 per cent, $3,000, and 3 per cent, $3,200, ability, experience and service to determine the level of "superior teaching."

The same plan is followed in other schedules having higher entrance rate of pay, higher automatic limits and higher advanced limits, based on merit, these being $3,800 under schedule B; $4,200, schedule C; comparative adjustment under schedule D, under which there are few employes, and $4,750, under schedule E, the classification of principals.

The committee, headed by A. W. Robertson, had to consider two basic factors. First was the right of the teachers to adequate payment. Second was the matter of taxation, for the citizen who must pay the bill was not ignored. It is estimated the plan will increase the salary list by $400,000 the first year the plan is in operation, and by $758,000, the sixth year, when it will be in full operation, an addition of about 9 per cent to the total paid for teaching. This, it is estimated, would require an additional three-fourths of one mill in taxation for school purposes.

Naturally, the committee, which has given a year to this valuable service to the community, feels that the public will be content to pay. As the 40 members of the committee, themselves taxpayers, find the increases recommended justified, and see in them the means of stimulating teachers to prepare themselves to merit the higher salaries, with better teaching the result, the public would be ungrateful if it did not indicate it is satisfied.

As President Aaron remarked, this report is epoch-making in the history of education. It provides that the teacher who is a good teacher be not kept at the same dead level of payment of one who merely is a teacher. Teachers who are inspired by the great work they perform with our children and reflect their inspiration in the zeal they display in the performance of their duties surely are our greatest benefactors. We cannot give them what their wonderful service merits, but surely we can give them that which will indicate we appreciate a task that in many cases means a life's devotion to somebody else's children.

The public should not be merely satisfied with the committee's work. It should be so thoroughly grateful that the members could feel a great unseen wave of community thankfulness.

Perhaps There Won't Be Any.

Those that became interested in Tammany during the campaign will be interested in the suggestion that Franklin D. Roosevelt is already discussed for the Democratic nomination in 1932.

His record includes fights against Tammany in the past, and his recent nomination and election, forced upon Tammany against its will, caused great bitterness.

However, if prosperity continues booming it will matter little whom the Democrats nominate in 1932.

And prosperity's outlook is promising. In the first eight months of this year, for instance, United States exports exceeded by $700,000 the total exports of 1927.

That means that American mechanics are drawing money from foreign countries and working under tariff protection from foreign competition. That sounds harsh to the free trader, but it means votes for the G. O. P.

Funny Prohibition

No Wonder Foreigners Laugh.

Lady Heath, British aviatrix, holding a world record, came here with a bottle of champagne for christening a new airship. Customs officials virtuously broke the bottle, poured its contents over the side of the steamer.

What difference had Lady Heath broken it over the airship?

At public and private dinners here Lady Heath will see champagne, whisky, etc., served indiscriminately, waiters and butlers openly breaking the law by order of their employers.

She will see "cocktail jackets" for women in good shops and realize that there is some hypocrisy about our prohibition.

You cannot change men's habits overnight against their will.

Tales That Are Told

A Similar Case

An argument was in progress as to whether it was correct to say that a certain hen was "sitting" or "setting," and, not being able to arrive at a definite decision, the club secretary decided to submit the problem to Farmer Giles.

The farmer was flattered in the extreme to have his opinion consulted, but even he did not know what reply to make.

"Well, friends," he began, "your question don't interest me a bit. What I want to know, when I hear a hen cackle, is whether she's laying or lying!"

Desperate

Bernard was rather a bashful lover, but that was only because he stuttered and felt very self-conscious about it.

One evening, when he had called on his sweetheart and mutely presented her with a box of chocolates, it suddenly dawned on him that neither of them had spoken for the last 15 minutes.

Frantically he tried to think of something to say, but even then he couldn't express himself.

"I—I—I say, honey, h-h-how's your mother?" he asked. "Not that I c-care a h-h-hoot, but it m-m-makes me talk."

A Man's Task

They sat silently for a long time; then the youth pulled his tie a little tighter and spoke, a little nervously.

"What are you thinking about?" he asked.

He knew he had to say something. It seemed expected of him.

The maiden turned an innocent eye upon him. Then she looked away, blushed, and moved uneasily in her chair.

"Never mind!" she answered sharply. "It's your business to propose, not mine!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Kids in the big cities learn all kinds of tricks. Some of them get to be great panhandlers. They make up all kinds of stories to get small change out of strangers.

Well, one of these kids was bawling by a sidewalk grating one day, and a kind-hearted fellow from out West came along and asked what was the matter.

"Oh, I lost my nickel down in that hole," he says, "and my dad will give me an awful beating for losing it."

"Well," says the stranger, "here's a nickel. Now run along."

But the kid bawled harder than ever after he got the nickel.

"What's the matter now?" says the man from out West.

"Oh, my dad sure will give it to me now if I ever tell him what happened! I might just as well have had a quarter out of such an easy mark!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Ellene wants a career.

Not just a regular job. Anyone can get a regular job. But Ellene's different. Ellene has a Talent. A Talent for Writing. Ever since she was a little bit of a girl they've printed her pieces in the Greenville News. And last year she had a story accepted in a real magazine. It isn't a very big magazine, but it's real—and of course if you've had a story accepted in a real magazine you can't consider a regular job. You know you're meant for Bigger Things.

So, although Ellene has had several chances to ordinary work, she has turned them all down—the folks say it's pretty tough on the family to have a great big girl of 25 lying around the house idle. But Ellene doesn't care what they say. She's determined to have that Career. But how's she going to get it? How do Talented People get a chance to show the world what they can do? How do Big Writers get to be Big Writers? That's what Ellene wants to know. And I've been picked to break the bad news to her.

Big writers don't get to be big writers by turning down regular jobs, Ellene, and waiting until the world comes back with a lot of sweet kisses and important contracts. The world isn't as excited as that over Talent. For Talent isn't nearly as rare as you think, girlie. It grows on many bushes. Any editor can pick up job-lots of it mighty cheap.

Talent, however great, won't get you very far by itself. It's a handy thing to have, but, at best, it's only about 50 per cent of the equipment necessary for success. Many people, indeed, have succeeded with almost no talent. How? THEY CRASHED THE GATE!

They were aggressive. They would not be denied. They didn't wait for opportunity to come to them. They went out and made opportunities for themselves. They made them, not by merely writing. They made them by clerking in groceries, working in mines, driving laundry vans, stevedoring on docks, tending babies, cooking hash. Some of the greatest women writers achieved success while doing all the work in a poorly equipped home and bringing up a family of children. Some of the most famous men writers did their writing after drudging long hours on farms or in factories.

They didn't wait for some one to come along and hand them Their Chance on a silver platter. If they had, they'd have waited until doomsday. THEY PROVED THEY WERE WRITERS BY FIRST PROVING THEY WERE ENERGETIC, RESOURCEFUL HUMAN BEINGS.

THEY LEARNED TO WRITE WHILE THEY WERE LEARNING TO LIVE.

And, believe me, Ellene, unless you have learned how to live you can't know how to write. For you can't substitute pretty words for service scars.

So, snap out of your dream, my dear, and begin to act regular. Stop sponging off ma and dad and grab the first job that comes along. Work like an honest citizen for your three squares per day, and when night comes write, Write, WRITE. That's how Big Writers get to be Big Writers.

ROUND THE WORLD

By Garrett P. Serviss

"If two persons started to go round the earth, one east the other west, which would gain 24 hours? The one going east, wouldn't he?
—Jack R. Tyalor Carteret, N. J."

Yes, it would be the one going east. But you ask why. It is because time is relative. Our idea of time arises from the daily rotation of the earth, bringing the sun back to the meridian once every 24 hours. While the day is thus a natural period of time, the hours are purely artificial sub-divisions of that period. As there are 360 degrees of longitude in the circuit of the earth, every hour of time (as measured by the real rotations of the earth on its axis) corresponds with 15 degrees of longitude. That gives just 24 hours in the 360 degrees of circuit.

For those who stay at home there is only one time, determined by the successive arrivals of the sun on the meridian, or noon line. But for travelers, there are as many different times as there are meridians that they cross in going either east or west. Suppose you go east. Then you are traveling with the rotation of the earth, and so moving to meet the sun. When you have gone 15 degrees east, the sun will arrive at the meridian one hour before it arrives at the meridian of the place you started from. Consequently, by your change of longitude, you will have gained one hour on the time at home. If your watch continues to run on home time, it will be one hour behind the local time shown by the clock on your ship, which is regulated each day to the actual time of the sun's crossing of the meridian.

And if you continue to travel around the earth eastward, going now by ship and now by car or rail, or an elephant's back, like Jules Verne's hero, "Phileas Fogg," when you have made the whole 360-degree circuit, and reached home again, you will have gained one hour for every 15 degrees, or just 24 hours in all. If your watch has not varied from its original setting it will still correspond on its dial, i. e., in hour and minute, with the clocks at home. But you will find that your gain of 24 hours is recorded in the calendar, for by your reckoning the day of the week, as well as the monthly date, will be one day ahead of the home reckoning. In other words, by your unchanging watch, the sun has crossed the meridian once more for you than for your neighbors who remained at home. And this is independent of the duration of your trip. Whether you go round the world in one day, or one year, or 10 years, the total apparent gain of time is 24 hours.

If you should go around the other way, i. e., westward, you would lose a day, since then you would be traveling away from the sun, and thus lengthening the interval from noon to noon. But suppose, starting at noon, you traveled westward just as fast as the earth rotates eastward; then you would keep the sun perpetually on the meridian, or have perpetual noon. There would be no change of day or date for you, but for the inhabitants of the various lands you have passed through, days and nights would follow their regular course. Then you would begin to wonder, perhaps, at something which you had never thought of before. For if it was Monday when you started it would still be Monday (for you) when you had got around home, but there it would be Tuesday.

How can this happen? Where and how does the date change? The answer must be brief: By general convention the date changes on the one hundred and eightieth meridian from Greenwich, i. e., virtually in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, where there are no inhabitants to be troubled by a conflict of dates.

Bible Passages

In God's Hand

(Ecclesiastes 9; 1-10).

For all this I considered in my heart even to declare all this, that the righteous, and the wise, and their works, are in the hand of God: no man knoweth either love or hatred by all that is before them.

All things come alike to all: there is one event to the righteous, and to the wicked; to the good and to the clean, and to the unclean; to him that sacrificeth, and to him that sacrificeth not: as is the good, so is the sinner; and he that sweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

This is an evil among all things that are done under the sun, that there is one event unto all: yea, also the heart of the sons of men is full of evil, and madness is in their heart while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

For to him that is joined to all the living there is hope: for a living dog is better than a dead lion.

For the living know that they shall die: but the dead know not any thing, neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them is forgotten.

Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy, is now perished; neither have they any more a portion for ever in any thing that is done under the sun.

Go thy way, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart; for God now accepteth thy works.

Let thy garments be always white; and let thy head lack no ointment.

Live joyfully with the wife whom thou lovest all the days of the life of thy vanity, which he hath given thee under the sun, all the days of thy vanity: for that is thy portion in this life, and in the labour which thou takest under the sun.

Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest.

The Unknown

Oh, never a smoke-wreathed funnel slips
Over the world's far rim,
But it goes with the old, old lure of ships
Into those regions dim.

There is never an unscaled mountain peak
But it beckons through cloud and mist
To the valiant souls that forever seek
With the trackless ways a tryst.

For a challenge lies in the heights unwon,
In the seas unsailed it waits,
And till Earth flames up like the burning sun
Men will storm at the unknown gates!

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McIntyre

New York, Nov. 21.—The old Fulton street "deadline" for crooks is still maintained, at least in theory. It was established by the picturesque Inspector Byrnes many years ago, and any known criminal found below the line was yanked to headquarters.

The idea was to keep nimble-fingered and safe-blowing gentlemen away from the mosques and minarets of the financial zone. There are ex-crooks who have "gone straight" and proved their worth who are given special permission to cross the line.

Indeed, two are reported established in business and are proof the criminal does see the error of his ways. Uptown there is a fellow once handy with the "soup, soap and blanket" who has an office force composed entirely of those who have done their "stretches" and are now law-abiding.

He is a regular visitor to a Bowery mission and contributes heavily to its support. There is a police theory that a man may make a misstep twice and still become a useful member of society. But the third time offender is regarded as hopeless.

Countless police data confirms this reasoning. Consequently, when a third termer trespasses the district he is in for a lot of explaining and perhaps another voyage up the Hudson. Fulton street is well patroled by lookouts from Central Office.

They loiter about shop windows, displaying an air of indifference while scanning the sea of faces for the seasoned crook. Many of them are the so-called "camera eyes" of the department who retain a photographic memory of a criminal for many years.

The crook is usually vainglorious. As the murderers returns to the scene of his crime, he likes to revisit the scene of his triumph. One of the most carefully policed sections south of Fulton is Maiden Lane, the great diamond and jewelry district.

Police headquarters seem haunted by wretched human shadows. In the halls are always harried men and women wondering over the why of retribution. It is difficult to loiter around the corridors and not be convinced crime as a calling is a miserable affair.

Around nearly every police headquarters is an odd type—generally a wizened old man in a castoff blue uniform who seems to revel in an authority he does not have. They sweep, scrub and run errands for prisoners and are known as Pats and Mikes. The seamy side of life has not hardened them. They are kindly and extremely garrulous.

The dressing room of a theatrical star is being made over entirely of mirrored panels, including the ceiling. I've often ached to know—don't tell me, I'll guess—why stage artists seem constantly to require their mirrored reflections on stage and off. You can keep almost all of them content for hours at a stupid party by seating them within range of a looking glass. Indeed, I believe an actress shipwrecked on a deserted isle with only a hand mirror would not be frightfully bored.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

We use the word Dodo to indicate one whose ideas were ancient when Nero was in the perambulator.

But go and fill your optics with a real Dodo. There is one in New York's Museum of Natural History.

Just a glimpse of that bunch of inanimate immobility will put your old Dodo expression in italics.

To look at the beast of a bird you wonder that it ever lived 15 minutes in this world where the fittest survive. It is built like a bushel basket and you couldn't class its feet with those of Cinderella nor its head with that of Venus.

Wild hogs overran its habitat some 250 years ago and, since it had no wings and could not negotiate a Lindy curve gracefully, it soon earned the opprobious epithet, "extinct."

The Dodo is not the only species of the genus conservative. There is the mossback and the troglodyte which last dwelt in caves in the days when the gods thronged on Olympus.

The Dodo is shocked and shivered every time the fat and wobbly old world sets one foot ahead of the other.

And it matters not what the step may be—whether theological, industrial, economic, social, scientific or whatnot.

When the ballot for the lady was proposed friend Dodo tore his ash-colored locks and declared it would mean a deluge of Reno romances and free love liaisons.

When our Uncle Sammy smashed his flask on the rocks of the Eighteenth Amendment the Dodo was sure it would dynamite all industry and girdle the earth with a sash of unemployed men.

When the first bathtubs came, less than a century since, there were even M. D. Dodos who warned against too frequent immersions. Several cities backed up the Dodos with city ordinances making bathtubs a misdemeanor.

Today the Dodo is flapping his imaginary wings and screeching like an unbalanced loon because the progressive folks have the temerity to anticipate a warless world.

Well, the Dodo is like the purple cow; we'd rather see one than be one.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A righteous looking lady with a husband whom she parked on the baggage in front of the gate to the train shed. She worried two porters, made one hold her dog, the other guard her baggage and her husband, while she managed to change her reservations. It took several trips to the train to get all the baggage in. When the hour of agony was over she handed one porter a dime and the other 15 cents, to say nothing of the look she threw in.

Then she gave her opinion of porters who took one's money without lifting their caps and saying, "thank you."

"But it's all right with me," said the black man, grinning, "I jes' thank the Lord I ain't married to her."

A woman never should wear strange clothes to attract attention unless she looks very attractive in them. Being different isn't enough.

I saw an extremely good-looking girl the other night in a Russian cafe in New York, with her hair about three inches longer than the ordinary bob. She had it tied to her neck with a ribbon, which ended in a bow under her chin. On top of her head her hair looked as if it were glued down. And in spite of all this she was very pretty, and much admired, as an exhibition.

It was a little child, maybe 4 years old. The mother, while older, physically, had very little edge on the child, mentally. They occupied a section in the center of the Pullman car, with nice quiet people scattered about in other seats.

"Yes, dear, that's a car-car. Baby like the car-cars? Baby want to see car-car start? (Always in a piping voice). The car-car will start in two minutes, darling. Yes, the car-cars go at the same time, dear. Yes, the car-cars get to Chicago at the same minute."

"Car-car."

"Yes, dear, these are car-cars."

"A drink? All right baby stay here and mama will get her a drink in the car-car fountain. Yes, dear, the man runs the car-car, up front in the engine."

Gradually all the passengers disappeared into the observation car, or out on the back platform where there were lots of cinders and it was cold.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you a member of a certain clique in your service club?

At each meeting do you and these others manage to sit at the same table?

You have chosen these men because you like them better than others.

You are not anxious to get acquainted with other men.

Maybe the only reason why you do not care for them so much is because you do not know them.

Perhaps you might not derive so much in benefit from others as you do from your chosen pals, but that is really a question.

At least you might have added something interesting to lives more drab than yours, and is that not worth while?

You are supposed to entertain a strong friendly feeling for all the men who you take into your club.

You are expected to show an interest in their welfare.

Do you follow through as you should?

Isn't it a fact that you are selfish and that you desire to get the most personal pleasure out of your club rather than do something for its members?

Haven't you lost sight of what is supposed to be one of the real objects of club membership?
